KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. ALEX CLOUTIER

A little different in preparation from the usual fruit cake in that it is partly mixed the night before baking time and completed the next morning, is this rich, delectable holiday dessert. Not being a fancier of spicy fruitcake myself, this really appeals to me, and Mrs. Cloutier, known by reputation as one of the outstanding cooks of the community, calls it "simply out of this world."

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

- ½ cup butter
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 2 whole eggs
- ½ cup thick sour cream (not the commercial variety)
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ lb. walnuts mixed with other nuts
- ½ lb. currants
- 1 small package dates
- ½ lb. fruitcake mix
- 1 small pkg. red cherries
- 1 glass clear jelly (any flavor)
- 2 cups flour
- ¼ cup wine or brandy (this may be omitted, but adds a lot to the flavor and mellowness)
- pinch of salt

Keep out 1½ cups of the flour. Mix the other ingredients, (except the soda) with ½ cup of the flour. Let stand overnight. Next morning, add the remaining flour (1½ cups) in which the soda has been mixed. Bake in two greased loaf pans 2 hours at 275 degrees. When done, remove from pan and cool on rack. Soak a clean cloth in brandy or wine and wrap the cake in this cloth. Wrap in foil and set aside to mellow.

This is a treasured recipe, and Mrs. Cloutier was most gracious to give it to us. "Some people don't like to share their favorites, but I felt that this is just so good, I couldn't be selfish about it," she said. It is something that has been around as a tradition for many years, apparently, and has its derivation in Connecticut.

Our housewife lives at 617 S. Kendall Ave. She is a member of St. Bernard's Guild, American Legion auxiliary and Lady Trainmen. At present she is "real busy" dressing up the home she has just bought, getting it ready for Christmas. The late Mr. Cloutier was a former railroad conductor. He passed away three years ago.

Mrs. Cloutier has one daughter, Gloria, married, and living in Grafton, N. D., and a son, Arthur, who is now at home after two years in the Army. Gloria has provided her with three "adorable" granddaughters, the proud grandmother told us.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Are you short on cash for Christmas gifts? If so, make them yourself.

Family, friends and relatives—all will appreciate a gift you have made yourself. And the gift you create is more appropriate and personal and can be less costly than what you might buy. Many such gifts will satisfy 4-H project requirements at the same time.

Gifts for the home, for homemakers and for children fit well with the home improvement-family living project. You might give toddlers a nest of four or five painted cans, painted clothespin toys, a toy box on rollers, bright colored spool chains or stuffed toys made from your own designs or from commercial patterns. Always use lead-free paint. And be sure to avoid all sharp edges.

Bulletin boards and recipe files with holders are handy items for the kitchen. Or put your sewing ability to work on aprons for your mother and other homemakers.

Mothers also appreciate handmade dishtowels, hand towels, tablecloths, placemats and napkins. You can choose from a wide variety of materials—from purchased linen to well-washed feed or flour sacks. Apply any decoration sparingly and follow the shape or the line of the cloth or towel. Simple stitchery, applique or fringing gives a finished but not a fussy look to your gifts.

Helps for laundry, pressing and cleaning are useful and inexpensive presents for homemakers. A clothespin bag, laundry bag or shoe bag involves only simple sewing with sturdy material like denim or ticking. Bias seam tape gives a trim, easy finish to edges. For homemakers who have no pressing ham or "pounder" these are two more practical gifts to make.

Fathers always enjoy home cooking and baking. If homemade bread is a favorite of your father's, why not give him a loaf of holiday bread at Christmas? You may even want to include coupons "redeemable" for another loaf each month of the year. Or do the same with pies, cakes or cookies. Candies, fruit cakes and fruit breads wrapped in colored cellophane make festive gifts for relatives, neighbors and teachers.

Here's a thought. Design your own wrapping paper for the crowning touch. Finger painting is about the quickest technique; stencils produce more detailed Christmas motifs. You may want to cut squares of your paper for matching cards.

So—4-H'ers, here is the chance to make cheap Christmas gifts and get credit for them on your Home Improvement Family Living project. Good luck!

Oil Refinery Now in Use in Alaska

Second Major Oil Field Discovered Last Summer

The discovery of Alaska's second major oilfield and the completion of its first modern refinery have emphasized the growing importance of the petroleum industry to the young state's economy.

The new discovery was made late this summer in the Cook Inlet, 60 miles southeast of Anchorage and 22 miles west of the first field on the Kenai Peninsula which, in 1957, made Alaska a significant oil producing state.

About the same time the new field was announced, a $10 million refinery went "on stream" near Kenai with a capacity of 20,000 barrels a day.

The petroleum industry has spent more than $300 million looking for and producing oil and gas in Alaska since the 1957 discovery. In 1962 alone the state produced more than 10 million barrels, with a value of some $31 million.

Since statehood, Alaska's treasury has rolled heavily on income from the sale of oil leases. In 1962 a University of Alaska economist, who made several surveys of state finances, said: "We'd have been close to bankruptcy if it had not been for last year's oil leases."

Radio Speaking Contest for 4H Members Offered

Inter-Religious and Inter-Racial Problems Are Topics for Talks

"What is my responsibility in bettering inter-racial and inter-religious understanding?" Minnesota 4-H club members will present their answers to this question in the 22nd annual statewide radio speaking contest during January through March.

Last year more than 1,000 Minnesota 4-H'ers participated in local competitions arranged under direction of club leaders and county extension agents.

All county contests must be held by February 15, according to the state 4-H club office at the University of Minnesota. County winners will receive trips to district contests held between February 15 and March 7. Top speakers from this level will be awarded trips to the state finals, March 23-24, on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

All 4-H'ers are invited to enter their local or county radio speaking events if they are over 14 years of age but over 21 years on January 1, 1964.

Fred Heck, Marshall county soil conservation agent, urges each 4-H club to have at least one representative in the event. Former state and reserve state champions are not eligible.

The Minnesota Agricultural Extension service and the Jewish community Relations council of Minnesota co-sponsor the competition. Awards are given by the Jewish council.

Further information of these contests may be obtained from the county extension office.

Federal Board Would Ease out Rail Firemen

The long strike-threatened railroad dispute rolled toward the courts last week and a new legal tangle over an arbitration ruling permitting the elimination of thousands of firemen's jobs.

Two of the unions announced they will challenge the arbitration decision and its legal basis in the courts.

Thus a new snarl appeared to be added to the four-year dispute, and negotiations on what Congress figured were secondary also have bogged down. Each side blamed the other for the lack of progress in the talks, which cover such matters as wages.

The arbitration board had two issues to deal with—the firemen's jobs and the size of train crews. It ruled that the carriers can gradually eliminate as unnecessary 90 per cent of the firemen on diesel fright and yard engines—about 30,000 jobs.

The train crew issue was turned back to the parties for further negotiations. The board, however, provided machinery for binding decisions on a local basis, supervised by the National Mediation Board, in situations where agreements can't be reached.

The arbitration award, as Congress wrote the law, would be binding for two years.

But other provisions of the law expire Feb. 25 and could lead to a new strike threat if there is no agreement on other issues such as wages.

Union spokesman H. E. Gilbert said the railroads' proposal to "cut pay 33 and one-third per cent" by changing the wage structure is not a secondary issue to the unions.

Congress left wages and some proposed work rules changes to be settled by negotiations between the unions and the 195 railroads involved in the dispute.

Gilbert told J. E. Wolfe, chief railroad negotiator, he hoped Wolfe would now "get down to negotiations" to eliminate any renewal of a strike threat.

Wolfe replied that if the unions did not cooperate in the negotiations, "we will be back where we were in August with the nation disturbed."

Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Wolfe are members of the arbitration board.

Alcoholism Listed Among Four Major Health Threats

Alcoholism Information Week Is Being Held To Emphasize Health Danger

Alcoholism Information Week, an educational and informational campaign emphasizing that alcoholism is a treatable disease, is being observed in Minnesota and throughout the nation December 1-7. Alchoholism is recognized as one of the nation's four major health threats. Others are cancer, heart disease and mental illness.

"In the United States, there are an estimated 5,000,000 alcoholics," said Dr. A. B. Rosenfield, director, division of special services, Minnesota Department of Health. "About 64,000 alcoholics live in Minnesota, half of them in the Twin Cities area," he said.

He urged all citizens to support the nationwide program to alert people to the dangers of alcoholism. "Alcoholism is a treatable disease which ranks among the major health threats," Dr. Rosenfield said.

Primary purpose of the annual alcoholism information campaign is to motivate citizens to become familiar with available community services, and to understand the nature of alcoholism in an effort to prevent those who drink from becoming alcoholics and to provide help to problem drinkers.

Alcoholism Information Week is sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Health, St. Paul Area Public Health Council, Minnesota Council on Alcohol Problems and the Information and Referral Resource for Problem Drinkers, St. Paul.

Information concerning alcoholism treatment facilities or education material may be obtained from the following: local chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, Minnesota Department of Health, Minnesota Council on Alcohol Problems, Information and Referral Resource for Problem Drinkers, St. Paul (Center for Problem Drinking, Miller Memorial Hospital, Duluth), and any one of the 17 community mental health centers located throughout the state.

Sheep Flocks in Marshall County Get Scabies Check

One-tenth of Flocks Will Be Inspected On Random Basis in 1964

Minnesota's sheep industry is undergoing a check this winter to maintain its recently-earned status as free from scabies. All flocks in the southern tier of counties, bordering Iowa, will be checked by state and federal authorities, according to Raymond B. Solac, extension veterinarian at the University of Minnesota.

A third of the flocks will be reinspected in the second and third tier of counties in southern Minnesota. These include Lincoln, Lyon, Redwood, Brown, Nicollet, Le Sueur, Rice, Goodhue, Wabasha, Pipestone, Murray, Cottowood, Watonwan, Blue Earth, Waseca, Steele, Dodge, Olmsted and Winona counties.

In all remaining counties of the state, one-tenth of the flocks will be reinspected. Marshall county will be included in this group, reports Martin Kasperson, county agent. Except for the southern tier of counties, the flocks for inspection will be selected at random.

The heavier check in the southern counties is based on the fact that Iowa is the only state bordering Minnesota that does not have scabies-free status. Any flocks found infested with scabies will be dipped at no expense to the owner.

As part of the scabies surveillance program this winter, all sheep flocks moving through auction markets and public stockyards will be checked for scabies.

Minnesota received scabie free status June 14, 1963, following an intensive inspection program that started in December, 1962, and involved inspection of nearly 18,000 flocks in the state. Only 15 flocks were found to be scabie infected.

Cooperating in the total program were the University's Agricultural Extension service, vocational agricultural instructors, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, the Minnesota Livestock Sanitary board, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Peace Corps Tests Here on Saturday

Placement Tests Slated at Postoffice in TRF

The Peace Corps has announced that Saturday, December 7 is the last opportunity this year to take the Placement Test and qualify for the spring training programs. The non-competitive aptitude tests will be administered in this area at the Thief River Falls post office beginning at 8:30 a.m.

For most applicants, the Placement Test will take about one and a half hours. Those who claim a knowledge of Spanish or French will be asked to take an additional one-hour language achievement test.

To become a Volunteer, an applicant must not only take the test but submit a Peace Corps Questoinnaire. Those who have not done so will be asked to complete one immediately after the testing. No applicant may take the test for a second time without special authority from the Peace Corps.

There are no passing or failing marks on the Placement Test. The scores are used, along with criteria, to aid in the selection process. They help the Peace Corps to place prospective volunteers in the most appropriate overseas assignments. The Placement Test consists of a 30-minute general aptitude test and another of the same length on modern language aptitude. No knowledge of a foreign language is required.

A college education is not required. To qualify to take the placement test applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples are eligible if both qualify and have no dependents under 18.

OUR NATION'S PRIDE in an advanced civilization received a severe set-back last week-end in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the chain of events which followed. The brutal slaying of a Dallas police officer and the equally brutal murder of the chief suspect in the assassination make a person wonder if civilization has progressed as far as we would like to believe.

An act such as the one which happened on Friday is certainly of world-shaking consequence because of the nature of the office which the victim held. The shock and impact of the act was sharpened by the age of the President and the closeness the nation felt to him and his family due to present day news media. Mingled with the significance of the shooting and the familiarity of the victim was a feeling of remorse over the absolute uselessness of it all.

Two hours after the assassination was completed, the nation had a new President. Within short hours after that the new President had met with key national leaders. Except for a demoralized atmosphere, the ship of state was back on an even keel by the same evening. In half a day the laws of the land had mended the breach opened by the removal of the holder of the nation's most significant office.

Television commentators, some of them outspoken critics of the victim and his policies prior to the shooting, competed among themselves with wordy eulogies, straining their vocabularies for superlative adjectives. They pried, while the nation watched, into what should well have been the private moments of his wife and family. For some reason, at least to me, the semi-commercialism of a tragic event seemed almost immoral.

I will now be the duty of time to heal the wounds of the President's family and of the nation. It will also be the duty of time and students of history to assess the impact which the life of this man had upon the nation and the world. The passing of time and the judgment of historians will discount emotions which frequently cloud vision.

This I believe to be true: That John F. Kennedy was a determined man, dedicated to his country and devoted to using his power to accomplish the ends he believed best for it: that his vitality in office was a challenge to his followers; that he carried well the dignity of his important office; that his youth and his personality had a strong personal appeal; that his absence in the Washington political scene will be evident; and that his family has suffered an utterly undeserved loss.

We often hear of man's inhumanity to man—and the events surrounding the assassination are graphic examples. We mourn the untimely death of the President of the United States—we are humiliated by a return to barbarism in our nation—and we are mindful that our nation can never be held above criticism from other countries which we are tempted to consider backward of inferior.

There may be those who would take issue with some of the above statements—and that would be no more than right. Divergence of opinion, and the right to express it, is another of our priceless American heritages.

Some words are often misunderstood. Take for instance the man who asked for the manager of a store and told him, "I came in because I read your ad for a man to retail canaries." "Are you interested in the job," the manager asked. "No," the man replied, "I'm just curious about how the canaries lost their tails."

"My goodness, what an ugly baby," exclaimed the conductor as a woman and child entered the bus. "I don't think I have ever seen an uglier child." Very upset, the mother told the conductor she would report him to the inspector.

When the inspector arrived, the woman explained, I wish to report that conductor. He was extremely rude to me." "Very well, madam, write down his number and the complaint you wish to make," the inspector obliged.

"I haven't any paper or a pencil," she replied. "Here you are," said the inspector, handing her a notebook and a pencil. "You write it down while I hold the monkey."

"A man asked to define the essential characteristics of a gentleman—using the term in its widest sense—would presumably reply, "The will to put himself in the place of others; the horror of forcing others into positions from which he would himself recoil; the power to do what seems to him to be right, without considering what others may say or think."

The Flaps Win

We were dangerously close to a bloody war here at home recently. Down in Washington there was a tough argument between the Army and the Marine Corps. It had to do with pocket flaps on trousers. Top brass in both branches of the military service had agreed on all other specifications for the tropical wool trousers worn by the men in both branches of the service.

But, according to the Wall Street Journal, the Marines insisted on flaps covering the hip pockets while the Army wanted their pockets flapless. The problem was first referred to the General Accounting Office and then to the General Services Administration. From there it went directly to Defense Secretary McNamara where the decision was made in favor of the Marines. Flaps will be added at an additional cost of $68,000. All of which caused the Journal to wonder:

> "It's a small matter, of course, but it may make some taxpayers wonder how many other $68,000 bits of waste may be hiding in the creases of the Pentagon's $50 billion-plus budget. And helping to keep their pockets so empty they have no need for flaps."

The New Jersey Vote

In a recent election New Jersey voters rejected a proposed $750 million bond issue that would build many new schools, hospitals, highways and other facilities immediately—at no additional cost in terms of taxes. The financing would be painless, the voters were assured.

New Jersey has a toll road that has been paying its own way. In another ten years it will be out of debt. At that time the receipts could be applied on the new obligation and presto, in another century the $750 million bond issue would be paid in full.

But the idea didn't appeal to the voters of New Jersey who may have been influenced by the fact that the new obligation would cost an additional $500 million in interest. Some of them may have concluded that the toll road revenue would still be available and the improvement program could be adopted on a gradual, pay-as-you-go basis. There still are some old-fashioned people who think that way.

It is comforting to know that there still are people who see some merit in the idea of living within their means. The New Jersey vote encourages the hope that our nation is at long last reversing a dangerous trend.

We Are Hopeful

In his short talk before the joint session of Congress President Johnson said the things he was generally expected to say. It was larely a tribute to his predecessor with unqualified endorsement of everything President Kennedy had asked for. He recognized the law-making body as an independent branch of the government and expressed his confidence in both the ability and the integrity of the members of Congress. He said what those who knew him best, expected him to say.

What he said was both interesting and proper, but it probably did not reveal the real thinking of the President on the basic questions with which Congress is struggling. Our guess is that he actually is more conservative than his talk would indicate.

He was elected to Congress back in the New Deal days as a very liberal liberal. Being asked recently if he considered himself to be as liberal now as he was then, he answered in a typical Lyndon Johnson fashion. "You know," he said, "as a normal man gets older he becomes more prudent."

We will be surprised, as well as disappointed, if President Johnson doesn't prove to be a conservative liberal who recognizes the fact that we cannot spend ourselves rich and that we must live within our means.

One of the first official acts of the new President was to sign a bill that would boost our debt limit substantially again. He had no alternative. This was a problem that he inherited, and the mismanagement that made this action necessary was not his responsibility. He has expressed his concern about the stability of the American dollar. At the present time, according to latest reports, we have a 36 cent dollar.

President Johnson is a man of the business world, handy with a sharp pencil, and he understands, we are sure, the danger that lies ahead of us in the possible collapse of our economy. That is a far more important problem that the race issue or any welfare-state program.

Good management of any unit of our economy, whether it be a home, a business, a farm, a cooperative organization, or any unit of government at any level, must, at times, do things that are unpleasant and unpopular. There is no place for spendthrift management in any unit of our economy and spendthrift management leads only to hardship and unpleasant adjustments back to sound practices.

We are sure that the aging, and now more prudent, Lyndon Johnson understands these disagreeable facts of life. We are hopeful that he will have the courage to make some of the unpopular decisions that will be necessary if we are to restore the health of our economy before it is too late.

Another Surplus

According to Defense Secretary McNamara we now have a surplus of long-range nuclear missiles. He suggests that continued increase in the stockpile would add nothing to national security. Isn't that a terrible situation?

This program has been costing us nearly $7 billion a year, and a cut-back in production is going to adversely effect economic conditions in many defense industry centers. For Secretary McNamara this seems to be a very serious problem.

Well, maybe this would justify a little tax reduction that the dreamers have told us is so essential to our salvation. They tell us that we should reduce taxes and increase spending, building up bigger deficits and a much larger national debt.

Maybe by stopping the production of nuclear missiles that we do not need, we can reduce taxes without increasin the national debt. It is an inerestitng alternative that probably deserves some consideration. We are glad to refer this to Senator Humphrey.

And in doing so we would like to suggest to Senator Humphrey that he suggest to Secretary McNamarna that it might be in the best interests of international understanding and ultimate peace if the spokesman for the war department would be a little less belligerent in his weekly announcements that we are now prepared to conquer the world.

An Authority Speaks

The noted Dr. Albert Schwietzer who has sptnt most of his life in Africa as a medical missionary, is a man of many interesting opinions. Recently interviewed by Playboy in his remote hospital in the jungles of French Equatorial Africa, he answered many direct questions not only pertaining to his own experiences and achievements but to matters of inernational interest.

Especially interesting were his observations about the United Nations' activities in Africa and especially in the Congo where our country has been providing both money and leadership. The 88 year old Doctor who has spent the last 50 years of his life in the African tropics should know whereof he speaks. Asked about the problems of the Congo, a subject about which he has been quoted before, he stated:

> "I spoke out on the Congo because it is an important matter and I was horrified to see what was happening. The Congo has always been a mess, ever since the days of King Leopold. It is altogether too big, too artificial a creation of the Europeans of the 19th century ever to survive as a single entity, a complete and living country.
> "Adoula is not in control. Not by any means. The Congo is cracking and disintegrating, and nothing anyone can do can hold it toether indefinitely. Nor should it be held together. It is doomed by its own artificiality. It is strange but these things do not seem to worry other people.
> The United States, for example, is complusively pouring money into such a country. Why? After all, this is not just token aid, not just the sort of money to show dispassionate good will. It is vast sums of money, and huge assemblies of equipment which are involved. I can only think that this is being done because the United States has this fixed idea, this obsession, that if it does not flood Africa with money, then all Africans will immediately become Communists. But, my friend, Africans will never become Communists. Because Communism is too artificial—too much like the Congo itself in a way—too much an affair of foreign disciplines which are totally alien to the African spirit.
> "No, no, Communism is not for Africa—certainly not the Communism people comprehend in other parts of he world.
> "Time will certainly bring a solution suitable to the African himself; and that solution will come all the quicker if the pressures tugging the Africans this way and that are removed. The solution will not come with stupidities such as the United Nations' intervention in Katanga."

Dr. Schwitzer's views on the Congo are based on the size of the country that was organied as a Belgian colony. It is a vast area, extending over 904,000 square miles, more than three times the size of the state of Texas. Most of the area is undeveloped jungle, inhabited by native tribes that have little in common, and no common language, and among most of whom there are no means of communication except by rivers and streams. Obviously the United Nations plan for a United Congo at this time is as impossible as Dr. Schweitzer says it is.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning."

—James Russell Lowell

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

At the funeral of one of the richest men in town, an obviously poor man wept the loudest, longest and most hysterically. A sympathetic bystander asked him: "Were you a close relative?"

"No," sobbed the man. "That's why I'm weeping."

Wool Growers Urged To Keep Records for Incentive Payments

Wool growers who market their lambs in the fall should remember to keep adequate records of their sales so that they will be able to make proper applications for paymnt under the wool incentive program, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The sales record for lambs sold should include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number of liveweight lambs sold, plus the description "unshorn". Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn, to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before selling.

The chairman also reminds growers that current marketings of wool and lamb through Dec. 31, 1963, will qualify for incentive payments under the wool program for the 1963 marketing year. (In previous years, the marketing year ended March 31). Beginning in 1964, the marketing year will be the calendar year.

Growers are urged to file their applications for payment, supported by the required sales documents, with the ASCS county office as soon as possible after their fall sales are completed. While the final date to apply for payments in 1963 marketings will be January 31 of next year—covering marketings of wool and lambs from April 1, 1963, through Dec. 31, 1963—an application may be submitted at any time between now and then.

Knutson said that lamb feeders particularly should keep accurate records which will establish the length of time they have owned lambs on which they apply for payment. Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership.

Fertile Quint Loses to Prowlers 74 to 42

Coach Jack Junker's basketball Prowlers, shooting at an encouraging 41 per cent from the field during the first half, rolled up a 39 to 17 lead over coach Karl Groth's Fertile Falcons in a season-opening game played here Saturday night. The Prowlers outpointed their smaller opponents, 35 to 25, in the second half to mark up a 74 to 42 win.

The Prowlers will move into District 31 competition on Friday night, Dec. 6, when they travel to Warren for a game against coach Irv St. John's Ponies.

From Gary Hagen's game-opening field goal, dropped into the vest basket, the Prowlers had control of Saturday night's game against the Fertile Falcons. The Prowlers exhibiting well-balanced scoring, sprinted into a 24 to 8 lead in the first period of play. Hagen scored four points, Rich Nelson tallied three points, Bob Olson scored four points, Mark Steen notched five points, Rick Jensen scored a pair of field goals, and Mark Anderson a field goal and pair of gift tosses.

Ken Larson, a veteran forward, missed Saturday night's opener as he was enroute to Chicago and the annual 4-H gathering. Larson will be available for Friday night's game at Warren.

The Prowlers had a considerable advantage physically over the Fertile club, and this advantage was particularly noticeable off the offensive board, with Olson and Nelson gathering in numerous rebounds.

Coach Groth's every-trying Fertile club was paced by Ken Moland, with the sturdy center earning high-point honors on five field goals and six free throws. The Prowlers had four players in double figures, with Olson notching 15 points, Hagen adding 10 points, Steen scoring 11 points, and Mark Anderson coming in with 14 points.

Wildlife Practices Gain in Popularity

Farmers who have been considering shifting some of their acreage—or just some odd corners of their farmland—to wildlife conservation and protection soon will be able to examine projects already in operation which are not too far away from home, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Dahl said that wildlife conservation practices approved for Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing were carried out in 38 states and more than 500 counties under the 1962 program. This means that projects of different kinds of ACP practices which are primarily for wildlife conservation may be examined rather readily without traveling great distances, thus helping a farmer to decide what particular object would fit into his farm plan.

The chairman explained that the 1962 ACP was the first for which practices primarily for wildlife conservation could be authorized. The several kinds of these practices reported for 1963 were carried out on about 2,500 farms and involved about 12,000 acres.

Some of the program accomplishments included close to 2,000 acres devoted to permanent cover and more than 8,000 acres in annual cover for wildlife feed or habitat; trees or shrubs for such feed or habitat planted on 584 acres; shallow water areas established on 538 acres and almost 2.7 million square feet of level ditching constructed for wildlife habitat; and 1,119 ponds constructed for wildlife.

Construction of farm ponds for wildlife was by far the most widely used of the practices, being carried out on 941 farms in 271 counties in 30 states, and accounting for 76 per cent of the ACP cost-share payments for wildlife conservation. Many other ACP practices also have important — though not primary — benefits for wildlife.

Dahl said that interest in ACP wildlife-conservation practices is growing all the time. Under the 1963 program, all 50 states offer ACP cost-sharing for practices primarily for wildlife conservation as well as many other practices which provide wildlife benefits. Most of these practices also enhance outdoor recreation.

The chairman suggests that farmers who are interested get in touch with their ASCS county office about the location of ACP wildlife projects in the area, and the kinds that are available in their counties for ACP assistance.

3,000 Youngsters Finish Firearms Safety Training

Minnesota's firearms safety training program is setting new records, according to Don Murray, firearms safety director of the Conservation Department.

Murray said today that for the second month in succession more than 3,000 youngsters had completed their course in firearms safety training and received their certificates.

With most of the hunting seasons now closed, Murray said he expects more instructors to be available to teach classes.

"Many of our volunteer instructors are ardent hunters," said Murray, "but now that they have put away their guns for the season they are ready to take on another series of firearms safety classes."

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Let's Greet the Wrestlers

Sports fans who enjoy a great deal of action in their sports fare will be provided with such a menu on Tuesday night, Dec. 3, when coach Al Shaff unveils his 1963-64 Prowler wrestling squad in a match against coach Rod Mosher's Crookston Aggies squad.

Coach Shaff's Prowlers had a fine season last year, winning eleven matches and losing but two. While graduation has taken such stalwarts as Dwight Myhrer and Roger Wilson from the squad, and an injury has sidelined Roy Delorme, the Prowlers are well-supplied with veteran wrestlers. And the Prowlers should get quite a lift soon when John Bauer, a transfer student, becomes eligible. Bauer is a capable 175-pound wrestler.

The varsity matches are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday; but the action really begins at 6:30 p. m. when coach Dale Folger's Prowler B squad meets the Aggies B squad. Get there early.

Basketball Notes

The Baby Bison, the North Dakota State freshman basketball club, opened its 1963-64 schedule on Saturday night by playing a preliminary game to the North Dakota State vs. Moorhead State game.

And on this 16-man North Dakota State freshman squad is Tom Lindberg, a high-scoring member of coach Jack Junker's Prowlers last season. In addition to Lindberg, the Baby Bison boast of such former Region Eight cagers as Jerry Suman of Bemidji, Herb Hasz of Ada, and Gary Paulsrud of Hendrum. Suman and Hasz gained all-state tournament honors while playing with their respective teams, the Bemidji Lumberjacks and the Ada Vikings.

It is perhaps in order to mention that the 12th annual Paul Bunyan basketball trounament will be played at Bemidji State college on Dec. 17 and 28. And the Augsburg College Auggies, the 1962-63 MIAC champions will meet the Lincoln University team of Jefferson City, Missouri, in a first-round game on Friday the 27th. The other two teams participating in the tourney are the North Dakota Sioux and the host team, the Bemidji State Beavers.

Of interest to local cage fans is the appearance of the Augsburg college, for in the Auggies' Lineup is six-foot eight-inch Ron Hanson, a former Prowler star.

And did you note that coach Al Droen's Crookston Central Pirates defeated the Bemidji Lumberjacks, the Region Eight champions, 50 to 47, on Friday night? And this game was played at Bemidji, which makes the accomplishment of the Pirates that much more noteworthy. Playing a stellar game for the winning Pirates was center Bill Reitmeier. Reitmeier, a senior, is a burly youth and is only in his second year of varsity basketball. He has not shown much scoring ability as yet, but he does give the Pirates tremendous strength off the boards. In the jamboree game at Grand Forks last Wednesday night, Reitmeier held his own, and perhaps had a slight edge, in rebounding with the Goodridge Huskies' six-foot eight-inch Lon Szymanski.

While it is pleasant to report this defeat of the Lumberjacks, there is a suspicion that it will make the Bemidji club a tougher outfit. Coach Bun Fortier won't have to worry about his Lumberjack club getting overconfident this season.

Miscellany

John Lysaker, the former Crookston Central all-round athlete and who is now attending the University of Wisconsin, did get in a couple of varsity games with the football Badgers. It is reported that the Badger coaching staff is considering shifting Lysaker, who was a backfielder during his prep days, into a guard. John weighs in at 215 pounds now, and it is hoped that he can build his poundage up to 230 pounds. . Derwood (Swede) Lunl, the former Prowler and North Dakota Sioux hockey player, and now teaching at Devils Lake, N. Dak., attended the North Dakota vs. Brandon Wheat Kings hockey game at Grand Forks on Friday night. The Sioux defeated the Brandon club, 4 to 1, in that game, but on Saturday night, in the second game of the two-game series, Brandon won by a 4 to 2 tally. Swede was very much interested in the play of the Brandon juniors as he had several of the boys in his class when he, Swede, was teaching and coaching at Brandon several seasons ago . . . And did you notice that the Duluth Branch defeated the Minnesota Gophers, 5 to 2 and 7 to 5, in a pair of hockey games? It marked the first time that the Duluth Bulldogs had been able to register a win over the Gophers.

Class 'A' Cagers Win in Jamboree

By a margin of 95 to 78, the District 31 Class A cage teams—Thief River Falls, Crookston, Warren, and East Grand Forks—defeated four of the district's Class B teams — Fisher, Goodridge, Plummer, and Oslo — in the basketball jamboree held on the UND fieldhouse court in Grand Forks on Wednesday evening.

In the four games, though, the two squads divided honors, with Crookston and East Grand Forks defeating their Class B rivals Oslo and Goodridge; and Fisher and Plummer upsetting their Class A opponents, Thief River Falls and Warren. And it was the lopsided 34 to 15 win by East Grand Forks over the Oslo Bobcats that gave the Class A teams the aggregate point win.

In the opening game of the jamboree, coach Norman Wagner's Flyers, on Tom Bentrup's free throw with 0:45 to play of the 16-minute game, edged out the Prowlers, 23 to 22. The two teams had finished their first eight minutes of play in a 9-all tie. Fisher, with Tom Bentrup and Wallace Radl leading the scoring, moved into a six-point lead midway in the second half, but coach Jack Junker's squad, with Bob Olson turning in a 10-point second half performance, came back to knot the game at 22 to 22 with 1:30 to play. Olson was the game's high-point player, with the rangy center scoring 15 points.

The Crookston Pirates, on a strong second half, defeated the Goodridge Huskies, 27 to 19. The Plummer Cardinals, with a fine all-round performance, defeated the Class A Warren Ponies, 21 to 12, and in the final game of the evening, East Grand Forks rolled over Oslo, 34 to 15.

Prowler Wrestlers to Face NWS Tuesday

"We feel we must fill some important gaps left by injury and graduation, but we are optimistic for our chances of a good season. And if we can get by our early matches until injuries heal and all wrestlers become eligible, we may have one of the better teams we've had in the short history of wrestling in Thief River Falls."

That was the statement of Prowler wrestling coaches Al Shaff and Dale Folger as the local A and B squads completed preparations for their schedule-opening match against the Northwest School of Agriculture here Tuesday evening, Dec. 3. The Aggies, coached by Rod Mosher, scored a decisive win over Fertile, 37 to 15, in their season-opener, but on Wednesday the Aggies dropped a 26 to 20 decision to the Warren Ponies.

Leading the Prowlers into their season-opening match against the Aggies will be co-captains Terry Nelson and Gary Nereson. Nelson, who was out of action last season because of leg injury, will compete in the 154-pound class. Nereson, a veteran member of the Prowler squad, will wrestle at 127 pounds.

Rated highly by varsity coach Shaff is Joe Taylor. Taylor, wrestling this season at 165 pounds, was undefeated in dual match competition last season. Tom Larson, a 133-pound wrestler who won second place honors in the Region Eight tourney last season, is also expected to produce numerous points for the Prowler squad.

The B squad matches will begin at 6:30 on Tuesday evening, with the varsity slated for 7:30 p.m.

When used for planting at a thickness of one mil, one pound of nickel will cover an area of about 2 square feet.

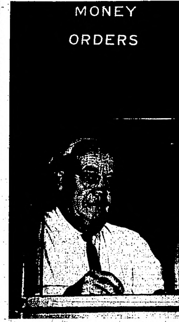
F. A. Brown Retires As Grygla Postmaster



AT HOME behind the window through which he has extended service for 29 years, Ferdie A. Brown of Grygla contemplates his retirement. Appointed postmaster during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1934, he had served under five presidents prior to his retirement on November 30. Retirement is compulsory at age 70 under Civil Service regulations.

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

"I was getting hungry like everybody else when I got a chance to take this job and I grabbed it." So stated Ferdie Brown of Grygla in commenting on his position as postmaster in that village since Ausut 1, 1934. Brown retired from the postal service on November 30 under the federal govenment regulation which terminates service upon reaching the age of 70 years.

Still hale and hearty at the 70-year mark, Brown has a long winter before him prior to doing some traveling and some fishing this summer. In giving up the postmaster position, Brown leaves an occupation that has been his life for 29 years and a salary that has increased from $1,400 per year to $7,000 during his term of service. He would not have retired if it wasn't required.

The post office building itself is a tribute to Brown. In 1946 he left town on a Sunday afternoon to find a building, and before he had returned he had purchased the former railroad depot at Goodridge. The 16x46 structure, built in 1914, was moved to Grygla by Kenneth Bakke and placed on the present site. Tidily painted and fronted by a well-kept lawn, the office is one of the neatest buildings in the village.

Ferdie's father, John F. Brown, moved his family to Thief River Falls from Hallock in the early 1900's. John F. was in the hardware business at the Langseth building here until it burned in 1912, and then the family moved to Grygla and started a general store.

Lincoln HS Graduate

In 1913 Ferdie graduated from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls where he was president of the senior class. He kept books at the People's store for about a year and then moved to Grygla to assist his father in the family store. In 1914 he returned to Thief River Falls, working at the city desk, as salesman and out in the territory for the Thief River grocery—later known as the Nash-Finch company.

On Nov. 15, 1927, he returned to Grygla and invested his savings in a dry good department added to the grocery and hardware departments of his father's store. Appropriately enough for the dry goods business, he lost his shirt.

Opportunity Out of Hunger

"Along about 1934 I was getting hungry like everybody else," Brown said, "and when I got a chance to take this job I grabbed

United Fund Will Hold Residential Canvass Monday

Directors of the Pennington County United Fund, in a concerted effort to boost the sagging results of the 1963 campaign, have planned an intense one-night residential canvass of the city, according to Arnold Narverud, drive chairman. The decision was made at a meeting of the board Monday evening.

Members of local service organizations have been contacted to assist with the campaign and a large turnout will result in a smaller amount of work for each person participating. The all-out effort will take place beginning at 6:30 p. m. on Monday, December 9.

Canvassers will meet at 6:30 p. m. at the Chamber of Commerce office to receive supplies, instructions and routes. At present it is expected that a pair of workers will be assigned to six-block areas and that the canvass can be completed by about 9:30 p. m.

"Our United Fund effort looks very bad at present with only about 60 per cent of our realistic quota attained," Narverud said. "We ask all residents to have their porch lights on Monday evening and be ready with a check for the volunteer canvassers who will be coming to call. We hope that residents of the city will bear in mind that nine organizations benefit from the United Fund this year and that contributions should accordingly be generous."

Narverud also urged those persons who contributed in the business district canvass to place stickers provided on their residence doors or windows near the doors to save canvassers the time of calling there.

Potato Growers To Vote in Poll On Acre Controls

Proposed Legislation Spurs Growers To Voice Opinions on Controls

Potato growers of the Red River Valley are being polled this week on the question of potato acreage controls. The decision to make the poll was made at a meeting of Vally Potato Growers association last week. The poll is being made because of the apparent interest of many people in knowing the stand of valley potato growers on the question of acreage controls and particularly on the principle of the potato acreage allotment bill in congress.

The bill in congress provides for potato acreage allotment without price support. It also provides that to put acreage allotments into effect a referendum must be held and two-thirds of the growers voting; or 50 per cent of the growers voting and representing two-thirds or more of the acreage planted by the growers voting, must approve.

The poll being taken will determine whether Red River Valley potato growers favor, or oppose, potato acreage control along the line proposed in the bill before congress.

Ballots have been sent to all growers on the mailing list of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association. Ballots to be counted must be turned in at the association's office at East Grand Forks by 5 p. m., or postmarked not later than midnight December 11.

Growers who may not receive ballots can obtain them at the association's office or by contacting the director or alternate director of their districts.

Skaar Attends St. Paul, Chicago Problem Sessions

Representative Reviews State College Needs and Highway Traffic Safety

Rep. Andrew Skaar, serving Pennington and Red Lake counties in the Minnesota House of Representatives, has spent six days in St. Paul and Chicago, studying problems that will require attention by the 1965 session of the Minnesota legislature.

As a member of the appropriations sub-committee on education, Rep. Skaar listened to discussions fiscal needs of Minnesota's state colleges.

Meeting on November 29 and 30, the sub-committee listened to testimony by the presidents of the state colleges on projected enrollments, merit salary increase systems, faculty - student teaching loads and other subjects which will require action at the next session.

On Saturday, together with the other members of the highway interim commission, Rep. Skaar traveled to Chicago to a national legislative conference on highway safety.

"I'm sure that all of the citizens of hour district, like myself, are shocked at Minnesota's ever-increasing highway death toll," Skaar stated. "Minnesota's highway death record is at an all-time high, and it appears that some firm legislative action must be taken during the next session of the Minnesota legislature to reduce this carnage.

"The purpose of the meeting in Chicago will be to discuss, with safety officials and legislators of other states, various steps taken in these states to keep highway deaths and injuries because of highway accidents at a minimum," he said.

"When I return to the district, I will be happy to discuss all of the problems we face with anyone who wishes to contact me."

Leaders Council Names Delegates For Institute

versity of Minnesota has scholarships available to high school seniors graduating in the top one-fourth of their classes. Most of the scholarships are good no matter what subjects the students take. Deadline for applications is December 15.

A program of work for each month has been arranged by the council to provide for better meetings during the year. Regene Radniecki, Deer Park, was presented with a canning award which had not arrived at the time of the 4-H achievement banquet.

Also given were 4-H jackets which had not arrived by banquet time. Those given by the Pennington County Crop Improvement association were awarded to Jerry Hasnedl, St. Hilaire; Bruce Steiger, Black River; and Curtis Lindblom, Kratka. Jackets awarded by the Central Livestock Shipping association went to Spencer Oen, Happy Acres; Robert Parnow, Star; and Ross Hanson, Silverton.

Mavie 4-H club presented the Christmas program directed by Mrs. Phillip and Mrs. Bremay. Lunch was served by Mrs. Selmer Wold and Mrs. Herbert Swenson. Decorations in the meeting room had been erected previously by Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Bruggeman, Mrs. Silas Hanson and Ross.

F. A. Brown Ends Postmaster Job After 29 Years

it. It was a political appointment, but I got the job because the national committeeman for the party making the appointment had always been like a father to me.

"The most exasperating about this job is trying to meet all the regulations. There are two books of them for our third class office and they are constantly changing. I have always prided myself on my records and I think the inspection reports show it." He leafed through a file of reports where many indicated 100 per cent.

In 1916 Ferdie was married to Myrtle Blaine of St. Hilaire, an action which Ferdie contends to be "the smartest thing I ever did in my life". He is a member of the National Association of Postmasters and a past district president of the National League of Postmasters. He was one of the signors when Grygla became incorporated as a village many years ago, has served as its mayor for three years and on the council for three years.

Successor Appointed

Appointed acting postmaster to succeed Brown was Sheldon Peterson, a veteran of the armed services and a former employee of the Pennington County Soil Conservation district with offices in Thief River Falls. He is married and has one child.

In his 29 years as postmaster, Brown has served under five Presidents of the United States. He took office during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt and continued under Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and for nine days under Lyndon B. Johnson.

The Grygla post office has two rural routes with about 340 rural boxes, two star routes and 80 post office boxes. In issuing a statement upon retirement, Brown was partly human and partly book of regulations.

"I'd like to say thanks to the people at Grygla, because it surely has been a pleasure working in this community. They are real fine folks. But I would also like to remind them to use our ZIP code number (56727) on their return addresses. It helps the post office just an awful lot."

Goodridge Honor Roll Includes Four A Students

Grade 7—Judy Iverson, Karen Lease and Gloria Skreland.

LOBBY of the Grygla post office will now be visited by Ferdie A. Brown only when he calls for his mail as other patrons have done over the years. For 29 years Brown has been postmaster at the office—a building which was formerly a railroad depot in Goodridge. Brown purchased the building, had it moved to Grygla and leased it to the post office department on a monthly rental. He has maintained the building and lawn to the extent that it presents one of the neatest appearances in the village.

Public Opinion

Dear Editor:

What a sad affair this is. I couldn't believe it was true as I read it off the newswire at the station. This should make the whole world wake up and realize we are not so civilized or smart. It is hard to understand how in a time of "A" and "H" bombs, a man with an obsolete World War II weapon can kill a truly great man. If all our efforts and prayers were directed to make these people such as this "Oswald" understand or sane, if he is insane, all this might not have happened. We have felt very sad about it all, and of course attended church. What I don't understand, that there is no great mourning like this on Good Friday, when Christ was crucified. These same people, who are Christians, and believe Christ and God are the same, do not mourn or show any devotion on Good Friday. The world is funny. I do believe this is God's plan to make us and the world better.

198 Children Attend 15 State Day Camps

Last summer 198 crippled children in 15 Minnesota communities attended day camps similar to the one held in Thief River Falls. Supported by United Fund contributions, these camps were established and operated by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

Day camps were also held in Duluth, Grand Rapids, Moorhead, St. Cloud, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Glencoe, Redwood Falls, Mankato, Winona, Austin, Albert Lea and Worthington. Twelve of these, including Thief River Falls, were in their first year of operation. Camp sessions were two weeks long and open to all handicapped children between the ages of six and 16 years.

According to W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director of the society, "The purpose of the day camping program is to give handicapped youngsters the opportunity to enjoy group living in the outdoors and to grow spiritually, mentally, socially and physically from the experience."

To meet that goal, qualified and dedicated persons of the local communities were recruited to work at the camp. Ambitious plans for activities included such things as swimming classes, field trips, cookouts, craft work, baseball games and other modified team sports.

How successful the day camps were is summed up in a final evaluation by Kathleen Groth, director of the Moorhead day camp. "The campers have all found new friends, new skills and new interests. None of them want camp to end," she said.

Similar statements were made by other camp directors and by a number of parents as well.

Perhaps the best "case" for day camps was expressed by the mother of a crippled boy who attended the Winona day camp. "Adults find it hard to comprehend how much anything like normal childhood experiences mean to these children—a feeling of deep satisfaction and joy," she said.

The local United Fund and the annual crippled children's appeal support day camps for crippled children, one of the many services of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

Aggies Edge out Local Grapplers

Picking up 26 points in the last seven matches on the program, coach Rod Mosher's Crookston Aggies wrestling squad marked up a come-from-behind win to defeat the Prowlers, 29 to 21, in a match held at the Lincoln high school gymnasium on Tuesday evening.

Coach Al Shaff's Prowler squad will meet the Crookston Central squad here on Friday evening, Dec. 6. A preliminary match between the B squads from the respective schools will precede the varsity matches. The B squad matches are slated to start at 6:30 p. m.

In Tuesday evening's match here, which was the season-opener for the local squad, the Prowlers, on pins by Myles Olson in the 95-lb. class and Steve Furuseth in the 112-lb. class, and a decision by Rocky Wilson in the 103-lb. class, gained a 13 to 0 lead.

Ron Phillip, with a decision in the 120-lb. class, marked up the first points for the Aggies. Gary Nereson, Prowler co-captain, pinned the Aggies' LeRoy Luchan in the 127-lb. class and coach Shaff's squad held a 18 to 3 lead.

But two decisions, by Steve Beyers and Larry Paupst, and four pins or defaults, boosted the Aggies total to 29 points. The only points garners by the Prowlers in the final matches were the three points earned by Joe Taylor for his 5 to 0 decision win over the Aggies' Eddie Kovar.

The Prowlers lost two of the matches by default. With 51 seconds of the match remaining, Tom Larson, because of an ear injury, was forced to default to Crookston's Wayne Naplin in a 145-lb. class match. And in the heavyweight match, the Prowlers' Dennis Sculthorp, after turning a fine exhibition against the Aggies' Lester Boe, was forced to default because of a rib injury.

The summaries:

95-lb. Myles Olson (TRF) pinned Gene Tiedeman (AC), 1:06.

103-lb. Rocco Wilson (TRF) decisioned Curt Boutain (AC), 4-1.

The Results of Negligence
The National Safety Council reports there were approximately 10 million disabling injuries due to accidents last year. Yet this particular report does not cover the great number of injuries resulting from neglect . . . neglect of our health. Through apathy or carelessness, we are contributing to an uncalculated number of health accidents . . . accidents in the sense that they could have been prevented had sensible health rules been followed. The first step in combatting these health hazards is to see your doctor regularly, and if he prescribes, bring your prescriptions to us. One of our primary concerns is elimination of the negligence factor in health care.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Ten Strike

The Minnesota Vikings accomplished a bit of important business this week when they drafted, and signed, Minnesota's All-American tackle, Carl Eller, to a professional football contract.

The Vikings haven't been too successful in gathering in the graduates of Gopher football, losing such boys as Sandy Stephens, Bob Bell, Bill Munsey and several others. But in Eller the Vikings have gained a player who is destined to become a fixture in NFL play for the next seven or eight years.

One of the promising features about Eller, and it was one of the strong points in the scouting report, is that he has the frame to carry about 275 pounds of active football player. The stress in professional football is for weight, and speed. And Eller is expected to have both weight and speed.

210-lb. Fullback is 'Small'

But where is this bigness in physique in professional athletics leading? It is frightening to listen to weights of the linemen in pro football; and now the weight increases is being carried into the backfield. The Green Bay Packers' stellar fullback, Jim Taylor, at 210 pounds, is rated a "small" fullback.

And this trend is evident in in basketball, too. In the NBA, the pro basketball league, players that are six-foot eight-inches or six-foot nine-inches, are playing at the forwards. They aren't big enough to play the center position. And this is true, to a lesser extent, of course, in college and high school basketball. It's a fact that the prime concern of all cage coaches, and especialy in high school circles, is to get a "big" man.

And the only sports that give a "break" to the smaller athlete are track, hockey, baseball and wrestling.

And speaking of wrestling, that Prowlers had with the Crookston Aggies here on Tuesday evening was a bang-up match that the ton Aggies here on Tuesday evening. And it was unfortunate that a pair of defaults, giving the Aggies ten points, should have been the deciding factor. Injuries forced a pair of Prowler grapplers to default.

The Canadian Football Champions

The Hamilton Tiger Cats, by a 21 to 10 score, and a greater margin on the playing field, defeated coach Dave Skrein's Vancouver Lions on Saturday afternoon to win Canada's Grey Cup. This trophy is emblematic of the Canadian professional football title, and it had been held the past couple of season's by coach Bud Grant's Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The game was given American exposure through the medium of the ABC television network. To all intents and purposes, the game was over by half-time. Hamilton was leading, 14 to 3, and the last genuine Vancouver offensive weapon had been removed when Willie Fleming, the former Iowa University flash, was steam-rollered by a pair of hulking Tiger Cats defensive men in the first period.

Canadian professional football has some enterinining features, such as the running back of kicks into the end zone, and the in-play of all punts. American professional football has too many "fair catch" calls, and this is one drawback that Canadians are quick to emphasize. But the Canadian clubs cannot match the American professionals in manpower or finesse.

Showing No Respect

And speaking of ten strikes, isn't there a team or two in the Business bowling league that can take the measure of the T & S Implement squad? This team, leading the league as they are, aren't showing the proper respect to the other teams in the circuit. After all, the T & S are a "rookie" club just up from one of the "minor" leagues.

Let's start a campaign to shove the T & S into the second division. It'll take some doing. If Inga's Cafe can't do it, the Vets will, and if the Vets can't, the Len's Tire will, and so on.

14 Scouters Get Certificates for Leader Training

Middle River Sessions Sunday Provide Chance To Learn About Scouting

Fourteen scouters from the Pen-Ro-Shall district of the Lake Agassiz council completed Boy Scout leader basic training at a course conducted by the district Sunday at the Middle River school.

Three areas covered in the afternoon and evening sessions dealt with "What Boy Scouting Is", "Troop Operation" and "Meetings and Activities". Presenting the training were Florian Kritz, Elling Iverson, C. M. Havel and N. Quentin Jones of Thief River Falls and Hartley Peterson of Holt.

Others participating and receiving certificates for completion of the course were Anthony Brown, Badger; Harold T. Anderson, Newfolden; Harold Steinhauer, Holt; Mervin Milsten, Middle River; Harold Grothem, Glenn Davidson and Don Hinsverk, Roseau; and C. M. Knutson and Arnold Narverud, Thief River Falls.

Cub Scout leader basic training was to have been conducted at the same time with George Stockman, Howard Holum and Gordon Hanson of Thief River Falls as the faculty, but no cubbers registered for the course, according to Ed Bilek, district scout representative.

Similar courses will be repeated from time to time in order to maintain trained leadership in scout troops and cub packs, and additional subjects will be offered to enable pack and troop leaders, committeemen and den committeemen and den mothers to earn their training awards.

Langen Testifies at Tariff Hearing Dec. 2

"The well-being of the entire American economy is at stake in next year's international trade negotiations," declared Congressman Odin Langen Monday. Langen testified in behalf of American agriculture before the United States Tariff Commission, which is conducting hearings in Washington on duties and other import restrictions in preparation for next year's trade talks.

"I realize that any negotiation of tariffs or other trade controls must be considered in the best interests of our entire national economy," said Langen, "and that ample consideration must be given to all segments of that economy, including agriculture as but one facet of the total picture.

"However," he added, "it is the feeling of many of us from farming areas that agriculture has not been sufficiently considered in the past; that negotiations have too often resulted in concessions being made to other trading nations on agricultural products in order to gain concessions in other trade areas."

Langen pointed out that lost in such considerations is the total effect not only on the U. S. farm economy but on the entire nation of taxpayers and consumers who must, in the final analysis, pay the bill.

"It seems to me that while the United States has relaxed controls over competitive imports, other countries have been tightening theirs," said Langen, who many times in the past has urged Tariff Commission review on the trade policies regarding farm commodities. "American agriculture needs the same protection from its government as other countires offer their farmers.

"But in the United States," said Langen, "the farmer is blamed for all of the problems relating to agriculture when actually he's paying the bill through reduced production and lower income. And every year he must accept even further restrictions, and he faces many measures still pending in Congress."

Minibus Is New in Transit Language

New Experiment Being Tried in Washington

Transit authorities throughout the nation are watching an experiment in Washington, D. C., with what is called the "minibus" — small, gaily-colored, box-like vehicles designed to expedite shopping service. These abbreviated busses shuttle back and forth along principal shopping streets, forerunners of a fleet of 14, operating on short two-minute intervals for a one-year test period. During this period, studies will be made on how effective they are in increasing business activity, increasing business trips downtown and in reducing automobile congestion.

The project was made possible under private financing by the District of Columbia Transit System and the metropolitan transportation demonstration grant program of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The concept originated in 1961 when planning studies by the National Capital Downtown Committee, Inc., indicated the need for something to help pedestrians move around within downtown Washington.

An investigation of downtown employee habits indicated that shopping done by workers in the area is also related to the distance of the place of employment from the retail area.

To quote one source, the minibus was a huge success from its inception. In spite of limited range of operation and restricted hours, the vehicles had popular appeal partly because of the five-cent fare. Trips averaged only two or three blocks. Capacity is about 30 passengers; the average load was 22 per round trip.

I am the refuge of the world's burdened people.
I am the silent sentinel of Freedom.
I am the emblem of the greatest sovereign nation on earth.
I am the inspiration for which American Patriots gave their lives and their wealth.
I have led your sons into battle from Valley Forge to the bloody ridges of Korea.
I walk in silence with each of your honored dead, to their final resting place, row upon row.
I have flown thru Peace and War, Strife and Prosperity, and amidst it all, I have been respected.
My Red stripes . . . symbolize blood spilled in defense of this glorious nation.
My White stripes . . . signify the burning tears shed by Americans who lost their sons.
My Blue field . . . is evidence of God's heaven under which I fly.
My Stars . . . clustered together, unify 50 states as one for God and country.
"Old Glory" is my nickname and proudly I wave high.
Honor me, respect me, defend me with your lives and your wealth.
Never let your enemies tear me down, lest I never return.
Keep alight the fires of patriotism, strive earnestly for the spirit of Democracy.
Worship eternal God and keep His Commandments, and I shall remain the defender of peace and freedom for all mankind.

Christmas Tree Hazards Are Cited

Medical Association Points out Safeguards

Your Christmas tree bright with lights, tinsel and colored balls can be a twinkling vision or a flaming nightmare. It depends on the safety precautions you take, according to the Minnesota State Medical association.

One of the most important fire hazards to avoid is a dry tree; pick a freshly-cut one that has been stored outdoors. Keep it outside until you are ready to decorate it and don't put it up so early that it dries out in the house. Place the tree in the coolest part of the room, away from fireplaces, stoves or other sources of direct heat or flame. Nearby radiators or heat registers should be shut off so the tree won't dry up too fast. The drying process will be slowed if you have the tree standing in water. Add water periodically to keep the tree green and the needles on. Dispose of it as soon as it does dry out.

Before you decorate the tree, check your strings of lights and discard those that are old and worn. Don't buy or use any light set that doesn't carry the approval of the Underwriters Laboratories (UL). If you are using a metallic tree, be sure the lights are UL approved for use with metallic trees. Remember to move tree lights from spots where the needles have started to turn brown.

Other decorations on the tree should be inflammable or treated to be made fire resistant. Candles should never be used on the tree. As a final precaution, keep a fire extinguisher, or just a pail of water or sand, in a closet near the tree.

Follow these safety precautions foravoiding Christmas tree hazards, and make your Yuletide not only merry, but safe too.

Plowing of Snow Onto Highways Creates Hazard

Farmers with drives leading to highways are urged to refrain from plowing snow across the highways to an opposite ditch after the roads have been plowed by the Minnesota Highway Department.

Farmers who use a dozer attachment on their plows should plow before the highways are cleared. Otherwise, they leave ridges of snow across clear highways. This creates a dangerous hazard to traffic, says the Minnesota Highway Department.

A motorist traveling along a cleared highway is taken unaware by a ridge of snow and is not prepared to avoid hitting it.

Also, piles of snow plowed into the opposite ditch are often beyond the reach of highway department plows and consequently create a drifting problem.

If a vehicle strikes a ridge of snow or snowdrift on the road it could result in an accident.

$5.3 Million Road Projects to Be Let

To Open Bids at St. Paul Central Office Dec. 20

Bids on 11 trunk highway construction projects estimated to cost $5.3 million will be received Dec. 20 at the Minnesota highway department central offices in St. Paul, the department announces. None of the projects is in this area.

The projects include grading, base and surfacing of 30 miles of highways, construction of five bridges, building removals and traffic signal installations. The two biggest projects involve construction of about 18 miles of TH 35 in Pine, Rice and Scott counties.

The biggest job calls for grading, base and surfacing of 10.3 miles of TH 35 from the north junction of TH 23 to Willow River and four bridges. It will bring to nearly 41 the number of miles of TH 35 now under construction or completed: 16.2 miles are completed from Mission Creek to the north junction of TH 23; and 14.4 miles are under construction from Ine City to Mission Creek, a segment expected to be open in mid-summer 1964, which will make 30 miles of freeway open to traffic in that area.

Another major project involving TH 35 calls for gravel base, plant-mixed bituminous surfacing and concrete paving of 7.6 miles between junction TH 19 and the C. M.ST. P.&P. railway tracks near Elko in Rice and Scott counties.

About 97 percent of United States farms now have electric power, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Editorials . . .

"I am aware that many object to the severity of my language; but it is there not cause for severity? I will be as harsh as Truth, and as uncompromising as Justice. On this subject I do not wish to think, or speak, or write with moderation. Tell a man whose house is on fire to give a moderate alarm; tell him to moderately rescue his wife from the hands of the ravisher; tell the mother to gradually extricate her babe from the fire into which it has fallen—but urge me not to use moderation in a cause like the present. I am in earnest—I will not equivocate—I will not excuse—I will not retreat a single inch—and I will be heard. The apathy of the people is enough to make every statue leap from its pedestal and hasten the resurrection of the dead."

—William Lloyd Garrison

Kerr-Mills

Senator Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota has received national publicity recognition by his charge that the Kerr-Mills program of medical aid for the needy aged has been "sabotaged" by the Democrat administration. The administration has favored a bill that would provide hospitalization, out-patient diagnostic services and nursing care for persons over 65 as a part of the Social Security insurance system.

We will go along with Senator Mundt until he has been proven wrong, and our guess is that he is right. The Kerr-Mills program provides for the aged who are in need. Social Security has become a political racket, and already is a fraud imposed upon the younger generation that follows us.

Social Security was sold to the public as a self-supporting agency that would provide a measure of financial security for the aged. It no longer is self-supporting, and from now on it will require contributions from the taxpayers in increasing amounts in order to meet its expanded obligations.

To add further to its financial difficulties by replacing the Kerr-Mills program with an additional Social Security responsibility would be downright dishonesty and unfair to the people who now are contributing to a payroll tax of almost ten per cent. We agree with Senator Mundt that The Kerr-Mills program should be given a fair trial. It has been approved by the Minnesota legislature.

The Baker Scandal

Political integrity is not a vitue that is owned and controlled solely by any one party or faction. The numerous scandals that have spread shadows over the Washington landscape in recent months have darkened to some extent the character of leaders in both of the political parties.

Robert Baker, it appears, became very wealthy in a hurry as the errand boy for the Democrats in Congress. But some of the Republican leaders also profited, let us assume, by cooperating with Mr. Baker. One of these ranking Republicans, it seems, was Representative John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, who was the ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, and chairman of the Republican Policy Committee. According to the New York Times, commenting editorially:

> "As a byproduct of the Robert Baker revelations, it came out that Representative Byrnes had successfully worked to obtain a favorable tax ruling for a Wisconsin insurance corporation, then bought $2,300 worth of stock in the company under a preferential arrangement. The stock is now worth about $25,000. At first Mr. Byrnes was reported to have said that he did a favor for the company and then the company did a favor for him. Now he says that, "As far as I was concerned, the purchase had nothing to do with the tax matter." Yesterday he offered to sell the stock and donate all the profit to a scholarship fund."

All of which strengthens the conclusion of the New York Times that the Baker scandal must be thoroughly investigated no matter where that investigation may lead. It states that "Congress still owes an obligation to the American public to put the spotlight on its own members as strongly as it does on those outside the club." All good citizens will support this position.

Automation

The recent convention of the A.F.L.-C.I.O. came up finally with a sensible approach to the ultimate answer to the labor problems of automation. George Meany, president of the labor organization, stated in his opening remarks that automation is fast becoming a "real curse' to society. The convention, however, finally concluded, as stated by the New York Times, that:

> "Labor's quarrel is—or ought to be—not with automation but with the idea that workers must bear the sole burden of its introduction in the form of mass unemployment."

As the New York Times puts it, "The A.F.L.-C.I.O. has now set forth a far-reaching program of measures it considers necessary to create a full-employment, full production economy and thus guard against the imbalance in the present distribution of automation's benefits."

That is an interesting, and a most encouraging recognition of a very important factor in the progress of our modern society. Automation is another step forward in the development of the machine, and, over a period of time automation should bring with it a higher standard of living, which, in simple terms, means better living for all of us.

None of us would want to go back to the pre-machine era. It must be admitted that as machines have displaced labor, those who have been displaced have faced a hardship problem. But over a period of time the gas stations have provided employment for many more than those who lost jobs because the livery stable closed or the horsewhip factory went out of business.

Our guess is that automation will create more jobs and will result in a higher standard of living throughout the world. Those who are adversely effected by the change should be given reasonable protection in seeing them through an adjustment to a new set of facts. But the A.F.L.-C.I.O is to be commneded for its action in recognizing the machine, or automation if you wish, as a good, rather than as an evil, in the progress of man in his efforts to make this world a better world in which to live.

The Tax-exempt Evil

Roger W. Benedict, writing in the Wall Street Journal, points up an evil in community industrial development that deserves more serious consideration than it has received. Public financing of private industry started in the southern states. Municipal bonds are tax-exempt and making available to industry the funds that have been acquired by the sale of municipal bonds is an attractive inducement for the location of any business or industry.

The city of Topeka, Kansas, is selling $3.7 million of development bonds to build a department store for R. H. Macy & Co. of New York. Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase a site and to finance the construction of the store and a parking garage. The facilities will be leased to Macy's with the company paying an annual rental sufficient to meet interest costs and to gradually retire the principal.

Reporting from Lewisport, Kentucky, Mr. Benedict states:

> "This drowsy Ohio River hamlet of 610 persons has no doctor, dentist, lawyer, bank, hotel, newspaper, drugstore or high school. It has a total assessed property valuation of only $330,000, a general city budget of $2,303 and a policeman who uses his own car.
> Soon however Lewisport will take on the trapping of a boom town. Work will begin in January on a 785-000-square-foot aluminum rolling mill for Harvey Aluminum Co. of Torrance, Calif. When completed in 1965 the mill will employ 1,000 persons.
> "Leiwsport landed this industrial plum by marketing a $48.5 million tax-exempt industrial development bond issue. With the proceeds, the town will buy the fully equipped plant when it is completed in 1965 and lease it back to Harvey. While the project—largest so far to be financed with industrial development bonds—points up the increasing popularity of such financing, it also focuses on a rising tide of criticism directed at what opponents call the indiscriminate use of tax-exempt issues.
> "In the past four years more than $400 million worth of industrial development bonds have been sold. This is more than three times the amount issued in the preceding 20 years. Today 27 states permit municipalities to sell bonds to build industrial plants, up from only three states in 1950. In 10 other states some form of state help, often tax-exempt state bonds, currently is available.
> "Where heavy industries are considering expansion, the cost of capital is the major consideration in locating a new plant," asserts Lawrence A. Harvey, president of Harvey Aluminum. "Revenue bonds are almost a necessity for this type of capital investment," AMF Beaird, Inc., subsidiary of American Machine & Foundry, estimates that interest costs on its new 450,000-square-foot plant at Shreveport, La., are about 45 per cent lower than they would have been with conventional financing. The plant is being paid for with $9.2 million of municipal bonds.

Mr. Benedict points out that in addition to the lower borrowing costs, the renters of such property also escape real estate taxes since publicly owned property is not taxable. The tax-exempt approach has become so well established that even the Federal government has used it and encouraged its use.

Here is a highly discriminatory and unfair practice that deserves immediate correction. More than half of the states permit the practice for commercial purposes. All of the states, presumably, are permitting much the same thing by providing tax-exempt property to meet the housing problems of those in the low-income brackets and the aged.

In fairness to those who have to struggle to pay taxes this tax-exempt problem deserves a thorough study and some reform legislation. And the tax-exempt privileges of such good organizations as churches and schools and benevolent societies of all kinds should be carefully re-examined. There is no good reason why the re-examination should not be started at the state level.

Interesting Opinions . . .

During a civil trail, an adverse witness preceded each answer with "I think. . ."

The distraught lawyer demanded for the third time that the witness tell the court and jury "what you know, and not what you think."

141 Million Carry Health Insurance

Health insurance protects 50 million more American today than it did 10 years ago, the Health Insurance Institute said today. Ten years ago, only 91 million Americans were covered by hospital expense insurance. Since then there has been an increase of more than one-half, and a total of over 141 million persons were protected against the costs of hospital care at year-end 1962, declared the Institute.

Farmers Reminded of Social Security Plan

Thousands of self-employed farmers and their dependents have retired with social security benefits in the years since 1954 when Congress extended coverage to this group. Today another 4½ million people who depend upon farming for a livelihood are building social security protection against the loss of income resulting from old-age, disability or death.

While urging farmers in this area to file prompt and accurate income and earnings reports for 1963, Mr. Kistler, social security district manager at Grand Forks, pointed out that failure to report or filing an inaccurate report may result in reduced social security benefits or the loss of benefits.

Now is a good time," said Mr. Kistler, 'for farmers to examine their books to see what they must report to Uncle Sam on their Federal income returns for the past year."

Also, he said, it is important to know that low-income farmers can build protection against the loss of income in old-age or following disability or death. Mr. Kistler cited a special optional provision in the law which enables farmers whose net earnings are less than $400 to acquire social security credits. It works like this:

(1) If a farmer's gross income from agricultural self-employment is between $600 and $1800, he may count two-thirds of his gross farm income for social security purposes.

(2) If gross farm income exceeds $1800 and net farm earnings are less than $1200, he may use either his actual net or $1200.

Under the above provision a farmer with annual gross income as low as $600 can declare his net earnings to be $40, or two-thirds of his gross income, to get social security credit for that year.

Information regarding social security taxes and tax return forms can be obtained at the internal revenue service office at Grand Forks, North Dakota. Questions about old-age, survivors, and disability benefits should be taken up with the social security office in the Red River National Bank Building, Grand Forks, N. Dak.

To Test Contract Highway Mowing

Department to Try Plan In Duluth Area in 1964

The Minnesota highway department next summer will experiment with contract mowing of roadsides in an effort to lower costs and achieve better results. The experiments will be conducted and, if successful, may be used as a basis for further expansion into other parts of the state.

Among the problems encountered in using state forces for mowing are those of seasonal employment, inexperience, hiring of vitally needed equipment, shifting of forces to other maintenance projects and supervisory responsibility. All of these questions can be met, but the cost factors sometimes are disproportionate.

The contract method with which the department will experiment calls for agreements between individuals and the state for keeping specified stretches of highway moved under special provisions—the work subject to departmental inspection and standards.

Chemical growth retardants have but limited application, at best, and in some areas are inefficient, since they seem to affect some grasses and not others. Extensive experiments with such chemicals have been carried on in Minnesota and elsewhere. As yet, say the Minnesota highway department experts, the chemical method does not completely eliminate the need for mowing and is also costly.

Since the public is becoming more "housekeeping" conscious through anti-litterbugging campaigns and wider apreciation of the aesthetic values of highways, the Minnesota Highway Department continues to see kmethods of improving its maintenance work, including mowing, within cost limitations.

A REMINDER

One of the charms of being young, is the ability to forget. That is, to forget quickly, what might appear to be a hurt, a wrong, a slight, an injury. Then, as we grow older, there is a tendency to brood over hurts, and wrongs, and injuries — real or imaginary — and sometimes we lose that beautiful mental balance, between forgetting and remembering.

There is a place to take all your hurts, your memories, your injuries of spirit; that place is your church. There you will find peace and contentment. Tie a string around your finger, now! Remember church this Sunday!

Christensen Named To Head Pennington DHIA Thursday

Earl Erickhon Given Award for Increase In His Herd Average

Clyde Christensen was elected president of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association at the reorganization of the board following the annual meeting on Thursday in Thief River Falls city auditorium. Darrow Lundeen of Trail was elected vice president and Dale Svendsgaard of Goodridge was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Darrow Lundeen was reelected to the board of directors for a three-year term while Earl Erickson of Viking was elected to fill the unexpired term of Art Stenberg of Thief River Falls. Stenberg who is planning to sell his cattle this spring, resigned from the board.

Members attending the meeting adopted a zoning procedure for electing members to the board of directors. In the future one director will be elected from zone one, comprising the area west of Carpenter's corner; one director will be elected from zone 3, including area east of the Mavie Corner; two directors will be elected from zone 2, comprising the area east of Carpenters corner and west of the Mavie corner; and one director will be elected at large.

Award Presented

Earl Erickson of Viking was presented with an award for having the herd showing the greatest increase in herd average for the past testing year in the association. His herd average increased from 381 pounds in 1962 to 450 pounds in 1963. Erickson was presented with an engraved desk pen set from the association.

Orville Peters, tester for the association, presented his annual report which showed 26 herds on DHIA test and 13 herds on owner-sampler test during the past year. A total of 842 cows were tested with total production of 6,831,010 pounds of milk, 3.64 average test and 248,419 pounds of butterfat.

Cattle tested average 10,691 pounds of milk, 387 pounds of butterfat during the year, Peters said, an increase in milk from an average of 10,485 pounds a year ago and a decrease in butterfat from an average of 391 pounds of 1962. Myron Carlson of Angus had the top herd average with 497 pounds with Clyde Christensen second at 494 and Earl Erickson third at 450 pounds.

Main speaker at the meeting was Fred Sorenson, agricultural coordinator for the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. He cited a number of things for dairymen to watch in making a profit from their enterprise.

Sorensen urged close attention to price and to avoid overfeeding to obtain the greatest return per dollar of feed cost. He asked consideration of feeding dairy-type steers where feed and barn space is available as well as considering other forms of livestock to supplement dairy income.

It was also noted by the speaker that adding 25 pounds of butterfat production through a careful breeding program is a one-time investment and that gaining the production through feeding is a daily expense. Inherited ability is an important economical factor in butterfat production, he said.

Delegates elected to represent the Pennington association on the Top of the Nation Dairy sale board were Darrow Lundeen, Clyde Christensen, Donovan Bruggeman Mordy Morrison and Earl Erickson.

Council Approves Drop in Mill Levy

1.3 Mill Decrease To 40 Mills Set Thursday Night

Meeting in special session Thursday evening, the Thief River Falls city council approved a drop of 1.3 mills in the city mill levy for 1964. The drop in levy will be from 41.3 mills last year to 40 mills in 1964 and was made possible by careful management of city departments and stringent budgeting.

Assessed valuation of the city is $2,562,115 with one mill being equal to $2,652.11, according to Gordon Reierson, city clerk. The actual saving to city taxpayers by the reduced mill levy will be $3,447.74.

In approving the reduced mill levy on Thursday night, the council did not set an actual budget. It will be the duty of the city clerk to fit the budget requests into the framework of finances available as a result of the mill levy.

Expenditures of the city are far in excess of the $106,084 which will be raised by the 1964 tax levy. A number of bond issues are paid through special assessments and a large amount of the city's operational capital comes from municipal operations including the water plant electric plant and liquor store. Estimated income from municipal operations is included in the budget.

With the announcement of the levy, the mill rate on non-homestead property in Thief River Falls will be 310.19 mills in 1964—an increase of 10.99 mills from a year ago. State tax increased .29 mills from 16.85 to 17.14 mills; county taxes increased 2 mills from 91.65 to 93.65 mills; school taxes increased 10 mills from 149.50 to 159.50 mills; and the city dropped 1.3 mills as indicated above.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lamp of Minneapolis, former residents of Thief River Falls, were brief callers here on Thursday.

Region I ADA Hears of 1964 Promotion Plans

REVIEW of coming events for the area dairy industry took place when these officials got together at the Region 1 meeting of the American Dairy association Wednesday in Thief River Falls. Standing are L. H. Conlon (left), manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee; and Tom Johnson, ADA fieldman. Seated are James Muzzy (left), regional chairman and Region I director, and Art Stenberg, alternate director. Officers were elected at the annual meeting.

Promotional plans for the dairy industry in the coming year were unveiled at the annual meeting of Region I, American Dairy association, held Wednesday at the American Legion Club rooms in Thief River Falls. Highlighting the meeting was the showing of a 15-minute film titled "The Voice That Counts" and depicting the operation of the American Dairy association.

James Muzzy of rural Thief River Falls was elected regional chairman and regional director on the state ADA board. Donald Walker of Red Lake Falls was reelected regional vice chairman and Art Stenberg of rural Thief River Falls was elected alternate state director to succeed Walker. Bertrand Thompson of McIntosh was reelected secretary of the regional association.

Speakers on the program were Wayne Churchill, regional merchandising director of the ADA; L. H. Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, state ADA unit; and Tom Johnson, area fieldman for ADA. Creamery operators and managers from throughout northwestern Minnesota attended the meeting.

Churchill reviewed the accomplishments of the association through promotion in 1963 and outlined plans for the 1964 program. Discussed were the use of ADA promotional material in television and national publications and cooperative efforts with other food firms whose products are complemented by dairy products.

Conlon geared much of his talk to a cultured sour cream sales promotion recently completed in the Twin Cities. Audrey Meyer, Princess Kay, made door-to-door calls, using a car with the trunk filled with electrical appliances. Housewives with sour cream in their refrigerators were given their choice of appliances from the car. The promotion increased sour cream sales in the Twin Cities area by 25 per cent.

It was noted that Northwest Dairy Day would be held in Thief River Falls on June 9 next year. Other region dates and locations are as follows: Region 2, June 16, Duluth; Region 3, June 18, Alexandria; Region 4, June 24, St. Cloud; Region 5, June 27, Benson; Region 6, June 23, Litchfield; Region 7, June 13, St. Paul; Region 8, June 25, Lewisville; Region 9, June 11, Owatonna; Region 10, June 26 or 27, Dodge Center; and Region 11, June 20, Clarkfield.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. CLARENCE KONICKSON

With the "rush" season upon us, time-savers are the rule of the day, and short-cuts mightily appreciated. To augment the dainties offered on the Lazy Susan, you might stir these together with just no effort at all. They are nutritious and although light, they'll satisfy that sweet-tooth.

When the kiddies are at home, it might be a pleasant diversion for them on a long afternoon of waiting, to get them busy with these. Mom might feel more at ease doing the part that involves melting the butterscotch morsels, however.

Mrs. Konickson, a farmer's wife who lives in rural Red Lake Falls, likes the recipe for its time-saving qualities, adding that it requires no baking, and is prepared in a minute.

The Konicksons have a family of six children, and three grandchildren, and celebrated their 25th year of marriage on November 24, with open house for their friends and relatives. Mrs. Konickson says that with a family like theirs, and their activity in dairying, "a time-saver like this really comes in handy."

'SCOTCH TREATS

Melt over hot, (but not boiling) water, 1 6-oz. package butterscotch morsels and ½ cup peanut butter. Stir to blend. Remove from heat.

Add: 3 cups Rice Krispies. Stir until well coated. Drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper and cool until set. They can also be spread in a buttered, 9" square pan and cut into squares or bars when cool.

The evening was spent in a social manner, with birthday cake served later.

The guest list included Peder Omundson, Mrs. Betty Omundson, Wayne Rodney and Carolyn of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. James Thorstad, Mary and Janice; Mrs. Stella Krankkala and John; Mrs. Inga Omundson and Theodore Omundson.

Mrs. Inga Sabo Feted On 84th Birthday

On Saturday afternoon, November 30, several neighbors gathered at Rosewood, at the home of Mrs. Inga Sabo, to felicitate her on her 84th birthday. Mrs. Lloyd Anderson brought a beautifully decorated cake, complete with 84 candles, to center the table. Lunch was served to the guest of honor and to the other guests present, who included Mrs. Martin Swenson, Mrs. Hans Ness, Mrs. Ernest Trochman, Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Shirley; Marion Copeland, Mrs. Albert Hellquist, Mrs. Alfred Rafteseth, and Mrs. Edwin Quam.

School at Swift May Consolidate With Warroad

For the fourth time in recent years, consolidation of the Swift school district with the Warroad district will be brought before the voters, according to Charles Christianson, superintendent of schools. It is expected the vote will be held some time before spring.

Pupil decline in the Swift district has caused an increasing mill rate due to lost state aid, the superintendent said in a letter to voters in the Swift district. He said that by 1966-67 the mill rate would have to be raised from 145 mills to 196 mills to offset the loss of state aid.

Petitions are being circulated so that an election can be called. This year the school has 31 pupils but the enrollment is expected to drop to as low as 19 by 1966-67.

TWO POINTS are just about to be added to the Prowlers' scoring total as Bob Olson lofts a jump shot into the east basket in Friday night's cage tilt at Warren. The Prowlers won the game, 88 to 66, with Olson scoring 15 points. Center Mark Horgen (44) of the Ponies awaits a possible rebound with Jeff Gustafson (41) of the Prowlers.

Prowler Matmen Defeat Crookston Grapplers Friday

Coach Al Shaff's Prowler wrestling squad scored a decisive 33 to 13 win over the Crookston Central wrestlers in a match held here on Friday evening. Four of the matches on the 12-event program resulted in falls, and the Prowler wrestlers registered the four pin victories. Rocco Wilson, in the 103-lb. class, pinned Crookston's Larry Hill in 1:34 of the first period. Gary Nereson, Prowler 127-lb. wrestler, pinned Crookston's Rod Murray in 3:28 of the second period. Terry Nelson, Prowler co-captain and making his first start of the season, pinned Crookston's Dick Clapp in 1:49 of the first period in a 175-lb. match. And Ellsworth Senum, prevailed upon by coach Shaff to compete in the heavyweight class in the absence of injured Dennis Scultorp, pinned Central's Jim Urness in 2:32 of the second period.

On Wednesday evening the Prowler A and B squads will travel to Greenbush for a match against the highly-regarded Tiger squads.

The next home match for the Prowlers will be on Monday, Dec. 16, when the Mahnomen Indians from District 30 will meet the locals in the high school gymnasium. The B squad matches are scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m., with the varsity matches slated for 7:30 p. m.

Prowler Cagers Whip Warren Quint 88-66

Shooting at a remarkable pace from the field, dropping in 33 field goals in 66 attempts, and a spectacular 78 per cent from the free throw line, coach Jack Junker's cagers rolled up an 88 to 66 win over the Warren Ponies in a District 31 basketball game played at Warren on Friday night.

This week, on Friday night, the Prowlers will travel to Crookston for a conference game against coach Al Droen's surprisingly strong Central team. The Pirates boast victories over the Bemidji Lumberjacks and the East Grand Forks Green Wave this season, having edged Bemidji, 50 to 47, at Bemidji; and East Side, 4 to 38, at East Grand Forks.

In Friday night's tilt the Prowlers opened up to an 8 to 2 lead early in the first period, but the Ponies, on three field goals, and three free throws, overcame that lead to take an 11 to 8 advantage. Ken Larson pared the Warren lead to one point by looping in a field goal, but Warren's Pete Gilbet, on a layup, again gave coach Irv St. John's team a three-point lead, 13 to 10. The Prowlers, on field goals by Mark Anderson, Rick Jensen, and Gary Hagen, and free throws by Nelson and Bob Olson, moved into a 20 to 13 lead at the end of the first period.

In the second period, coach Junker's squad hit for 27 points, with Olson and Larson scoring seven points apiece, to hold a 47 to 26 lead at the intermission.

Warren, with Paul Knutson scoring five field goals and a pair of free throws, and Ron Loeslie adding three field goals and a free throw, rallied for a 23-point third period, outpointing the Prowlers by three points. Knutson, who did not score a point in the first half of the game, added six points in the fourth period to total 18 points for the game and lead the Pony scoring.

The Prowlers, who had a marked advantage in height and were able to control the boards effectively, were impressive on offense, but defensively the Prowlers were erratic. Warren's Pete Gilbert and Paul Knutson, both southpaws, were able to sift through the Prowler defense for layup shots. Gilbert, a sophomore, tallied 16 points.

Rich Nelson, with 22 points, paced the Prowler scorers. Other Prowlers scoring in double figures were Ken Larson with 17 points, Bob Olson with 15 points, and Mark Anderson with 12 points.

Tommy Cummings Leads Scoring with 12 Points

Coach Bob Gaarder's Prowler B cagers won their second game of the young season on Friday evening when they defeated coach Howard Emerson's Warren B squad, 33 to 23, at Warren. The game, which was loosely played, found the Prowler cagers turning in a 12-point fourth period to pull away from the Ponies. Tommy Cummings, with 12 points, earned the game's high-point honors.

Giant Christmas Tree Is Erected at State Capitol

What may be the largest Christmas tree in the country, or perhaps the world, was erected on the lawn of the state capitol in St. Paul Tuesday, December 3. The 74 foot tall white spruce is 14 feet higher than the Christmas tree to be erected in New York City's Rockefeller Plaza this year.

It was located, cut down and transported to St. Paul by the Minnesota conservation department's forestry division. The tree was taken from state-owned land in the Cloquet Valley state forest north of Duluth.

The tree will be decorated with some 2400 white, 10 watt bulbs. Governor Karl Rolvaag will throw the switch lighting the tree during a ceremony on Monday, December 9.

TURN TO PAGE 6 FOR ADDITIONAL SPORTS

JOE TAYLOR applies pressure on the Crookston Aggies' Eddie Kovar in a 175-lb. class wrestling encounter here on Tuesday evening. The Prowlers dropped the match to the Aggies, 29 to 21, but Taylor scored a 5 to 0 decision over Kovar. Wrestling is drawing considerable interest in the local winter sports schedule with large crowds attending the first meets of the season.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

He Could Be a Big Help

Wrestling fans who were at the high school gymnasium on Friday evening, for the Prowlers vs. Crookston Central match, were surprised, and pleased, to see that Ellsworth Senum was in the lineup for coach Al Shaff's varsity squad.

With heavyweight Dennis Sculthorpe unable to compete because of injury, coach Shaff prevailed upon Senum, a burly 250-pounder, to wrestle. Senum, who is a senior, earned a letter as a varsity wrestler when an eighth grader, but since that time the powerful youngster has not wrestled.

In his match against Crookston's Jim Urness, the Boomer, who is very powerful, and colorful, scored a pin at the 2:32 mark of the second period. This was quite an accomplishment considering that he had not been doing any wrestling for the past several years.

It is to be hoped that coach Shaff can persuade the Boomer to remain on the squad, and it's a fact that the Prowlers will be a stronger squad with Senum in the lineup. And, too, the Prowlers are due to get John Bauer, a transfer student, on the eligible roster in a couple of weeks.

Some Tough Luck

Arlo Brunsberg, the famed Fertile and Concordia college athlete who is making a bid for a professional baseball career with the Detroit Tigers, is at home in Fertile. Arlo, who had been participating in the Florida Instructional league, with the Tigers' farm team (and the team is leading the league) but he suffered an injury, a broken bone, and so he had to move to the sidelines.

Arlo's prospects of getting a serious trial with the Tigers are quite bright. And they brightened considerably this past week when the Tigers traded off catcher Gus Triandos. Bill Freehan, the former University of Michigan athlete, is the club's number one catcher, but the club carries two or three receivers and Arlo, who caught righthander Frank Lary when the Tigers sent the veteran hurler to Knoxville to get his arm in shape, was considered a top prospect.

I know that all the sports fans in this area are hoping that Brunsberg can shake off the injury jinx that has been hampering his progress. Early last season he suffered a broken bone in his throwing hand, and was sidelined for a couple of months.

Del's Big Fish

Del Harbott, fishing with a hook and line, and a small minnow, at Squaw Point the other evening, caught a seven and a half pound walleyed pike. That's the finest, or one of the finest, walleyes to be taken out of the river this season. Del was fishing from a fish house, and it was quite late in the evening, about eight o'clock, when he make the catch.

The Squaw Point area this fall has produced a number of fine walleyed pike catches, and there is getting to be quite a concentration of fish houses on the ice out there.

Am Wysoski and Harlan Huseth are spending their after-supper hours in constructing an elaborate fish house. The two are the self-appointed ice fishing experts of the Vets, and rate themselves a couple of rungs above such boys as Mouse Efteland and Squire Overum. It is rumored that the Am and Harlan fish house will be equipped with a built-in cribbage board, and other time consuming devices. They will notify their friends when they will hold an "open house".

Many Changes Seen in State Dairy Industry

Trends in Minnesota's dairy industry and their implications for research and continuing education programs of the University of Minnesota's Institute of Agriculture were outlined November 30 by Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the institute.

Berg spoke at the annual meeting of the Twin City Milk Producers Association at the St. Paul Auditorium.

He noted a continuing reduction in dairy herds and cows, increased production per cow and dairy farm, a shift to longer processing units and a greater demand for quality dairy products.

Minnesota, since 1955, has seen nearly a 200 percent increase in number of herds with 30 cows or more, according to Berg and nearly a six-fold increase in number of bulk milk tanks on farms.

Meanwhile, numbers of herds of fewer than 10 cows has declined by more than half and those with 10-19 have decreased by about a third.

With larger dairy herds and more use of bulk handling, the supply areas for dairy plants have widened, decreasing the need for assembly plants. Plants processing over a million pounds of butterfat annually number nearly a third of the total plants in the state.

Berg noted a U.S. milk production level of under 125.3 billion pounds in 1963, or slightly under the 1962 mark. The decline is accounted for by a continued decline in cow numbers which, unlike recent years, is not fully compensated for by gain in production per cow.

For the future, Berg said that as the number of dairy herds declines the number of processing units will also continue to decrease. There will be a greater demand for quality products and more concentration on cow quality on farms staying in production.

The dairy industry is faced with a slight decrease in per capita consumption of manufactured dairy products, Berg said, but this will be offset by the increase in the population. Total demand for fluid milk, however, is declining slightly, as a result of a heavy per capita decline in consumption. The percentage of milk drinkers in the population is dropping, Berg said.

The University, Berg said, has a continuing program of research oriented toward the dairy industry research ranging from "the feed before it goes into the cow to the public reaction to dairy products."

As an example, Berg pointed the bulk milk studies and investigations of off-flavors in milk from storage and pipe lines and the importance of bacteria in milk flavor.

Another example is research on use of dairy steers. Is it possible," he asked, "to breed a high solids, low-fat dairy cow—and yet have the dairy steers be suitable for production of meat protein?"

Chaper Meat Cuts Lower Food Budget

'U' Marketing Specialist Makes Recommendations

Some of the less tender cuts of meat being featured this week at many markets offer homemakers a chance to cut down on food budgets and add variety to meals.

Spare ribs, pork steaks and hocks, picnic hams and picnic-style pork roasts, beef chuck roasts and beef stew meat are among the meats with attractive price tags this week, reports Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota. Any of these cuts can be tender, flavorful and juicy when cooked properly, she says.

Other good meat buys during December will be various cuts of beef and pork and turkey in a variety of sizes. Beef, pork and turkey are on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for the month.

Supplies of locally grown carrots, cabbage and spinach and Red River Valley potatoes are plentiful this week and selling at seasonally low prices.

Shipped-in fruits that are good values currently are Florida grapefruit, especially the small sizes, California emperor grapes, tangerines and bananas. Throughout December cranberries from a bumper crop and apples will be the most abundant fruits and good buys.

Look for reduced prices on some canned goods this week, Miss Ryan suggests, including peaches, apricots, fruit cocktail, corn, peas, tomatoes, frozen orange juice, tuna and coffee in 2-pound cans.

Pecans from an all-time record crop and peanuts are particularly plentiful this month for holiday baking and candy making.

Duck Victims of Oil Travel South

Only 466 Ducks Saved out of More Than 5000

The last of 466 ducks which survived after being trapped in the oil laden waters of the Mississippi last spring have migrated to the south, the conservation department reported this week.

After being washed in detergent, fed and kept in heated buildings for a time, the ducks were turned loose in ponds around the Department's game farm in the Carlos Avery wildlife area north of the Twin Cities.

The survival rate on birds delivered alive to be cleaned averaged around 34 per cent despite valiant efforts of game farm personnell and volunteer workers to save them. The effects of exposure and handling proved too much for most of the ducks.

Conservation department game officials estimated that between 5,000 and 10,000 ducks died as a result of the oil discharged into the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers from a broken soy bean oil storage tank at Mankato and a break in an oil pipe line at a tank farm near Savage.

Now She Helps Others

FOR MANY YEARS, the hands of Joan Keeler (right), Summit, N. J., have been disabled by severe rheumatoid arthritis. Now at last, after treatment at the March of Dimes-financed Arthritis Clinical Study Center, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York City, Joan has so improved that she is able to help others who are handicapped. Here she is seen working at Fair Oaks Hospital, Summit, as an occupational therapist, and teaching a patient how to weave a reed tote bag. She says, "The simple truth is that the March of Dimes put me on my feet."

New Varieties of Seeds Approved

Two Kinds Flax Seed Are No Longer Recommended

As a result of a new race of flax rust spreading southward from Canada, two flax varieties were dropped this week from the list recommended by the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station.

The varieties are Arny and Marine 62, both susceptible to the new race 300 of flax rust which was first identified in Canada during the past year. Other recommended flax varieties are immune to race 300.

The main reason for dropping Arny and Marine 62 is to reduce the possibility of giving the rust organisms a chance to grow and breed new races of rust.

The change was made at the Experiment Station's annual varietal recommendations conference held on the St. Paul campus in cooperation with the department of agronomy and plant genetics, the department of plant pathology and physiology, the agricultural extension service and the Minnesota Crop Improvement association.

Added to the recommended list were Dodge oats and Mingren sunflowers.

Dodge oats is recommended as a good yielder, with good straw strength and less susceptibility to crown rust than any other recommended variety except Portage.

Mingren sunflowers are recommended only where a higher price is paid for large seed. It yields slightly more than Mennonite and has larger seed.

Production capacity of nearly-dry oil wells can be greatly increased by pumping brine into the wells and thus driving remaining oil into nearby producing wells. Huge pumps, cast of nickel-containing ductile iron and weighing more than 7,000 pounds each are used to pump the corrosive brine.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

New Sunflower Variety Produced

'U' Experiment Station Says It Has Larger Seeds

A new sunflower variety, Mingren, has been developed by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station.

About 230 pounds of seed were released last spring for increase by growers and the University, according to Carl Borgeson, University agronomist in charge of seed stocks. Further distribution will be made through county committees in 1964.

The new variety was developed and tested by R. G. Robinson, University agronomist. It was formerly known as Minnesota No. 2, and is a large-seeded variety selected from the Mennonite sunflower variety.

Mingren in tests has been superior to Mennonite in seed weight and percentage of large seeds which bring a higher price from some buyers.

Mingren tends to yield more than Mennonite and less than Arrowhead, a recommended variety. It has averaged four to five days later in flowering and is one to six inches taller than Arrowhead.

Sunflowers are among several oilseed crops which seem to be gaining popularity in Minnesota. Oils from such crops tend to find two main uses—as drying oils in paints, linoleum and coatings and as edible oils such as margarine and salad oil.

Sunflowers in the past have been grown largely for birdfeed and confections, but have good potential for the oilseed market. Estimates are that about 27,000 acres of the crop were grown in Minnesota during the past summer.

With good farming practices, Minnesota growers should be able to harvest 1,000 pounds of sunflower seed per acre and it appears that they will average that in 1963. In 1963, several growers produced more than a ton to the acre.

"That we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us — that we should respect the rights of others as scrupulously as we would have our rights respected — is not a mere counsel of perfection to individuals — but it is the law to which we must conform social institutions and national policy if we would secure the blessings and abundance of peace."

Academic Freedom

The New York Times does not go along with J. Edgar Hoover and the idea he expressed to a New York youth group favoring the barring of Communist speakers from college campuses because their ideas can "win allegiance of American youth.' On this question we will string along with the New York Times, which states:

"We think that the F.B.I. director underestimates the intelligence of American students and seriously narrows the concept of academic freedom. The Communists have been notoriously unsuccessful in their campus recruitment. One reason may be that when students are permitted to learn about Communism, its secretive glamour is stripped away.

"American college students have invited and heard many repugnant persons and ideas in recent months. Racism, radical rightism and Communism have been preached — and debated openly—at major universities. "If you expect a nation to be ignorant and free," Thomas Jefferson once said, "you expect what never was and never will be." That's what academic freedom is all about."

Whatever our faith in the future of our country may be, it must be based on our hope and confidence that the generation that succeeds us will have the wizdom and understanding to make the right decision. If we deny them the right to hear all of the arguments, pro and con, on the important questions, we will have no right to hope or expect that they will come up with the right answers.

Is Unity Desirable?

President Johnson spoke wisely when he stated that, "Our American unity does not depend on unanimity." There has been a lot of talk since the tragic death of President Kennedy about the need for national unity. We are glad President Johnson has pointed out that there is a difference between unity and unanimity. Thinking in terms of partisan political problems, there is need for unity in certain fields of national policy. But to expect all good citizens to agree on all questions of national policy would not be a reasonable approach to the democratic processes.

We like the Lyndon Johnson approach, borrowed from an ancient teacher who suggested that the proper way for reasonable people to adjust their differences is to sit down together and approach their differences reasonably. In other words, let's try to understand each other and each other's problems. Those individuals or groups who assume that they have the only right answers to the important social, economic or political problems of the world are not people of sound judgement.

President Johnson deserves support for whatever portion of his program is in the best interests of the nation and the world. We like the manner in which he has invited those who disagree with him to calmly talk things over and reason together. And we like the following observations on this approach by the Wall Street Journal:

"In the altered political outlook are indications of carrying unity too far. It is said, and for all anyone knows it may prove correct, that the prospects for a sharp election confrontation have been reduced. Instead of the possibility of a Democratic "liberal" pitted against a Republican "conservative," the likelihood now is Democratic "moderation" against Republican "moderation." The implication is that this is to the good to the extent that it seems to unify the nation.

"Perhaps; but it should be remembered that the political debate which has been building up in recent years is no mere matter of personalities and isolated local issues, nor a mere matter of hatred and rancor. It also represents a philosophical division between those who believe in the seemingly unlimited expansion of Government and those who believe in the necessity of restraining it.

"There is nothing particularly "moderate" about the expansionists; nothing necessarily "extreme" about the advocates of restraint. For the opposition party to forget the existing political divisions and once again assume it need do no more than copy the party in power is to deny the voters a choice which a great many have indicated they want.

"An instinctive sense of national unity in a time of uncertainty is one thing, but no one should want a monolithic unanimity in this country. As President Johnson has also emphasized, ours is a Government of many balances.

"One of the most important checks is not even institutionalized: It is the check imposed by diversity of viewpoint. That produces not a sham unity but a very real balance in our national life.'

Class "B" Citizen

Senator Dirkson of Illinois, a Republican, thinks he would be made a Class B citizen if he were required to disclose, along with all other members of Congress, his individual financial resources. Considering all of the factors involved, we have no objection to Senator Dirkson, along with his colleagues becoming "Class B" citizens, if the only requirement is a disclosure of their financial resources.

As a matter of fact, we rather like the idea. This being a member of Congress, in either the upper or lower house, is a fairly permanent job. Certainly it is a full-time job during the period of service.

We rather like the idea of having a financial statement as a required report from year to year of all of those who serve us in this capacity. We might even go along with the idea that any falsification of the records would justify capitol punishment. Being a member of Congress should not be looked upon as a license for racketeering, and in both the upper and the lower houses of Congress, being elected is recognized too often as a hunting license.

Members of both houses of Congress should take immediate action to protect the integrity of those members whose first concern is the public interest.

A Sorry Record

Lloyd's Ship Register published in London, England, released its annual survey recently and it included an interesting report on the number of ships under construction at the end of September of this year. On that date Japan had 119 vessels, totaling 1,635,507 tons, under construction. This represents nearly 18 per cent of the world tonnage under construction and a record figure for Japan.

Britain was high in the number of ships under construction but second in gross tonnage. On that date Britain had 155 ships under construction with a gross tonnage of 1,443,702—about 16 per cent of the world tonnage. Then came West Germany, Italy, France, Sweden, Norway and The Netherlands, in terms of tonnage. At the bottom of he free world list was the United States, once upon a time one of the world's great shipbuilding nations. On September 30 we had 43 ships under construction with a total tonnage of 346,514.

The reason for this sorry record, of course, is the fact that ships can be and are being built at lower cost in other countries. It is not due to any lack of facilities or know-how. Ship operators are going to buy where they can get the most for their money, and the answer for this is not more subsidies for either our ship builders or our ship operators. The answer is a more realistic look at the simple facts of life and recognition of the fact that we must remain competitive if we are to survive.

Such a realistic approach will call for some unpleasant adjustments, but the longer we drift, as we have been drifting, the more unpleasant those adjustments will become.

Is It Worth the Cost?

According to the New Prague Times, the thousands of students who are enrolled at the University of Minnesota play only about one-tenth of the cost of their education. Most of the other nine-tenths of the cost, we gather, is paid by the taxpayers of the state. According to Art Suel of the New Prague Times:

"The financial statement of the University of Minnesota for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1963, shows gross receipts of approximately $106 million, including students' tuition and fee of nearly $11 million.

"Unaccustomed as we are to such large figures, we gain the impression that the students pay in tuition and fees about a dime out of every dollar of the cost of University operation."

There is justification for concern about the high cost of the state's higher education operation, especially when we consider that its output of professionally trained men and women has not increased proportionately with the total enrollment. While the facilities for training medical students have been greatly expanded, the number of graduates has not increased over a period of many years. The fact that the output in the school of medicine was stepped up substantially during the war years to meet the increased needs of our military organizations indicates that increased production with existing facilities is possible.

Measuring the University by such yardsticks justifies the conclusion that we are not getting good value for the millions we pour into the school each year. It is one of the biggest schools in the country but it is not rated as one of the best. Just as one of the Big 10 schools it is not rated as one of the best. The medical school does rate high nationally. What the University needs is greater emphasis on higher standards and increased production at the professional level.

OFTEN WONDER WHY THE PRESSURE SEEMS so great? The explanation may lie in the item contributed by a reader of this column. We won't guarantee the figures to be accurate but they look like they could be. A slight increase in population since the figures were released should not affect the overall picture.

The report puts the U.S. population at 185,937,000. Deducting 61 million of age 65 or older, 124,937,000 are left to do the work. Then subtract 65 million 21 years of age or younger, leaving 59,937,000 to do the work. Of these 25,014,211 are government workers, with 34,925,789 left to do the work.

Of course 4 million persons are in the armed services, with 30,925,789 left to do the work. State and city employees total 18,920,780 which leaves 12,055,009 left to do the work. Deduct 10,128,009 people in asylums, hospitals and meetings, leaving 1,879,000 to do the work. There must be 1,762,000 people who just won't work, and that leaves 117,000 remaining. Of these, 116,998 are in jail—with only two people left to do the work.

Now, the simple process of arithmetic shows that you and I are the only ones left—and you'd better get with it because I'm getting tired of running this country all alone!

"Miss Jones," the boss said to the new secretary, "you are the best-looking girl we have ever had in this office." She smiled. "You dress well," he continued, "you have a nice voice, you make a good impression on the people who come in and the manner in which you conduct yourself here is excellent."

"Oh, thank you," the secretary beamed. "Your compliments are very pleasing." "Enjoy them to the utmost," the boss replied, "because we are now going to discuss your spelling, punctuation and typing."

The story is told of a senatorial candidate making a lengthy speech before a captive audience of farmers, pausing only long enough to take occasional drinks of water from a glass before him on the table. "Tell you one thing," one elderly listener confided to his neighbor, "This is the first time I ever saw a windmill run by water."

'I want to borrow $100,000," the businessman told his banker. "That's a lot of money," the bank president replied. "Can you give me a statement? "Yes," the businessman returned. "I'm optimistic."

An excellent example of an industry working to improve its situation was provided at the Region I meeting of the American Dairy Association in Thief River Falls Wednesday. Promotional plans for 1964 were revealed, and the ADA has some interesting ideas for the sale of dairy products.

One of the recent promotions was conducted in the Twin Cities where cultured sour cream was given heavy promotion. Audrey Meyers, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, who made her first Northwestern Minnesota appearance in Thief River Falls during Town and Country Days, was a real booster for the industry. In one day she made 57 door-to-door house calls on housewives to promote the product and the industry. On other days she made nearly as many.

The industry is extremely important to our area and community. Northwest Dairy Day, Top of the Nation dairy sale and Dairy Herd Improvement associations are only part of the picture. There is a big plan in the making for acknowledging our part in the industry. News will be out on it soon.

Sunflower and Millet

Meeting Set Monday For Contract Growers

Previous and prospective growers of sunflowers and millet under contract to Farmers Grain and Milling company have been encouraged to attend a meeting to be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. The session will be an important one for all concerned.

George Pitt, president of Valley Feed & Supply company of Spring Valley, N. Y., parent firm of Farmers Grain and Milling company, will be present at the meeting, according to Harland Knutson, local manager.

Pitt has expressed a need for minimum acreage of 1,500 acres of sunflowers and 3,000 acres of millet in this area for the 1964 crop season. At Monday's meeting he will announce the contract price offered for millet and will also discuss possibilities for establishment of storage facilities and drying equipment.

It is not expected that a signup for sunflower acreage will be conducted at the meeting since a price for production has not yet been established. Other information to be discussed at the session will be of interest to past and present flower seed growers.

Growers of both crops during the 1963 season reported generally favorable success, Knutson said. Encouragement is being given to members of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association to increase their acreage of both crops or to plant them if they have not been planted previously.

A number of cards notifying both prior and prospective growers out this week. "It is impossible to know who may be interested in growing either crop," Knutson said, "so there are undoubtedly people interested who will not receive a card. The meeting is open to anyone and a special notice is not necessary in order to attend."

Lunch will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Farmers Grain and Milling company in Thief River Falls is a processing operation for the packaging of sunflower seed, millet and other grain into wild bird food. It provides employment for a number of people and has excellent expansion opportunity if sufficient crop acreage can be obtained.

TO BE USED for the first time Sunday in its new location in the village of Newfolden, Westaker Lutheran church carries a 75-year tradition for its members. The first service will be a Christmas concert at 8 p.m. and will include several arrangements of carols by the choir, smaller vocal groups, duets, solos and instrumental numbers. The offering received will go to the Redby Indian mission. See church history on Page 6.

Postmaster Ask Removal of Snow from Sidewalks

Now that the Christmas season is with us once again and we are faced with winter conditions, the cooperation of postal patrons is requested in the removal of snow and ice from their sidewalks and steps, Postmaster R. J. Dryden stated today. Snow should be promptly removed to eliminate delays in delivery of mail and ice should be either covered with sand or ashes or removed with one of the several preparations available at local stores.

Christmas Basket Requests Asked

Applications for Christmas baskets are now being received by the Salvation Army headquarters in Thief River Falls and must be submitted by December 18. Baskets are to be picked up on December 20 or 21 at the Salvation Army citadel or will be delivered on those dates.

Post Office To Have Special Window Hours

Beginning December 9, service windows at the post office in Thief River Falls will remain open from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Saturday for the two weeks before Christmas, for the mailing of packages and the purchasing of stamps.

Persons using Christmas stickers or seals are asked to put them on the back of Christmas cards and packages so that they will not conflict with the address on the front, reminds R. J. Dryden, postmaster. Make sure that correct postage is firmly affixed to each card and package. When mailing gifts, it's a good idea to place a piece of transparent cellophane tapeover the address portion of the label to prevent defacing it in transit.

Parcel post size and weight limitations vary according to destination. Information on limitations may be obtained from the post office.

Christmas cards for out of town delivery should be sent before December 15, and those for local addresses should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

The postmaster also said he is most appreciative of the interest and cooperation shown by the mailing public so far, and added that "Do it now" is the slogan from here on in. Don't put off Christmas mailings while there is still time.

Use of the new five-cent Christmas tree stamps on Christmas cards means they will be sorted and delivered first. If return address with ZIP Code number is on each card envelope, they will be forwarded in the event of a change of address, or if they are undeliverable, they will be returned for correction of mailing lists. Personal messages may be written only on Christmas cards sent by first class mail. Nothing but signature is authorized on cards sent at the unsealed, third class rate.

The postmaster warns against careless packing of Christmas gifts. He says it is unbelievable how some people fail to use strong cartons, heavy wrapping paper and sturdy cord when packing their gifts for mailing. He requests special care in packing breakable gifts—mark the cartons, "Fragile" — "Handle With Care" and be sure to put an extra label carrying the recipient's and Sender's name and address inside of every package.

The postmaster asks the cooperation of all business firms to delay the mailing of circulars and catalogs until after December 25 to keep the mails clear for the Christmas rush.

County Fair Group to Bid On Fairgrounds Property

Directors Named Tuesday Night at Annual Meeting

Directors of the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., were instructed Tuesday evening at the annual meeting to submit a bid for purchase of the fairgrounds property. Grounds and buildings formerly owned by the Pennington County Agricultural Society are in receivership awaiting final disposition by the court.

The resolution adopted by members of the association present at the meeting held in the county court room in Thief River Falls, called for the board to submit a bid equal to the total indebtedness of the former owners, with allowance for costs of the receivership. The total indebtedness is nearly equal to the appraised value of the property.

Five directors were elected to three-year terms on the board, one each from Pennington county's five commissioner districts. They included Dale Svendsgaard, district 1; Phillip Bergland, district 2; Wilbur Hallstram, district 3; Jon Metusalem, district 4; and Merle Lundeen, district 5. Wendel Corbet, St. Hilaire, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Merle Rafteseth who has moved from the county.

Robert Lund, who is handling the receivership, told the members of the association that appraised value of the property was about $33,000. Total outstanding debts of the former organization which operated the county fair are $25,963, exclusive of the cost of receivership.

Debts Are Listed

Included in the debts, Lund said, are a bank note and interest totaling $20,776, bills at Brodin Sheet Metal totaling $500, at Home Lumber company totaling $1,580 and Lee Plumbing & Heating totaling $2,299 in addition to several other bills in amounts under $250. He said that costs of receivership had been estimated at $1,500 but that they would not be final until itemized and approved by the court.

Ray Oen, chairman of the association which was organized about a year ago to assume operation of the county fair, announced that the 1964 fair dates have been set for July 23, 24, 25 and 26 — Thursday through Sunday.

Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer of the association, presented a financial report which included 1963 fair operations. Attendance was estimated at 12,800 with 3,124 entries from 838 exhibitors. Premiums paid out totaled $3,910.

Included in the income was $2,361 from grandstand receipts, $616 from parking, $3,354 from carnival, concessions and other fees, and $2,245. Among expenses were the $3,910 fro premiums, $1,994 for entertainment, $80 for director's fees, salaries and expense and $391 for minor and major repair and improvement.

Elaine's CHATTER

A woman was telling a friend that she ALWAYS bought her Christmas presents in October. The friend remarked: "But how do you know in October who your friends will be in December?"

Now that is a good question. But considering the fact that women do 80% of the shopping, Christmas and otherwise, it is high time to make the purchases and take a chance.

ELAINE'S store is just brim full of beautiful gifts for the woman, and time is getting short. Come in and let us help you with your selection.

There are so many things we could write about, but space is limited, we couldn't get it all in this column.

Take a look at the "American Tourister Luggage" It's the world's most wanted luggage, because it is superior in many ways. You can choose the very popular white or blue, red, fawn or dusk, and so many styles to pick from.

For years on end, it has been great sport with men to make remarks about women's hats. Somewhere we read the quip about the woman who said to her husband . . . "When I get down in the dumps, I buy a new hat." His answer was . . . "I often wondered where you got them!"

Isn't that just like a man! From what I have read the men are getting a bit "way out" of late. I understand that they are making plastic, plaid covers, for the sports car driver. The Russians have always gone out for fur hats. Who knows, maybe some day 'he'll' come home with a mink way down over his ears!

There is no substitute for quality and at Elaine's you get quality plus style. Shop now and avoid the last minute rush.

Her dream come true...

A. Lendobejas To Host Moccasin Club Supper

Moccasin Garden Club members met at the J. C. Lendobeja home for their November 21 meeting. They answered roll call by members naming gifts they wanted for Christmas. Mrs. Adam Lendobeja was program chairman. Members spent a busy evening making various items from plastic jugs and decorating them. Mrs. Martin Stenberg had a display of decorated bottles and she demonstrated numerous ways to make them. Several members brought items they had made which added to the theme of "Christmas Ideas". Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. J. C. Lendobeja.

For the December meeting there will be a Christmas supper party at the Adam Lendobeja home on December 30, at 7:30 p. m. with the husbands of the club members as special guests.

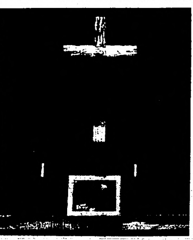
Old Church, New Location

Westaker Church History Is Reviewed

Editor's Note: The following article was compiled and written by Mrs. H. C. Haugen of Newfolden, using official records of the Westaker Lutheran congregation. Much of the information was translated from the Norwegian language, used by the church until the late 1930's. Mrs. Haugen also translated the constitution and by-laws of the congregation. The church building has been moved into the village of Newfolden and the first service in he new location will be a Christmas program on Sunday evening.



INTERIOR of the Westaker Lutheran church at Newfolden is being prepared for the first service to be held in the new location on Sunday at 8 p.m. Volunteer workers from the congregation are cleaning the building which was recently moved from a rural location and set over a previously-constructed basement. The altar area, shown above, is expected to be moved back when the church is enlarged this summer.

The Westaker Lutheran congregation of Newfolden has been an active congregation for more than 73 years. It was on Feb. 13, 1887, that a group of interested people met at the Soren Sorenson home to organize a Lutheran congregation. At this meeting it was unanimously decided to erect a meeting house on a piece of land in section 20 provided by Soren Sorenson. The building was to be 16x20 feet and it was to be built of logs. The logs were to be hauled by eight teams of horses.

In 1892 this building was offered for sale for $50 to be used for a schoolhouse. At the meeting Feb. 13, 1887, it was also decided to ask Pastor Aas to serve as the congregation's pastor and his salary was to be free will offerings. At a business meeting April 18, 1887, Pastor Aas read the creed of the Norwegian Danish Evangelical Church of America and it was unanimously adopted.

Charter members of the congregation included the following: P. S. Mortrud, Lars Bjorsness, Hans Bjorsness, Conrad Sorenson, Soren Sorenson, Erick Aspelund, Ole Ophus, Ole Jorstad, Tom Kolstad, Ole Nyflot, John Knutson, Erick Kolstad, Carl Holberg, Guldbrand Olson, Nels Johnson, Claus Johnson, Ole Johnson, Martin Gustavson, Carl Hanson, Christian Boe, John Vigen, Ed Thompson, John Strand, Rasmus Olson, Ole Nordrum, Andrew Vigen, John Engebretson and C. H. Hanson.

The first officers of the congregation were as follows: Rev. Elias Aas, chairman; P. S. Mortrud, secretary; Ole Johnson, treasurer; Lars Johnson and Nels Johnson, trustees; and Claus Johnson and Soren Sorenson, deacons. The membership list for1891 records 35 families.

Before the log church was built, services were conducted in the homes of the community. According to the records, the first service in the log church was April 26, 1889, and services were conducted there for a period of years with the following serving as pastors: Rev. Aas, Rev. Saurstad, student Ferlie and Rev. Hans Ostgulen.

On June 11, 1889, confirmation services for Westaker and Folden congregations were conducted at the Dyre Bakke hom. Two young people had been confirmed in 1887. They were Oleanna Bjorsness and Jorgine Sorenson.

First wedding performed in the log church was on Jan. 1, 1891, when Inga M. Olson and Karl Martin Gustavson were united in marriage. Iver Farstad and Oleanna Bjorsness had been married October 21, 1890 at the Hans Bjorsness home and in 1890 Betse Peterson and Ole Jorstad had been married. First recorded communion service for the congregation was held at the Lars Bjorsness home March 18, 1887.

On Feb. 2, 1891, a committee composed of D. B. Bakke, Ole Nyflot and Christian Hanson was elected to formulate a constitution for the congregation. The constitution was adopted at a business meeting Feb. 29, 1892. On Feb. 29, 1892, a committee composed of D. B. Bakke and Soren Sorenson was appointed to secure papers of incorporation.

As the congregation grew it became necessary to make plans for a larger church building. At a business meeting Jan. 7, 1895, plans were discussed for a new building and various sites were proposed. At a meeting of the congregation March 15, 1898, it was decided to buy two acres of land from Ed Johnson in section 17 for six dollars.

At a meeting of the congregation Jan. 28, 1899, at the Bjorsness school house, the decision was made to begin building operations in the summer of 1899. The building committee consisted of D. B. Bakke, Christian Haugen, Ed Thompson, C. H. Hanson and Claus Johnson. Lumber for the new church was hauled from the saw mill at Thief River Falls. The church building was remodeled in 1948 and in 1958 a kitchen was added.

First marriage in the new church was that of Emma Strand to Matthias Haugen on Easter Sunday 1902. Easther Nyflot was the first child baptized in the new church. Westaker Ladies' aid was organized in 1892 with Mrs. Dyre Bakke as president. It has continued to be an active organization ever since.

Mrs. Martin Bjornson organized a "pike forening" (Girls' Society) July 22, 1908, at the Ole H. Hjelle home.

In 1916, under the leadership of Rev. Gilseth, a Young Peoples' Society for Folden, Westaker and Bethlehem congregations was organized. In 1935 the present Luther league was organized with Harold Haaseth as president; Mrs. B. M. Haugen, vice president; Mrs. Albert M. Lokken, secretary; and Reuben Haugen, treasurer.

During the summer, parochial school was held for a period of one month with instruction in the Norwegian language. The first record of parochial school dates back to 1891.

There is no complete list available of parochial school or Sunday school in the early years of the church: Matthea Boe, John Pearson, Andreas Vigen, Ole Nyflot, Guldbrand Olson, John Knutson, Christian Hanson, Matthias Haugen, Christian Haugen and Mickal Bakke.

Records show that there was a Sunday school from 1941-1944. The present Sunday school was organized in 1963 and a choir was organized in 1963.

According to the ministerial book, a great number of special evangelistic meetings have been sponsored by the congregation. Some of the guest speakers during the early history of the congregation were: Pastor Gynild, Pastor Bredeson, Pastor Opseth, Missionary Tou, Pastor P. Nilsen, Evangelist O. M. Anderson, Sven Otedal, Pastor Brekhus, Student Sanders Odland, Pastor Lunne, Pastor Peder Overlid, Evangelist Ole Fostervold, Mr. Loebeck (temperance speaker) Pastor Villesvik, Student Solheim, O. S. Vang, O. Fosse, O. J. Bang (temperance speaker).

The first silver wedding recorded which was observed in the new church was for Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Hanson on March 23, 1919.

For about 50 years the Norwegian language was used. At a congregational meeting Dec. 4, 1939, the services would be conducted in the English language. In 1941 it was decided that the business meetings of the congregation would be conducted in the English language.

Many folks will recall that above the chancel of the church there was a motto, in Norwegian and made of moss, which had been placed there by some of the faithful women of the church. The message was this: "Vor rigdom, lyst og ere, skal Jesus ene vere." The motto is no longer there but it remains in the hearts of many of those who have worshipped there during the past years.

At a business meeting of the congregation Nov. 30, 1962, the Westaker congregation voted to remain a Lutheran Free church. On Sept. 18, 1963, after much deliberation, the congregation voted to move the Westaker church building into the village of Newfolden.

The congregation has been served by the following pastors: Rev. Elias Aas, 1887-1889; Rev. Hans Ostgulen, 1889-1905; Rev. Martin Bjornson, 1905-1912; Rev. Albert Gilseth, 1912-1919; Rev. John Hjelmeland, 1919-1927; Rev. G. P. Ronholm, 1927-1945; Rev. E. J. Raaum, 1945-1952; Rev. Gordon Berntson, 1953-1958; Rev. E. Oscarson, 1958-1962; Student Robert Leo, Summer 1963; and Rev. Gene Sundby, Nov. 1963.

God has blessed the work in the congregation and it is with gratitude to God and to the founders of the congregation that we look back on the years gone by. The desire of the early pioneers of the congregation was that the church would "bygge det evige liv i vore hjerter"— (build eternal life in the hearts of all).

It is with confidence in our heavenly Father that we look forward to the future and our prayer is that God's blessings may continue to be upon the Westaker congregation.

TRF Man Attends Planning Session

"Under the present competitive circumstances and those likely to persist for years to come, no service station dealer can prosper on the sale of gasoline alone," L. B. Kelly, regional manager for Standard Oil, division of American Oil Company, told 325 sales executives of the four-state Twin Cities region. F. D. Ball of this city attended the conference.

"Dealers cannot prosper on gasoline and motor oil sales together. They must expand their products and services to adequately meet customer needs—motor tune-up, brake service, wheel alignment, and sell a complete line of tires, batteries and accessories. The day of the long margin is gone," he concluded.

Kelly made the remarks at Standard's 1964 Planning Conference "Campaign for Customers" held in the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis on December 9th and 10th.

Creamery Annual Meeting Held In City On Monday

ized in 1906 and has been operating since that time. Its current operations are listed in the statistical report earlier in this news story.

Virtually all butterfat received in grade B milk and cream is churned into butter at the creamery. A metal churn, purchased in the late 1950's, has a capacity of 900 gallons of cream or 4,000 pounds of butter. About 70 per cent of the butterfat received comes in the form of whole milk while about 150 patrons of the creamery sell cream. Bulk of the receipts come from a 25-mile radius of Thief River Falls.

The creamery operates six can trucks on a daily basis as well as three bulk tank trucks. Last year the creamery received about 32,000,000 pounds of milk and 800,000 pounds of cream.

Other Processing

In addition to the butter churned in the local operation, the creamery does processing for creameries at Wannaska, Grygla, Goodridge and Viking on a year-round basis and for Middle River and St. Hilaire part time. Last year about 600,000 pounds of butter were processed for these creameries.

In attempting to increase efficiency, a considerable amount of equipment has been added in the past few years. Some of this includes increased ice building capacity for sweet water (used in milk cooling), addition of a 5,000 gallon cold wall storage tank for milk, separator with a capacity of 11,000 pounds of whole milk per hour, high temperature and short term pasteurizer, two new cold wall storage tanks of 2,500 gallon capacity each for cream, and the churn mentioned earlier.

Until three years ago the plant also processed cheese, but has discontinued this operation and will dispose of the cheese-making equipment. Most of the butter made at the creamery is packed in 64-pound boxes and marketed through Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. Skimmilk is trucked to Fosston for drying at the plant there.

Employees at the creamery include Klemens Gigstad, manager; Ray Wengeler, office manager; Orville Gillespie, Ollie Ellingson, Eldon Larson and Ernest Delorme, plant personnel; Rodney Collins, quality fieldman; Mrs. Curtis Swanson and Mrs. Duane Olson, office assistants. Arthur Bredlocker plant.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

An Early Season Test

The basketball Prowlers are working on a three-game winning streak over the Crookston Central cagers, but this modest string is in danger of being snapped on Friday night at Crookston. It was back in February of 1962 that the Prowlers, in a 63 to 62 win that required an overtime period, began this short winning streak. Last season, in the two games played, coach Jack Junker's squad marked up victories by scores of 75 to 47 and 66 to 45.

Coach Al Droen's Crookston club has been an early-season surprise, scoring wins over the Bemidji Lumberjacks and East Grand Forks. The win over coach Bun Fortier's defending Region Eight champion Lumberjacks was especially noteworthy as it was scored on the Bemidji court.

Playing an important role in that game, and in the other games that the Pirates have played and won this season, was center Bill Reitmeier. Reitmeier, in only his second or third year of basketball, has, because of his size and strength, provided the Pirates with some strong rebounding off the offensive and defensive boards.

Reitmeier, a senior, has as teammates, Jack Behr, a senior, Steve Erie, a junior, Allen Horge, a junior, Roger Parkin, a junior, and Dave Peterson, a junior. From last season's club such boys as Jim Johnson, Pete Mickelson and Gerry Heldstab have been graduated, and high-scoring forward Mike Dille has moved to McIntosh.

In their games to date the Pirates haven't shown exceptional scoring ability, but they have been real rugged on defense. Well, the way the Prowlers have been scoring, getting 74 points against Fertile in the season-opener, and racking up 88 points against Warren last week, this Crookston defense will get a test.

The outcome of the game will perhaps hinge on whether or not the Prowlers can keep big Reitmeier from controlling the boards. If the Prowlers can gain at least half of the rebounds, then coach Junker's team, because of its all-round scoring punch, can squeak out a win. But Reitmeier's bigness, and some hot-shooting by Dave Peterson, will probably give coach Droen's a victory, by about six points.

The U. S. Olympic Hockey Squad

The 1964 United States Olympic hockey squad will play a couple of games in this area this week. On Thursday night the squad will play the Winnipeg Maroons at Winnipeg, and on Sunday afternoon, with the face-off slated for 2:30 p. m., the Olympics will play the Warroad Lakers at Warroad. Both of these games should be a test for the American Olympians.

The United States squad, still without the services of veterans Roger and Billy Christian, who are expected to join the club shortly, has been doing quite well in the exhibition tour. It's doubtful if the Americans can take the measure of the Winnipeg Maroons on Thursday night, but it's even-stephen that they will best the Warroad Lakers on Sunday.

The Warroad Lakers, who proved to be a "power" in Canadian intermediate hockey last season, reaching the western finals, is in the process of being re-vamped. With the Christian brothers due to join the Olympic squad, Cal Marvin, the veteran manager of the Lakers, has called on such former college stars as Reg Morelli, George Goodacre, and Bob Bartlett, former Sioux players, and Jim Stordahl, just recently a graduate of Minnesota, to bolster the Lakers.

And to get back to the U. S. Olympic team, Bill Reichart, the former North Dakota U and Rochester Mustangs player, and who is just recently an American citizen, was elected captain of the team.

Bill played his juvenile and junior hockey in Canada, and he played a season or two with the Red Deer, Alberta, seniors before moving into the States. For the past several seasons he has been with the Rochester club. Reichart is an exceptional skater, and he has a tremendous slap shot for a player of his modest poundage.

It's Been a Busy Place

The Fair Grounds curling arena has been a busy place the past few evenings. On Monday night it was "paint up" night out there, and a crew of men were engaged in putting in the hog lines, the houses, tee lines, and other fancy works of art on the four sheets of curling ice.

I have heard rumors that the Elks Club rink will put in a claim to being the best dressed foursome on the ice this season. The boys are reported to have on order a set of Ernie Richardson sweaters, with purple trim, and carrying the B.P.O.E. emblem. Well, if this rink doesn't win the majority of its matches, well, I will call a meeting of the executive committee of the Elks! And this is a warning, Jon.

Co. Agents to Convene at 'U' of M. Dec. 10-12

About 350 state and county staff members of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service will attend their annual conference at the St. Paul campus Dec. 10-12.

"New Dimensions for the Institute of Agriculture" will be the keynote address given by Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the Institute at 9:10 a. m., Dec. 10.

The agricultural extension service is one of the three main units of the Institute of Agriculture. The others are the agricultural experiment station and the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics.

The purpose of the conference according to Hal Routhe, state leader of extension programs, is to point up the extension's programs in continuing education.

The conference has four major objectives in mind:

1. To enlarge the vision and broaden the perspective of the agricultural extension service staff
2. To clarify concepts, philosophy, institutional framework and focus for future educational efforts.
3. To provide for discussion of ideas, methods and problems in conducting educational programs.
4. To provide an opportunity to strengthen morale and stimulate enthusiasm.

A key speech on Dec. 12 will be "Charting Extension's Future" by Herbert A. Albrecht, president of North Dakota State university.

Other talks to be given include, "A New Dimension for the University International Programs," by Will Myers, dean, international programs; and "Current Issues in Foreign Trade and Implications for Minnesota Agriculture and the Agricultural Extension Service" by Elmer Learn, head of the department of agricultural economics.

Apart from the conference location, three separate agents meetings will be held on the afternoon of Dec. 10 in Minneapolis at the Curtis Hotel. At 12:30 p.m. the Minnesota home agents will convene. The Minnesota Ass'n. of Country Club Agents will meet at 1 p. m., and the Agricultural Agents Ass'n. will gather at 1:30 p. m.

Macalester Seeks $10 Million Gifts

Former Governor Elmer Andersen to Head Drive

Elmer L. Andersen, former governor of Minnesota and chairman of the board of the H. B. Fuller Company in St. Paul, has accepted the general chairmanship of Macalester College's $32,000,000 capital gifts campaign. Announcement was made following a meeting of the board of trustees of the College on the campus Wednesday by George D. Dayton, II, president of the board, and Dr. Harvey M. Rice, president of the college.

As general chairman, Governor Anderson will be the chief executive of the campaign and have full responsibility for the operational direction of the challenge gift program, both on the national and local levels.

The "Macalester Challenge Program" takes its name from the $10,000,000 gift made this fall by Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Wallace, cofounders and co-publishers of The Reader's Digest. The gift is contingent upon Macalester's raising a like amount within a period of the next ten years.

The program represents a major undertaking for a college of Macalester's size and a significant forward step in meeting present and future responsibilities as a leading small liberal arts college to its students and the nation. Mr. Dayton and President Rice jointly expressed their gratitude for the Governor's acceptance and recalled that the generous challenge gift by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace has made this far reaching program possible.

Governor Andersen has long held a deep interest in education in the State and in the nation. It is second only to that of his many noteworthy activities in fostering good government in this country.

Toward the total need of $32,000,000, the college already has in hand $12,000,000, leaving a remainder of $10,000,000 to be secured. The new program for Macalester to meet academic and physical needs over the next ten years calls for the following: complete construction of the Janet Wallace Fine Arts Center and the new endowment for faculty, student financial aid, to meet the needs of a varied growing educational program, new land acquistion, a new stadium and other athletic facilities.

Texas Hero Honored on Stamp Due Saturday

Going on sale at the local postoffice next Saturday, December 14, is a five-cent commemorative stamp honoring Sam Houston, hero of Texas independence, Postmaster R. J. Dryden announced today. The stamp is printed in black on white paper, and was designed by Tom Lea, famous Texas artist.

Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Hanson Honored

Retiring President of North District of ALC

Dr. and Mrs. A.E. Hanson were feted by 500 persons at an appreciation banquet held Sunday at Concordia College, Moorhead. The former Stephen, Argyle and Middle River pastor, is concluding 12 years as district president for the northern Minnesota District of the American Lutheran church.

Pastor Hanson started his ministerial career at Middle River in 1921 and W.C. Searles of Middle River gave an eloquent testimonial from Dr. Hanson's first parish. In 1924 he moved to the First and St. Petri churches at Stephen and Our Saviors at Argyle.

His other charges have included: First Lutheran Salem and Tonseth at Bemidji from 1927-34: Christ in St. Paul from 1934-39: First and Sterling at Brookings, South Dakota from 1939-47; First at Duluth from 1947-51; and president of the northern Minnesota District since 1951.

Main speaker at the dinner was Dr. Fredrik Schiotz, president of the Lutheran World Federation. Dr. Schiotz paid tribute to Dr. Hanson for his 42 years of service to the church. Dr. Hanson will retire at the years end.

Dr. Hanson was born Feb. 4, 1894 and was married to Marie R. Hugelen June 19, 1921. He was educated at Gale Academy in Galesville, Wisconsin from 1909 - 1913, Park Region school at Fergus Falls 1913-17; Luther Seminary at St. Paul 1917-18 and 1919-1921 and received his honorary doctor of divinity from Concordia College in 1952. He served in the U.S. Navy in 1918-19.

What is growth—is it getting bigger or getting better? What is a good standard of living, more things to consume or better things to appreciate and discriminate? Which is the better use of the moon: to hit it with a rocket or just to look at it? Where are the frontiers of human enterprise? Should people build and pioneer always outward or sometimes inward?

We Must Compete

A shortage of ships flying the American flag is the excuse offered by the federal government to abandon its requirement that half of all commercial agricultural exports to Communist countries must be shipped in United States vessels. And so the second shipment of American wheat will go to Hungary in a foreign-flag vessel. The sale was made by a Minneapolis firm that had been granted an export license.

And why are not American ships available? The answer is quite simple. American ships have been forced off the seas by the ships of other nations that are able to operate at lower costs.

This is one example of why we have unemployment in our country during a period of comparative prosperity. Our future, in international competition, will be determined by our willingness and ability to remain competitive. It isn't only in shipping that we are feeling the pinch. The solution is not more government subsidies.

Are Controls Needed?

Since the assassination of President Kennedy there has been a demand for laws that would provide stricter regulation on the sale of firearms. Present regulations are limited to state laws. James V. Bennett, director of the United States Bureau of Prisons, who has been critical of the lack of effective federal laws, does not think well of the Dodd bill now introduced in Congress. Commenting on this bill to a Christian Science Monitor reporter, he stated that "It is a weak bill." He said:

> "It is confined to so-called 'mail-order' guns, applies mainly to juveniles, and does not cover general gun ownership."

In an area such as ours where the use of firearms is general and hunting is a sport enjoyed by many, we are not impressed with the need for strict control of the sale and ownership of the various shooting devices. Stricter control might reduce the number of accidents, but we are rather doubtful of the value of controls as a crime deterrent. Controls would not deny to criminals the possession of firearms. They would have little difficulty in gaining possession of the kind of firearm they wanted.

Planned Deficits

Dr. Harley L. Lutz, Professor Emeritus of Public Finance of Princeton University, writing in the Wall Street Journal, points up the shortcomings and dangers of "Planned Deficits" in government management. The policy of prosperity through spending, he tells us, is based on the theory, first, that budget deficits in periods of hard times will restore prosperity and in the period of prosperity there will be enough income to pay the debts contracted in the process. It is all very simple. Explain this to your banker if ever you are hard pressed personally for money.

Dr. Lutz reminds us that from 1931 to 1963, excluding war years, our national government had 20 years of deficits and 6 years of surpluses. And, he says:

> "The theory looks good on paper and its reliance on automatic stabilizers gives an illusion of scientific completeness. The practical defect is that the time never comes when the recovery movement reaches the point at which deficit spending automatically stops and the accumulation of surplus revenue automatically begins."

Most of us know through personal experience that, while it is fun to borrow and spend, the fun period is followed inevitably by a period of sacrifice when, somehow, we must pay our debts. Nationally, that period is still ahead of us, and the crackpots who tell us we can spend ourselves rich are ignoring the facts of experience. The fools probably are sincerely hopeful that the day of reckoning somehow will never come.

We like the following concluding observations of Dr. Lutz:

> "The arguments advanced to support deliberately planned deficits in order to bolster the economy or to solve economic problems, are without sound foundation. Granted that circumstances may, on occasion, compel spending in excess of revenues, the imbalance should be as brief and moderate as possible. It should not be intentionally prolonged or enlarged as a stimulative substitute for the dynamic drive that is inherent in an unfettered free enterprise system.
> "The private economy is the only source of strength for the nation and the only visible means of support for the people and the Government. The principal effect of an ever-expanding Federal budget is to promote Government growth at the expense of economic growth; and the principal effect of a prolonged series of deficits to support such a budget policy is to impare the value of the currency and create an illusion of prosperity by measuring our gains, not in real output, but in a larger number of cheaper dollars.'

A Short Step

President Johnson proposes a three-billion dollar cut in the budget and that, of course, is a step in the right direction, but a very short step. Considering the fact that the budget now being prepared will add up to a hundred billion dollars, slicing off a paltry three billion is a mere trifle.

It is encouraging to know that the President is concerned about our national debt and the stability of the dollar at its present greatly reduced value. A ten per cent slash in all appropriations, forcing a little much-needed belt tightening, would be much more in keeping with the needs of the nation.

There is still hope that in his final recommendations the President will be more realistic. The problem is not easy. The public apparently is unaware of, and unconcerned about, the danger that lies ahead unless we do start living within our means. The pressure is for still more spending and in a campaign year the politicians will be influenced by the pressure groups.

The usual campaign-year pay increase for federal employees has already been approved and the next round of increases will start with the new year.

We do not envy the new President his responsibilities. He has inherited a rotten mess and, in the nature of things, changes must come gradually. He has indicated in general terms that he recognizes the danger and intends to do something about it. We will try to be patient.

Isolationist?

Former President Eisenhower has been criticized for advocating sharp reductions in the armed forces our country maintains in Europe. Some critics have branded him an isolationist. Which prompted the following comments by the Wall Street Journal:

> "What the General is actually saying is a far cry from isolationism. One point he makes is that our forces are there primarily for deterrent effect; that is, to show the Russians that they can't attack Western Europe without shooting U. S. soldiers, with all that implies. For that purpose a token force of one division would serve as well as the present six.
> "The further point is that the hole left by such a withdrawal could and should be filled by the Europeans. The whole premise of stationing a large force there more than a dozen years ago was that it would remain only until the Europeans were on their economic feet, which they have been for a long time now.
> "In sum, the U. S. would in no sense be reneging on its commitment to defend Europe. It would simply be redressing a badly unbalanced set of circumstances. Common sense and American necessity strongly support Mr. Eisenhower. The problems, which of course would be considerable in a large-scale withdrawal, are not as formidable as they are made to appear."

The Journal points out that our military spending abroad is a major part of the drain on our dollars which are being converted by the foreigners to gold. It quotes New York banker George Clampion as stating: "We have to act more decisively to eliminate the deficit in our balance of payments.' It points out that:

> "In this effort Europe itself has a significant stake, as its central bankers fully realize. It may be amassing lots of our gold thanks to the payments deficit, but it cannot benefit in the long run from a weak dollar."

In summing up the situation, referring to isolation, the Journal reminds us:

> "It is relevant to note that there is a new surge of isolationism in the world, and not least in Europe. It is usually seen in the large frame of General de Gaulle, but it also exists in other continental nations and in Britain. One political form it takes, despite the local merchants' interest in keeping U. S. troops there, is annoyance with continued heavy reliance on U. S. power.
> "The U. S. has got to accommodate itself to this new European mood and it hasn't been doing a particularly good job of it so far. It is entirely possible that, after the initial adjustments, a much smaller U. S. presence would enhance European self-respect and sense of self-reliance; thus improving rather than impairing relations."

Interesting Opinions . . .

It would . . . be a great bonanza if the Federal Government could bring some sense, let alone consistency, into its national transportation policy, if there can be said to be such a policy. Federal promotion of all forms of transportation except the railroads and pipelines has reached unbelievable proportions. It is hard to understand why the taxpayer allows this to continue—on an ever-increasing scale—at his expense.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

Friday, November 22, 1963 was a somewhat chilly and damp day in Omaha, Nebraska. During the two days the Midwest Governors' Conference had been in progress, there had been some lively discussions on government operations. There had been some warm and friendly social events, too. At noon on that Friday, several of the governors assembled and were driven to Ofutt Air Force Base for a tour of our Nation's important Strategic Air Command (SAC).

Hushed Welcome

The governors and their parties arrived at the SAC base about 12:30 p. m. and were greeted not with the expected warm smiles and firm handshakes, but with solemn faces and hushed voices. "I have serious news for you," said SAC Commanding General Powers. "The President has been shot in Dallas, Texas."

A Sad Day

Naturally our tour of the base was cancelled when, a short time after we arrived, the word came that the President was dead. We were all numb with shock as we rode back to our hotel where we quickly called the conference back into session and promptly adjourned a day early.

Mournful Washington

At 6:30 a. m. on Saturday I was on my way to Washington. During the night telegrams had come in announcing officially the death of President John F. Kennedy and the swearing in of President Lyndon B. Johnson. Men die but governments must go on and the transfer of power was swift and smooth. In Washington the very air was heavy with a mournful sadness. A great leader was dead and the shock of it all left very little else to say.

The Funeral

I was deeply honored to be admitted to President Kennedy's funeral. Like all the others, I sat there deeply stunned, as though all of this were not really happening. Staring ahead at the flickering candles on the altar my thoughts touched upon all of those times when I had spoken to President Kennedy and of his deep and abiding interest in people and their problems. This can't be real, I told myself. Then, from behind me, outside the church, I heard the approach of muffled drums and the sad wail of bagpipes, and somewhere the muted sound of a band playing "The Navy Hymn."

Arlington to Rest

On the steps of the church I watched as the President's body was removed for the trip to Arlington Cemetery. All eyes were focused on that flag draped coffin. And as the coffin was placed on its caisson, little "John-John", the President's son who was three years old on that day, stood at attention and saluted his father. Then I saw old, experienced, hardened photographers—men who had covered wars and revolutions, riots, civil and natural disorders—break down and cry, perhaps for the first time in many many years.

A Symbol of Greatness

There is no question that our late President died a martyr's death. Those thoughtless, hate-filled minds that sought his end have not been successful, however. The ideas of a man live on long after he had died. This is something that fanatics never understand. President Johnson has sworn to uphold the great ideas and ideals of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. I am sure that all Americans wish him well in his new tasks.

✓ 1963 Box Score:

FORD'S TOTAL PERFORMANCE TOUGHNESS DOMINATES THE COMPETITION WORLD!

Ford has chosen the most rugged testing program cars have ever faced . . . full-scale open competition on the rally and racing circuits of the world. This is the dramatic way to show that Fords have changed . . . and the sure way to be certain they keep on changing. Changed? Just look at the record:

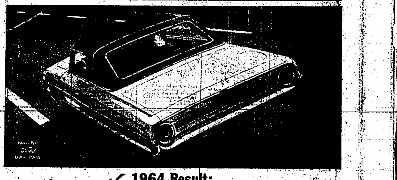
STOCK CAR RACING: 3-to-1 margin for Ford
Ford is king of NASCAR competition and Ford Motor Company has the NASCAR Achievement Award to prove it. In the '63 season, special Ford entries won every single race of 500 miles or longer, scored nearly twice as many points as any other make. 500-mile races are the ultimate test of inherent durability and dependability. In two other major stock car racing associations IMCA and MARC, Ford drivers have wrapped up the 1963 championships.

SPORTS CAR ROAD RACING: Ford V-8 power is the new king
Here the Cobra with its special Fairlane engine emerged as the overwhelming leader in one short year. Cobra won the coveted Manufacturer's Trophy in SCCA Class A Production competition by so wide a margin no other cars—U.S. or foreign—were even in sight. And in the two major tests this fall, the Laguna Seca and Riverside races, the new King Cobras dusted off the top "unlimited" cars from all over the world.

RALLY COMPETITION: Manufacturer's Championship
Products of Ford Motor Company and its world-wide affiliates won the 1963 Manufacturer's World Rally Championship. Ford's rally year began when two specially equipped Falcon V-8's startled the automotive world in the brutal 2500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye. Other special Falcon V-8's triumphed in Holland's famed Tulip Rally, and ran away with the Manufacturer's Team Prize in the 4000-mile Trans-Canada Rally.

INDIANAPOLIS: Ford ends an era
Advanced Ford engineering smashed precedent in the classic Indianapolis "500." The first time out, a light alloy version of the Fairlane V-8 design in a Lotus chassis finished second. And the next time, in the Milwaukee "200", it ended the reign of the traditional "Indy" racing car by leading every foot of the way from start to finish.

PERFORMANCE & ECONOMY: New laurels for Ford
The Mobil Economy Run underscored Falcon's years-long reputation for thrift—a Falcon scored first in Class B (medium-engined compacts). And the Pure Oil Performance Trials brought laurels to the big Fords, which walked off with overall wins in Classes [illegible] and II for total performance (economy, acceleration, and braking).



✓ 1964 Result:

TOTAL PERFORMANCE INSPIRES THE TOUGHEST, SMARTEST CARS FORD EVER BUILT!

Fords have changed—and that's the real reason behind Ford's racing successes. We're now making the longest lasting, best handling cars in our history. The things we've learned from the specially equipped cars we enter in open competition have helped make them that way.

The inherent qualities that make the victorious racing car—road-holding, braking, durability, precision control, resistance to vibration—also make a car safer, stronger, and smoother for highway use.

But prove it to yourself. Take the wheel of any new Ford. Five minutes on the road will show you the kind of total performance no one else can match.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—My discharge was burned in a home fire. Can the VA furnish me a duplicate?

A—You should write to the Defense Personnel Records Center, 9700 Page Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri. Be sure to give your full name, rank and serial number. If the serial number is not known, give your dates of entry into and discharge from the service.

Q—As a veteran, I plan to be buried in a National Cemetery. Can my wife be buried there, too?

A—Yes. Should your wife die before you, she may also be buried in a national cemetery, provided you give written intention that you plan to be buried there at the time of your death.

Q—I asked the VA to hold my annual GI insurance dividend to meet the premium payment. Do I have to repeat this request annually?

A—No. Once the credit arrangement has been authorized by you, it will remain in effect until cancelled.

Q—As a dependent parent receiving DIC payments from the VA I have been mailed a questionnaire card asking my income for 1963 and my expected income for 1964. The VA knows I am a poor widow. Why do they send me this card?

A—Every three years the VA must determine if dependent parents are eligible for DIC payments. Your other income or lack of it has an important bearing on this. You should complete the card and mail it to avoid any chance of a hold-up of your monthly checks.

New Date Set for State FU Meeting

Convention to Open In St. Paul December 15

The statewide convention of Minnesota Farmers Union is now set for Sunday through Tuesday, December 15-17th in St. Paul. It had been set originally for November 24-26, but was postponed because of the national day of mourning for the late President John F. Kennedy.

Edwin Christianson, state president, said in announcing the new dates that the convention will consider some significant reccomendations on new dairy and wheat legislation.

The state farm leader said that dairy and wheat are the big questionmarks for 1964 and that farm economists expect a $500 million increase in farm income from feed grains, soybeans and other commodities.

"Added to these expected gains, a new dairy program and a wheat program to assure at least $2 a bushel could make 1964 a better farm income year," Christianson said.

At the opening session of the convention Sunday evening, a John F. Kennedy Memorial Address will be made by U. S. Senator Eugene J. McCarthy.

Norman Clapp, REA administrator, will speak on Tuesday, December 17th, as will Minnesota Senator Hubert H. Humphrey.

Life Insurance Death Benefits up

Minnesota families received $48,400,000 in life insurance death payments in the first nine months of this year, compared with $44,000,000 in the same period of last year, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today. The number of policies involved in the first nine months of 1963 was 21,600, compared with 19,800 policies in the corresponding period of 1962.

Of this year's nine month aggregate death payments in this state, $28,400,000, was under 9,300 ordinary insurance policies; $18,200,000 was under 7,400 group life insurance certificates; and $1,800,000 was under 7,400 group life insurance certificates; and $1,800,000 was under 4,900 industrial insurance policies.

JANESVILLE 4-H'ER RECEIVES NATIONAL SCHOLARSHIP

CHICAGO—Four years of recreational leadership have brought $500 to a Minnesota 4-H'er.

The sum comes as a college scholarship for James Spangler, 18, Janesville. The award was announced at the 1963 4-H Club congress, held here December 1-5.

Spangler is one of six youths in the nation to receive scholarships, given by the John Deere Company, Moline, Illinois, for outstanding work in the 4-H recreation program.

An active junior leader and past president of his local club, Spangler has been a delegate to both the State Junior Leadership Conference and the District Leaders' Institute on Recreation. In 1963, his club was selected one of Minnesota's 10 outstanding 4-H clubs in the area of recreation.

The national winner has been song leader for the Waseca County fair, achievement banquet, share-the fun-contest and other community events. "Too many people have forgotten the simple art of singing," says Spangler. "I think it is important for young as well as old to sing together."

Last summer he planned and led recreational activities for an exchange program between Minnesota and Maryland 4-H'ers.

Spangler is presently farming with his parents on their 250-acre farm. He plans to attend college.

NEW CHEVELLE!
BY CHEVROLET

The kind of go—6 or V8—you'd expect from one of Chevy's great highway performers. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

The kind of fresh styling—inside and out—that makes it the year's smartest surprise. Come down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!

And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

A growing network of March of Dimes-financed treatment centers, now totaling 44 for birth defects and 25 for arthritis, is bringing top quality medical care for victims of these cripplers to many communities where it had previously been unavailable. These centers, combining the medical team approach, research and teaching, are an outgrowth of the polio respiratory centers pioneered by this voluntary health organization. Further growth of this program depends on public support of the annual March of Dimes fund-raising campaign in January.

WHAT IS AN INSULATOR WORTH?

Just what is an insulator worth?

You've seen thousands of these insulators on power lines throughout Minnkota-Land. Have you ever thought about just what an insulator is worth? In actual dollars and cents, an insulator costs about $3.62. Not too much, you say. But suppose that insulator gets smashed through vandalism . . . just think of the electricity being interrupted to over 48,000 farm families! They are dependent on electricity for their very livelihood in many cases. The true cost of an insulator cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

Be Fair To Your Neighbors
Each fall there is destruction of insulators by hunters. It's a dangerous practice . . . you not only deprive farm families and small businesses of electricity, but the fallen lines could cause death and destruction that would be tragic

A Plea To Parents
Please explain to your youngsters that shooting at insulators is more than just a prank . . . it's dangerous, trucks and crews must find the damaged lines and make repairs, and the loss of electricity in the interim can cause untold hardships. Electricity is not a game . . . it's a vital part of our country . . . let's all help make it safe and reliable!

Business Backs 4-H Clubs Nation-Wide

Incentives Help Make Best Better

U.S. business firms contributed $1.25 million in 1963 toward recognition and encouragement of the nation's 2,225,000 4-H Club members, the director of the National 4-H Service Committee has announced.

Norman C. Mindrum, director of the committee, said the record figure made possible awarding of college scholarships and fellowships valued at $145,000. They were presented this year to 275 of the nation's most outstanding 4-H youths and to young adults who once were 4-H'ers.

The financial support also was used for more than 180,000 other awards to members of the nation's more than 94,000 local 4-H Clubs. The clubs are in about 3,100 counties in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The national committee, headquartered in Chicago, utilizes the funds to assist the Cooperative Extension Service advance the 4-H program.

Awards Since 1900

"Awards are an integral part of 4-H," Mindrum said, "and have been provided as incentives and recognition for young people since the early 1900s."

Help from 67 business firms now backing 4-H dates back in some cases to the 1920s. The average tenure for all donors is 18 years.

The scholarships, nearly all for $500 each, were awarded Dec. 1-5 during the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, attended by more than 1,500 delegates. Their expense-paid trips, considered both educational and cultural, were awarded by more than 30 of these firms.

Funds for programs ranging from bread baking to entomology are channeled through the 4-H committee, incorporated in 1923 when a handful of business firms provided $3,400 to help the growing club program. In the last 10 years alone, the number of county medals awarded has increased from about 85,000 to nearly 180,000.

"Each donor has an interest in boys and girls, an appreciation of the need for youth development and a feeling that the organization can serve 4-H in a wholesome manner with limited self-gain," Mindrum said.

Diversified Support

Among the business firms supporting 4-H in 1963 are American Forest Products Industries, Inc.; American Oil Foundation; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System; California Chemical Company—Ortho Division; Cities Service Oil Co.; Chicago and North Western Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Co.; The Conrad Hilton Hotel; Chicago Board of Trade, and Cudahy Packing Company.

Also Elgin National Watch Company; General Motors; Hellsdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc.; Homelite, a division of Textron Inc.; Humble Oil & Refining Company; Illinois Central Railroad; International Minerals & Chemical Corporation; Livestock Conservation, Inc.; Massey-Ferguson Inc.; Moorman Mfg. Co.; The Milwaukee Road; Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation; Edward T. Meredith Foundation, Successful Farming; Pure Oil Company; Ralston Purina Company; The Sears-Roebuck Foundation; The Singer Company; Standard Oil Company (Kentucky); Standard Oil Company (Ohio); The West Bend Company; Wilson & Co., Inc.; and friends of the late Thomas E. AWARD for the highest score in North Central Airlines' 1st-N-10 sales contest held during October was presented to the Thief River Falls station last week by Stepthen W. Langen Would Reduce Dairy Goods Imports

"Some strange situations have developed on the agricultural import-export scene," declared Congressman Odin Langen Saturday as he introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to regulate agricultural and forestry imports.

"There are plenty of examples," said Langen, "such as recent United States cheese transactions with Italy. Last year, according to U. S. Department of Commerce figures, we bought over 24-million pounds of various cheese from Italy at prevailing world prices. These imports are continuing this year. But we have now turned around and are selling to Italy almost 3-million pounds of U. S. cheese from our surplus Commodity Credit Corporation stocks for the Italian school lunch program for only 14½ cents a pound, which results in a net loss of millions of dollars to the United States. And in order to supply this cheese for the Italians, our Department of Agriculture has to go out and buy domestic cheese for as much as 40½-cents a pound,"

"Now, this just doesn't make sense," said Langen. "The American producers and taxpayers lose out in every phase of these bizarre transactions. There is no reason in the world why Italy can't provide the cheese for her own school lunch program. But why should she when the United States will buy Italian cheese at a higher price and then sell U. S. surplus cheese at a much lower price? If Italy supplied its own cheese for its school lunch program, the 3-million pounds we provide could be sold to U. S. firms at prevailing prices at a saving to the taxpayers. As it stands at the moment, however, this overall transaction leads to a surplus of the commodity and lower prices to U. S. producers of the same commodity."

Langen said that the same situation holds true in our nonfat dry milk trade with Italy. "We pay almost 16½-cents a pound for nonfat dry milk, but we sell it to the Italians for only 5-cents a pound. We're shipping over 5½ -million pounds of this milk to Italy this year. It's too bad we don't show the same consideration for our own school lunch program as we seem to show for the programs in other countries."

Langen said that his import bill, introduced today, would be useful in curbing some of the unwarranted dairy imports as well as other agricultural and forestry products. "My bill would put all dairy imports on a butterfat-content basis, to classify dairy imports together rather than by the helter-skelter product-by-product system now in effect."

Psychologically Speaking . . .

by DR. PAUL HAUCK

Western Mental Health Center
Marshall, Minn.

In Cooperation with Pennington County Association for Mental Health

From the Conscious to the Unconscious

What we permit ourselves to remember has a lot to do with mental health. All of us have had lots of things happen to us which we want to forget, or have done things which we are ashamed of and hope that we can forget them.

In our field, we find that the more of these feelings and events a person wants to forget, the more of his total energies he has to employ for this purpose, and therefore the less he is able to enjoy everyday life. Once these memories are brought back to the person and he has a chance to examine them carefully, he generally comes to terms with those feelings simply because he is aware of them.

"How is it that we can push these memories out of our minds, and how can treatment by psychotherapy bring back memories that otherwise remain hidden?"

This whole problem of memory was thoroughly studied by Sigmund Freud, the founder of psychoanalysis. And to explain how memory works, he employed three terms: the conscious, the preconscious and the unconscious.

If I should ask you what your name is, or where you work, you are able to answer without thinking. The answer is readily available and can be given effortlessly. We call such material, which was easily recalled, conscious material. Note well, it is not a part of the mind, nor is it a specific part of the brain.

Memory itself is handled by certain parts of the brain, but we are as yet not able to locate a place. At present, it is best to think of consciousness as all material which can be recalled at a moment's notice.

If I were to ask you what you had for lunch two days ago, you would, in all probability, have to think about it first. You might begin by retracing your steps meal by meal until, with some concentrated work, you could itemize the entire meal. These acts, which can also be recalled but require extra effort, are said to be on the preconscious level of awareness.

Now, if I should ask you who attended your fifth birthday party or some other remote fact, you might be so hard pressed that you simply could not recall any of the people at that party, or in fact, anything about the party at all. Bear in mind, if you had a party when you were five years old, the memory of it still exists, and by using special techniques it's possible to revive that memory. But if these techniques are required, we call this material unconscious. In other words, the unconscious refers to those memories which exist but which the person cannot wilfully bring to consciousness.

It sometimes requires a great deal of work to bring forgotten memories back to our awareness. This is one of the tasks psychoterapy has to undertake. A patient who is nervous and has no idea why he is this way, may more than likely be bothered by some unconscious thought which the therapist has to help him uncover. A cure of mental illness, however, is only half over when these forgotten memories are revived. But more about that some other time.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

GOING FOR THE SPARE

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

All is not lost with one failure. As any bowler knows, it's worthwhile to achieve a goal on the second try.

The Church was not founded for people who are perfect. It is for men and women who would strive, despite their shortcomings, to meet life's moral and spiritual challenge.

Someone has called Christianity the religion of another chance. Jesus, after all, placed greatest emphasis on God's forgiving love. And He urged men to grasp present opportunities despite past failures.

Earnest Christians today are still discovering in thrilling ways what man, inspired and strengthened by God, can really accomplish.

And some of those whose lives have been enriched with faith and courage once wondered — as perhaps you are wondering — whether to give religion another try.

"Let's give Christmas Back to the Family" from the California Extension service was started in Monday's paper. Here is the second portion of the article. With the sound of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" ringing in our ears, let's take a close look at some of the situations we face during this holiday season. Maybe some solution will present themselves.

Traditions assume a tremendous importance during the Christmas season. Each young family should start a few of its own to strengthen the ties that bind them together as a family. It has been said that each person in his lifetime belongs to two families: first, the one into which he is born, the one which shapes and molds his character and personality; and second, the one which he builds for himself in his marriage. Strange, but true, the second family usually bears a remarkable resemblance to the first family.

Many traditions or rituals carried on in our families have been handed down through several generations. Some families have a secial menu for dinner on Christmas eve, some, a special menu for Christmas breakfast. Others light a large candle each of the twelve nights before Christmas; or each night tear the page from a specially made calendar.

Reading the Christmas story from the Bible; Dickens' Christmas Carol", singing of Christmas Carols, attending midnight services as a family; choosing and decorating the tree, hanging up stockings, making Christmas card trees, finding places to hide packages, making of special cookies, candies or fruit cakes or some of the rituals developed by many families. To most families, Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without some of these rituals.

However, as families change their pattern of living with the changes of ages of their children, a fresh look needs to be taken at their rituals and customs. Are they serving a useful purpose or are they simply habit? Who would care or be hurt if this particular custom were not repeated?

Here is the remainder of "Let's Give Christmas Back to the Family" from the California Extension Service.

Christmas is for children! Do we agree or disagree? Santa Clause or Father Christmas for the children, yes but Christmas is for the family and for all human beings of good will.

Parents are expressing a growing concern over exactly what kinds of attitudes, values and habits their children are developing. Everywhere they go children hear over and over, "What do you want Santa to bring you for Christmas?" or "What do you want this Christmas?" according to their ages. Is it any wonder, with so many adoring relatives that even small children, deluged with enough toys to start a store, think of receiving—never of giving.

Once, when all Christmases were old-fashioned, everyone had to make his own gifts. Today, not only do we not allow children to learn how to make any of their own gifts, but in some cases they do not even have the opportunity to shop or choose gifts. Mothers do it all, including writing the child's name on the gift card or tag.

Where is the excitement, the pleasure of choosing a special gift for a parent, brother or sister; where is the joy of "giving"? We cannot blame the children for this "gimme" attitude any more than we can put the blame on their shoulders for not writing "thank you" letters for Christmas gifts received: We as adults, find it easier to do it for them.

When the combination of addressing Christmas cards to people who are merely names; of selecting presents on a dollar value "exchange" basis; of going to many parties, of entertaining too many people; of decorating lawns and houses for prizes, and doing too many things for the sake of appearance cause such great frustration, tension and fatigue that our tempers are so short, our words are so harsh that the atmosphere in our homes is practically unbearable for our families, the saturation point has been reached.

In theory, parents set the climate in the home. In practice, mothers really control the atmosphere by their own feelings and attitudes. It is in our power, as adults, to determine what our children learn from the holiday season. What memories do we want our children to carry with them of Christmas in their first homes? By careful planning, by including the children in the planning, as well as the preparations, by sharing the many jobs to be done, maybe this year we can truly enjoy the magic of the Christmas season.

May we all this year share with our families a day all wrapped up in happiness, with peace on earth, good will toward men!

Hi!

Congratulations to all participants in the Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest! There were so many nice wool garments and good modeling. Here is a special congratulations to Charlotte Myers and Sandra Nelson junior division, with best coat and separate, respectively. Mary Evans received recognition in the adult class for having the best ensemble. You might note that the two Myers girls, Charlotte and Charlene, as well as their mother, Mrs. Bernard Myers, participated in this contest.

I just received from the California Extension Service something about Christmas that may be of interest to you. "Let's Give Christmas Back to the Family" will be divided into three columns because of its length. The first part appears in this column. The remainder will appear in Thursday and Monday's paper in my column. Be sure to look for it.

Christmas is a time for giving, for sharing-a time for solemnity, a time for gaiety-a time for carols, comradeship, peace and good will. For one day a year much of this world of ours stops to celebrate the birthday of a child.

Christmas is coming! The happy holiday season is upon us! Do you look forward with enjoyment to all the planning, organizing, hustle and bustle of preparation? Do you love the fuss, the smells and the excitement?

Or has the glitter and glory of Christmas become dimmed by the hurry and complexity of our lives? Do you honestly dread Christmas and look upon all the preparations as a chore? How do you really feel about Christmas?

Maybe the first part of December, not January first, is the time to take stock of ourselves, our way of life, our values and goals. Facing the situation squarely in peace and quiet may help us see what the materialism, rush and confusion of the Christmas season is doing to our children and to us.

Are we, as parents, guilty of helping our children develop a sense of crass materialism and greediness about Christmas? Do we help to create a climate of irritability, confusion and tension in our homes? Are Christmas gifts and Christmas cards a burden? Do we tend to put a dollar value on gifts? Do we have too many family traditions or none at all?

All these questions have been nibbling at the minds of parents for some time. The answers to these questions is of supreme importance. Because every family is different, has different values, goals and philosophy of child rearing, each will work out its own solution. (To be continued)

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Residents in Becker county Minnesota, have organized a nonprofit corporation known as the Becker County Area Development association.

The purpose of this association is for the exploration, education, coordination and development of the natural, human and economic resources of Becker County.

There are six study and working committees centered around natural resources; business and industry; agriculture; tourist and recreation; health, education and welfare; and civic and governmental affairs.

The agricultural committee has asked for a soils survey to be completed on all lands in the county including tax-forfeited land. The purpose of the survey, as explained by the committee, is to provide an adequate basis in land values and assessment and also to serve as a base for land use and resources planning.

They are also asking the technical action panel, county assessor and credit firms to supply useful information on the eleven general soil types in the county. This information includes crop yield potentials, best adapted crops, new potential crops, forestry and recreation potentials, current market values, assessed valuation, topography characteristics and types of farm best suited in each of the eleven soil types.

This information will be used in the overall economic development plan and also serve as the basis of determining future programs.

Oscar J. Olson, Lake Park, heads up the agricultural committee and serves as one of the nine directors of the association.

PERFECTION is indicated by T/Sgt. Arlon B. Sellers to Jeffrey Hoel (left) and Jerry Hasnedl, both senior students at Lincoln high school. Both boys upset the odds and scored 100 per cent in all four phases of the Air Force aptitude test given to all Lincoln high school seniors. The test covered mechanics, administrative, general knowledge and electronics and is used in high schools and colleges throughout the nation. Chance of scoring 100 per cent in the tests is one in many thousand, recruiter Sellers said, and the odds of two students from the same class scoring 100 per cent are almost incalculable.

PLAQUE award for first place in soil testing for 1963 is held by Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent. Also pictured is William Provance, agent in second place Roseau county.

County Wins 1st Place in Soil Testing

Pennington county placed first in the state in soil sampling for 1963 and was awarded a plaque by the Farmer magazine last week in St. Paul. Rating is based on the number of soil samples taken in relation to the number of farms and crop areas in each of the state's counties.

Last year a total of 175 farmers submitted 742 soil samples through the Pennington county program, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, county agricultural agent. Farmers included 124 from Pennington county, 33 from Marshall, eight from Red Lake and 10 from others with samples numbering 556 from Pennington, 117 from Marshall, 31 from Red Lake and 38 from other counties.

Samples were taken from fields averaging 29 acres in size with the average farmer sampling 135 acres. An average of 4.2 samples was taken per farm with a total of 21,518 acres tested during the fall soil testing promotion. Each year the county fertilizer dealers man a collection depot during Town and Country Days in Thief River Falls and deduct the cost of soil tests from fertilizer purchased.

Samples coming from counties adjoining Pennington are not included in the count for this county. Pennington received similar first place awards in 1960 and 1961 and placed high on the list in 1959 and 1962.

Pennington county has 607 farms counted in the program with 579 soil samples averaging out to 95.4 per 100 farms in the county. Roseau county was in second place

Sunflowers, Millet To Be Discussed Here Tonight

Plitt To Review Status of Local Processing Plant

George Plitt, president of Valley Feed & Supply company of Spring Valley, N. Y., will attend a meeting of area sunflower and millet producers at 8 p. m. tonight in the meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Plitt represents the parent firm of Farmers Grain & Milling company, the local plant which contracts for sunflower and millet acreage and processes the seed as wild bird food. Contracts for the 1964 crop will be discussed as well as the situation in regard to acreage and the status of the local plant.

Minimum needs of 1,500 acres of sunflowers and 3,000 acres of millet have been advanced by Plitt—considerably more than the acreage grown under contract in 1963. Members of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association have been working with Harland Knutson, local plant manager, in attempts to secuure possible growers for the acreage needed.

Discussion tonight is also expected to include possibility of establishing a commercial drying plant in this city. Establishment of such a plant is expected to increase production of both sunflowers and millet—particularly the latter.

Plitt will offer a contract price for millet at the meeting, but it is not expected that a price for sunflowers will be quoted. Sign-up for millet acreage will be offered with contracts for sunflowers to be made available at a later date.

Farmers Grain & Milling company located its plant here about two years ago when it purchased elevator facilities from Farmers Co-Op Grain & Seed association. The plant is located just south of Lincoln high school.

400 Students Get Polio Vaccine at Clinics Thursday

More than 400 students in Thief River Falls elementary schools and Lincoln high school participated Thursday in the oral polio program conducted by the school, according to Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse.

Purpose of the program was to complete the necessary three oral virus feedings for those who missed one or more of the previous clinics, Mrs. Race said. Many who had never received any oral vaccine also wanted to participate.

For the convenience of students who should have one or two more doses of the vaccine for complete protection, the clinics will again provide the necessary vaccine about a month from now. Notice will be given early in January, the school nurse added.

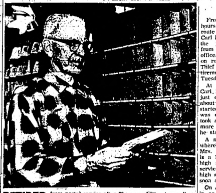
Mother of Three Dies in Train-car Crash at Mentor

Mrs. James Merton, 21-year-old Mentor woman and mother of three small children, was killed about 1 p. m. Wednesday in a car-train collision at the Great Northern rail crossing in that village.

Mrs. Merton was driving to her home on the south side of town and apparently failed to brake before the icy grade crossing when the west-bound freight smashed into her.

Pinned in the wreck, the woman probably died instantly as the car was shoved several hundred feet.

Carl Hovie Retires After 39 Years Carrier Service



RETIRED from postal service after 39 years of carrying mail on Thief River Falls rural routes, Carl Hovie sorted mail for his patrons for the last time on Tuesday. Hovie started on route two in 1916, was interrupted by World War I military service a year later, joined the postal service again in 1925 on route three and in 1928 transferred to route four. He has served on route four from 1928 until the time of his retirement last week.

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

From the days when it took 10 hours to cover 31 miles of mail route with two teams of horses, Carl Hovie has progressed through the years as a rural carrier from the Thief River Falls post office. Since 1928 he had served on route four south and east of Thief River Falls, until his retirement from postal service on Tuesday of last week.

At the time of his retirement, Carl had a route which totaled just over 78 miles and served about 180 rural families. When he started on route four in 1928, it was only 46 miles in length. It took about half the time to cover more than twice the mileage when he started carrying mail in 1916.

A native of Thief River Falls, where he was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hovie in 1895, Carl is a 1916 graduate of Lincoln high school. He took his civil service examination while still in high school, starting on route two soon after graduation.

On April 28, 1917, he was sworn in as a member of the U. S. Navy at Great Lakes, Ill., serving for two years during World War I. For several years after completing military service, he worked at a number of jobs.

To Plan Seed & Feed Show

Crop Improvement Group Meets Tues.

Review of new seed varieties to be released for 1964 will take place at a meeting of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association to be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the courthouse in Thief River Falls. Announcement of the meeting was made by Silas Hanson, association president.

Paul Stelmaschuk, county agricultural agent, will discuss the problem of high protein in malting barley. He will also explain why several flax varieties now being used should not be seeded in 1964.

Planning for the annual seed and feed show will take place during the meeting. Various committees are working on activities for the exposition and will present reports at the association gathering. The committees include the women's division, youth activities, dairy section, crop exhibits and livestock.

Robert Potts, fieldman for the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, will be present to review latest development in seed production.

Members of the county association are asked to make a listing of all seed stocks on hand and leave these listings with Otto Rupprecht or Arnold Engelstad at the meeting, Hanson added.

Although this is an official meeting of the crop improvement association, all farmers interested in developing seed stocks or any other of the above topics are urged to attend, the president said.

Sylvia Sorter Becomes Bride of Dale Cole Nov. 23

Sylvia Pauline Sorter became the bride of Dale G. Cole in a double-ring ceremony on November 23, at the Nazareth Lutheran Church at Holt, the ceremony performed by Rev. Milton Wilson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Sorter of Middle River, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cole of Warroad.

Mrs. Luot sang, "O Perfect Love," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Linda Larson accompanied her on the organ and also played the processional and recessional music.

Miss Sorter was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta featuring a chapel-length train, scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves. The bodice and front skirt panel were encrusted with pearl embroidery and appliqued lace. Her illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls and aurora crystallite. She carried a single white orchid on a white Bible, with accents of greenery and white carnations. Her jewelry was a necklace and earrings of pearls.

Attending as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Julie Sorter, and other attendants were Mrs. Edward Jagol of Thief River Falls and Marie Dunham of Minneapolis, the bride's cousin. They wore identical street length dresses of peau de soie fashioned by the bride's mother and styled in fitted sheath lines with round necklines and bell-shaped overskirts. Their bouquets were cascades of greens and feathered mums.

Miss Judy Cole, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Her dress was of the same color as those of the other bridal attendants, and featured a black bow. She carried fall-colored mums in a wicker basket.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother Keith Cole of Minneapolis. Groomsmen were Kenith Cole, the groom's brother, and Gordon Hipsher, of East Grand Forks. Ronald Ness, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a pillow of white satin. Men of the party wore white dinner jackets and black trousers. Their boutonnieres were tangerine carnations. Ushers were Vernon Cole, brother of the groom, and Wayne Ness, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Sorter wore a brown brocade dress with brown accessories, and Mrs. Cole wore a light blue brocade dress with matching accessories. Their corsages were of red roses and carnations. The bride's grandmother wore a similar corsage.

Registering guests at the reception was Mrs. Swen Roseen, sister of the groom. The parents of the bride gave the reception, held in the church parlors, for about 200 guests, who attended from Minneapolis, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Warren, Warroad, Roseau, Wannaska, Middle River, Newfolden, Karlstad, Viking, Thief River Falls and Gonvick. Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz baked the 4-tiered wedding cake which centered the serving table and was served by Mrs. Orlin Ness, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Oliver Grondahl. Pouring were Mrs. Kenith Cole, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Newell Dunham, aunt of the bride. Hostess was Mrs. Ernest Sorter, the bride's aunt, and waitresses were Jeanelle Henning, Julie Halme, and Mrs. V. Desseller. Serving punch were Connie Cole, niece of the groom and Linda Leskinen, bride's cousin. Attending the gift table were Lois Wagner and Karen Dunham and Mrs. Laverne Sorter.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Niagara Falls and the Great Lakes, and are at home on a farm near Warroad, whee the groom operates a farm with his father. The bride is a 1961 graduate of Middle River high school, and after completing an accounting course at the Area Vocational school here, was employed in Minneapolis by Erickson Petroleum Company. The groom is a 1961 graduate of Warroad high school and recently worked with DHIA in Marshall county. Photo by Lund Studio, Roseau.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. MELVIN (TIL) CARLSON

Bright with the taste and the color of peppermint candy is this Christmasy-looking dessert called, appropriately, "Mint Dazzler." It's a frozen delight, can be made well in advance of the holidays and kept in the freezer until ready to lend its enchantment to the occasion.

MINT DAZZLER

2 cups vanilla wafers, crushed fine
¼ cup melted butter
Blend, and press into a greased 9x13 inch pan.

Cream ½ cup butter till light and fluffy. Gradually add 1½ cups powdered sugar. Add 3 eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition until light and fluffy. Add 3 squares bitter chocolate which has been melted and slightly cooled. Pour over the crumb mixture and set in the freezer to cool while preparing the following topping:

1½ cups heavy cream, whipped

Fold in: 1 8-oz. pkg. miniature marshmallows and spread on the mixture in the pan. Sprinkle three-fourths to 1 cup crushed peppermint candy canes over the top, patting the candy down into the whipped cream mixture. Freeze. If stored in the freezer cover with plastic wrap or aluminum foil. Serves 12 to 15.

Mrs. Carlson really loves cooking and trying out new recipes. She is also a bowler, and a fine seamstress. Active in the Eagles auxiliary, she serves as its president this year, and is a tireless worker with the organization. She also serves as a member of a circle at Redeemer Lutheran Church and assists wherever possible there. Also among her interests is the BPOE; she is a member of the Does.

The mother of two daughters, Mrs. Donald Green of Moorhead, and Mary 10, who attends Northrop school, she is currently engaged in making Chistmas dresses for Mary and for the three granddaughters. (The other two grandchildren are boys). Two of the little girls, incidentally, are twins.

Mr. Carlson, his wife says, is the gardener of the family. They own a three-and-a-half acre tract of land and he raises both vegetables and flowers as a hobby. He is a conductor on the Soo Line during working hours. They live in the Rustad addition of Thief River Falls.

BPO Does Stage Holiday Party

BPO Does held a holiday potluck party at the Elks club rooms on Thusday evening, December 10. Members of the ways and means committee, Bernice Looker, Ramona Storhaug, Mabel Ness, Gladys Olson, Teen Berg, and Dorothy Reed were hostesses, and were also in charge of the midnight lunch. Mrs. Adlyn Williams and Mrs. Ferne Williams baked and decorated a special cake which they fashioned to represent a doe. Table decorations, in the holiday tradition, were by Bernice Looker.

Following the supper, a brief business session was conducted. Free memberships for 1964 were presented to Mmes. Adlyn Williams, Bernice Looker and Polly Haroldson, for perfect attendance at all meetings during 1963. Canned foods were brought in, to be used in preparation of Christmas baskets for a number of aged city residents. Packing and delivering these baskets will be handled by Mabel Ness and Mrs. Esther Gausen. Each member donated 50 cents toward the cause of the retarded children, and the lodge matched the sum collected with a like amount.

A social evening was enjoyed, with games furnishing the entertainment. Bernice Looker and Gladys Olson were in charge of entertainment. Gift exchange was also a feature of the party. A prize was won by Marie O'Hara, and another by Ella Erickson.

Twin Cities-Portal Soo Passenger Quits

With little attention and no fanfare, the Soo Line railroad Monday suspended the passenger service it has maintained in North Dakota for 70 years.

Train No. 13, westbound out of the Twin Cities, completed its final run to Portal, in northwestern North Dakota, at 2:45 p. m. Monday.

Its eastbound counterpart, train No. 14 out of Portal, left the state at 1:30 a. m. Tuesday for a final arrival in the Twin Cities at 7:15 a. m.

Thus, the Soo shucked off the burden of a run that has been operating in the red for 15 years and costing some $250,000 annually in recent years.

This left the company with but one passenger train west of the Twin Cities — "The Winnipeger" operating from St. Paul to Winnipeg, Canada, via Thief River Falls and Noyes, Minn.

One city council—at Kemare—has already filed an appeal with the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) asking reversal of the order authorizing the Soo to suspend the trains.

And at least one other city is expected to take similar action within the next few days.

The objections center around the dependence on the two trains for speedy movement of mail and perishable express—as well as for emergency passenger service.

The Soo, however, contended that these "emergencies" have been getting few and far between in recent years.

Starting this week, the Soo will begin serving North Dakota on a thrice-weekly basis, with passenger and baggage service run with its regular freight trains.

No. Central Lines Traffic Up Again During November

North Central Airlines reported today that November is the 16th consecutive month that each month has broken its own passengers boarding record.

Traffic figures revealed that 91,138 passengers boarded during November. The 15,170,118 revenue passenger miles flown also established a high for any November in the company's 15 year history.

Substantial gains in freight and express were recorded during the month. Some 111,104 freight ton miles were flown up 19 per cent from November 1962. The 68,929 express ton miles carried for the month was an 11 percent gain over the 62,234 in November of last year.

Urge Entries in 4H Radio Speaking Event in February

All Pennington Clubs Encouraged To Have At Least One Contestant

"What is my responsibility in bettering inter-racial and inter-religious understanding?" This is the topic for the 4-H radio speaking contest for this year, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent.

All 4-H members are invited to enter the county radio speaking contest on Saturday, February 1, if they are over 14 years of age but not over 21 years on January 1, 1964. Miss Offerdahl urges each 4-H club to have at least one representative in this event.

Last year more than 1,000 Minnesota 4-H club members participated in local competitions arranged under the direction of club leaders and country extension agents.

Robert CcCrum of the Smiley 4-H club won the local and the district contest last year and went on to participate in the state contest in St. Paul. A year ago Kathy Torgerson was the state champion. "Let this be an incentive for local 4-H members to participate," the home agent added.

Minnesota Agriculture Extension service and the Jewish Community Relations council of Minnesota are co-sponsors of this competion. Awards are given by the Jewish councils. Further information can be obtained from the county extension office.

Pennington Tops State in Soil Testing for 1963

with 548 samples from 1,299 farms for an average of 42.2 per 100 farms. Carlton county was third, Freeborn fourth, Rice fifth and Chippewa sixth.

Prior to the soil testing promotion origin in 1959, Pennington county had very few soil tests. There were 43 in 1956, 62 in 1957 and 127 in 1958. In 1929 the total jumped to 580 with 648 in 1960, 598 in 1961 and 321 in the poor crop year of 1962.

"There is a $2 return for every dollar spent on fertilizer in the county," Stelmaschuk said. "The average application calls for $6 of fertilizer per acre. This means $12 of return to the farmer or $6 extra per acre. Spread over 21,518 acres, this means an extra profit of $129,108 to the area."

"Mail Early" Plea Is Changed to 'Mail Now'

"The time has passed to talk about 'mailing early for Christmas' but you can still help us to avoid a tremendous last minute pile-up of Christmas mail if you'll send all your gift packages and Christmas cards right now!" This plea was issued today by R.J. Dryden, Thief River Falls postmaster.

To the inevitable last minute mailers, Dryden suggests use of air mail for every Christmas card or gift going to distant places. He points out that even a few hours delay at this critical time may mean disappointment for friends and loved ones on Christmas day.

The postmaster says that he expects the 1963 Christmas mails will break all records, and that the mail load will undoubtedly hit its peak within the next few days. The flood of outgoing Christmas cards and gifts is being matched by a like torrent of incoming mail that is becoming greater every day.

For the convenience of local patrons, the post office in Thief River Falls will remain open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. There's still time for local deliveries, but all Christmas cards should be sent first class mail. Return address should be included on all Christmas cards, envelopes and package labels.

Postmaster Dryden expressed his thanks for the fine cooperation from the public so far, and asked continued help so that all gift packages and Christmas cards can be delivered before Christmas Eve.

Hovie Retires After Many Years Postal Service

In 1925 a vacancy occurred on route three and Carl received the appointment as carrier. In 1928 he transferred to route four. On routes two and three he used horses as the principal means of transportation—having two teams on route two so that he could switch at a halfway point. He recalls having one "bronco" kicking him into a snow-filled ditch as he was attempting to break a path for the horses through a large snow drift.

"I must have used at least a dozen cars on the route," Carl said. "I had some special ones—like the Model A Ford with oversize tires—and I have used snowmobiles too." On two occasions he remembers being snowbound part of the way through his route and not getting back to town until the next day.

Memories of World War II are also quite clear to the veteran carrier. "I had to deliver quite a few messages from the war department, and I was always careful to drive into the yard and wait while the letters were read. As far as I can remember, I didn't deliver any death messages, but each letter had that possibility."

Carl was especially careful in delivering war messages. His son Delmar was killed when the USS Turner was sunk out of New York City when hit by a torpedo or striking a mine during World War II. Carl has another son, Wesley, an all-state hockey and football player in high school, who is living in Oregon City, Ore.

Carl also has three step-children—Gordon Caldis of Grand Forks, Mrs. Charles (Phyllis) Gustafson of Wright Patterson AFB in Dayton, Ohio; and Mrs. David (Betty) Westergren of St. Paul.

There are always changes in the postal service, Hovie explained, and many of them carry over into the rural carrier department. In the early days it was not unusual to work on the route from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. and then go to a store to pick up tobacco, groceries or other items at the request of his patrons.

While mail volume has increased by four or five times during the past 40-plus years, parcel post delivery has decreased considerably. Catalog buying used to be part of the rural way of life, but better roads and means of transportation have made travel to town for needed items a regular practice.

Until reassignment of carriers is completed by the post office department, route four is being served by Emil Koglin, substitute carrier.

THIS IS THE SEASON FOR FOOTBALL BOWL GAMES and it seems that each year another bowl or two is added to the list. Various methods of selection are used to insure teams for the competition and the matches generally come out quite even. As a football fan, I personally enjoy watching the games from the comfort of my living room.

College football seasons, and bowl games, always do create the question as to which school really does have the best football team in the nation. Selections are generally based on records of games won and lost—a logical way to avoid too much argument. Consideration of what teams are played in compiling the records of top-rated teams is sometimes overlooked.

Just for fun, maybe we could think of some bowl games that might be added to the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Cotton Bowl, Orange Bowl, Senior Bowl, Pro Bowl, Pineapple Bowl and others. There would, of course, have to be a reason for naming each of the bowls.

Suppose that the nation's top prison football teams, with players restricted to having records as safe-crackers, stool pigeons and pick-pockets, were matched in a gridiron contest. This could logically be called the Finger Bowl. Can't you hear the cheering from the stands? "Hit that line. Get that ball. Take it Joe—over the wall!"

Then the professional players who enthusiastically endorse the multitude of breakfast foods (for a modest fee) could be organized. They could choose sides and compete in the Cereal Bowl. All-star players from all the bowl games could be called together to knock heads in the Bowl Bowl.

But the most interesting contest yet would be one I have thought about for quite some time. I propose matching the poorest teams in the country in a football contest. These would be the squads plagued by underfinanced recruitment, injuries, malnutrition or other factors—those who have long strings of losses, unsuccessful seasons and one-season coaches. These totally dejected teams could be matched in the Toilet Bowl with the loser to be flushed.

Almost as bad as the number of bowls are the number of queen contests resulting in various "Miss" titles. Not only are there the better known Miss America, Miss Universe and Miss World contests and the preliminary events to these, there are reigning queens for many brand names or organizations. This also leaves room for suggested Miss titles.

For instance, the national organization of tailors (if there is one) could sponsor a Miss Fit contest; Congress could select a Miss Appropriation; the National Posture Foundation could have a Miss Carriage; telephone information operators could chose a Miss Inform; the Original Idea Corps Unlimited (OICU) could name a Miss Conception. And, to stretch a point, the National Organization of Sons of the Father of Waters could select a Miss Issippi.

The story is told of a woodpecker who decided a change in environment would do him some good. After several days of flying, he became hungry and alighted in the top branches of a large pine tree. He took a mighty peck at the tree just as lightning struck and split the pine from top to bottom. The bird picked himself up off he ground, preened his ruffled feathers, puffed out his chest and said, "A fellow doesn't realize what he can do until he gets away from home."

A neighbor brought his car into a service station for its regular attention. "My advice," said the attendant, "would be to keep the oil and change the car."

THE VICIOUS CYCLE

The time has come—is here to stay
To join in winter work and play;
To build snow men and shovel snow;
To wake again and shovel snow;
To breathe cold air at ten below
And do your share to shovel snow;
To shovel walks and driveways too;
To stay out 'til your nose turns blue;
To freeze your fingers, toes and ears,
And then to watch through frosty tears
The place where you have shoveled snow
Fill solid when it starts to blow.

$15,781 Savings Bonds Purchased Here in November

U. S. Savings bonds sales in Minnesota showed an excellent gain in November. November sales totaled $5,558,718; $4,923,718 in series "E" and $635,00 in series "H". This was a gain of 8.6 percent over November 1963. Sales have been higher for every month of 1963 than during th previous year.

Minnesota's percent of its $65,900,00 quota now stands at 92.7, and shows every indication of passing the 100 percent mark for the first time in several years.

Rollin O. Bishop, Minnesota volunteer chairman, today reminded Minnesotans that savings bonds and that they may be purchased at any bank.

November sales of savings bonds in Pennington county amounted to $15,781 according to J. M. Roche, county chairman, bringing the total for eleven months to $137,501 or 65.2 percent of quota.

Income Tax Forms Going out Early

To Be Sent out by State the Day after Christmas

Minnesota individual income tax forms will go into the mail the day after Christmas, State Tax Commissioner Rolland Hatfield said Wednesday.

Forms will go out to 1,250,000 taxpayers.

Hatfield called attention to changes in the law which he said will require more people to submit returns. The law now provides that gross income for a business concern means total sales, less cost of goods sold; for rental property gross rental income before deduction of expenses, and for farmers gross receipts from the sale of produce.

Previously, gross income in all three cases was net income after all deductions.

Income tax returns must be filed by April 15, 1964.

Public Opinion

To The Editor:

The Locomotive Engineer, issue of November 29, 1963, states that the Railroad Brotherhoods intend to impeach the Arbitration Award in court. We quote part of Grand Chief Roy E. Davidson's statement.

"Public Law 88-108 required the Arbitration Board itself to consider safety, the burden of work on other employes and the adequacy and efficiency of transportation service to the public in making its award."

"The award silences the locomotive engineer with respect for his interest in safety, burden of work and the adequacy and efficiency of railroad service."

The Congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission have enacted or established safety laws and these laws have been sponsored by the Railroad Brotherhoods. i. e.

Safety Appliance Act (March 2, 1893)

Hours of Service Act (March 4, 1907)

The Accident Report Act (May 6, 1910)

Electric Headlights (1915)

Dump Ashpan Act

Block Signal System Act (February 28, 1920)

Power or Train Brake Safety Appliance Act (October 1958)

The writer was a soldier in all of the battles for the above quoted laws except the first and the last. These laws have contributed to making the railroads the safest and most efficient mode of transportation.

Before the Hours of Service Act there were no rules or law how many hours railroad road crews could be on duty, often 24 hours or more. There was no stated rest period. It did happen that crews were called for duty after they had been in bed a couple of hours.

Before the Dump Ashpan Act the fireman crawled under the locomotive to clean the ashpan. the locomotive was not to be moved until the fireman was back in the cab, but human failure did happen. I have a vivid memory of two occasions, two different engineers undertook to move the locomotive while the fireman was cleaning the ashpan. There was but one thing to do, grab the safety chains and yell for dear life.

All of the above quoted laws were opposed by railroad management. It usually was an Act by the Congress that established the law with often long litigations before it was all settled.

It is true that the fireman (helper) does not have the physical labor to perform that he had while firing with coal, but I do know from a lifetime of experience as a locomotive engineman that there must be a responsible helper that the engineer can depend on all locomotives while in service as a matter of safety. Many accidents and many lives are saved each year because an alert fireman (helper) was on the job. An engineer must be well trained to handle long freight trains. Another thing is that many of the public believe that when more than one unit of power is used that there is an engine crew on each unit. This is not the case. All units are operated by the engineer on the leading unit.

C. E. Hellquist.

Dear Editor:

I wonder if the people of Thief River Falls realize what cooperation an organization receives when they put on some worthwhile project. The "Make It Yourself With Wool Contest" has just been completed successfully.

Thanks go to the Times for the excellent publicity and pictures; to the city council for the use of the auditorium; the chamber of commerce for making arrangements and serving a nice lunch to the contestants after the contest; to Walt Larson of Larson's Style center and Kenneth Tischart of Tischart's Fabrics and Yarns for taking time to act as judges; to Henry Thorson and Frank Clifton for setting the stage; to the woman's club for the use of their dishes; to the Army and Navy Recruiters and girl scouts for use of their offices; to the county agent's office and Miss Offerdahl for the use of the public speaking equipment; and and the contestants, their mothers, fathers, teachers, home agents, and husbands.

All did their part and as a result 131 girls and women have a wool outfit of which they can be very proud. We hope a state and national winner will come from our contest.

Thank you all.
Mrs. Gunder Legvold
Pennington County Chairman

WCTU Gives Program at Valley Home Friday

A Christmas program was presented by the WCTU on Friday afternoon at the Valley Rest Home. Residents of the home were guests at a luncheon of Christmas cookies and cakes in the dining room. The treats were brought by the hostesses. Mrs. Hattie Lanska had made favors of Christmas cards with bags of mints attached.

Special Stamp Is Required of 1963 Ice Fishermen

Minnesota ice fishermen who are going to fish before January 1, must purchase a special stamp to place on their 1963 darkhouse or shelter license, the Conservation Department pointed out.

The 1963 legislature passed a bill raising the fees on fish shacks. The increase went into effect in May when the bill was signed into law.

Cost of a 1963 license was $1. Under the new law, shacks designed for prive use require a $2 license, while shacks offered for rent require a $3 license.

Persons who use their houses in December and who buy or already have a 1963 darkhouse or fish house license must purchase a $1 stamp to affix to the back of the 1963 license. Rental houses require a $2 stamp.

On January 1, a new license will be required. The 1964 license will be sold at the new license rates and no additional stamps will be required.

Troop leaders and rest homes visited include the following: Mrs. Melville Simon, Brown Rest home; Mrs. Eugene Presteguard, Art Erickson Rest home; Mrs. R. G. Anderson and Mrs. Duane McFarland, Bottem's Rest home; Mrs. Pat Dunning, Hanson Rest home; Mrs. Gunder Legvold, Kees Rest home; Mrs. Carl Lee, Valley Home; and Mrs. Paul Kayser and Mrs. Orville Kruschke, Oakland Park home.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

DON MATHIEU the Prowlers' hockey co-captain, gets the draw in this face-off against the senior hockey Thieves in an informal scrimmage held at the Arena on Saturday night. The Prowlers will open their 1963-64 schedule on Tuesday night when they meet the East Grand Forks Green Wave on the Arena ice. Shortage of Coins Bothers Treasury

Two Mints Are at Work on Seven-day Week Basis

The Treasury department has expressed its concern today over the coin shortage which has become steadily worse during the Christmas shopping rush.

In the past few months, the Treasury has tried not to call attention to the shortage, apparently on the theory that publicity would lead to hoarding.

But the shortage has obviously developed long before the start of the Christmas season. There are now shortages in every demoniation except silver dollars. The supply is tight in almost every area of the nation.
in almost every area of the nation.

Some banks have been asking the public to keep their coins in circulation. Some companies which rely heavily on coins in their business have been shipping large amounts from one area to another.

The shortage is said to be due to good business in retail sales and increased use of vending machines, parking meters and other such devices.

The Philadelphia and Denver mints, working on virtually a 24-hour day, seven day week basis will produce 4.1 billion pieces of change in the year which ends next June 30 but it has been estimated that the nation's commerce could use 6 billion.

District Economy Continues Growth

Federal Reserve Bank's Report Is Optimistic

Third quarter data indicate that the national economy continues to expand at a moderate rate and that ninth Federal reserve district developments parallel the nation, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis in the current issue of the Monthly Review.

The magnitude of the third quarter increase in gross national product, when contrasted to the first and second quarter changes, suggests that economic growth may be accelerating. The industrial production index, unemployment rate, retail sales, and personal income changes for October suggests continued expansion.

The economic indicators for the district point to a continued expansion. Personal income and volume of construction put-in-place (both adjusted for seasonal variation) as well as building permits are up in October. Bank debits and car registrations also are at a high level.

According to estimates by the Annual Outlook Conference of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, higher production expenses coupled with a probable drop in realized gross farm incomes suggest a reduction in realized net farm income in 1964. An anticipated drop in cash receipts from wheat marketings is expected to be the prime cause for lower 1964 crop receipts.

In the financial sector loans at district city and country banks continue to show better than average gains for the period.

Peace Corps Man Addresses Lions

Dell Christianson Tells of Pakistan Experiences

Dell Christianson, who with his wife recently returned from two years of service with the U. S. Peace Corps in Pakistan, recounted some of his experiences in a talk to the Lions club Wednesday noon. He was introduced by Dr. Herbert Achenbach, program chairman.

Christianson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tormod Christianson of rural Thief River Falls, stated that the economy of Pakistan is on a low scale, and that many children are undernourished.

He told of the variety of projects in which Peace Corps members participated, and said that some of his work was done in connection with a university, while Mrs. Christianson served at a hospital. Accomplishments of the Peace Corps, he concluded, are both tangible and intangible.

Only Five Cases Tried Monday in Municipal Court

Relatively light case load was noted in Thief River Falls municipal court on Monday with Judge Stanley N. Mortenson presiding. Only five cases were brought to trial by the state highway patrol, county sheriff's office and city police department.

Highway patrol cases included Tony Tanem, Pinewood, drive over the center line, $30 bond forfeited; and Dwight Myhrer, rt. 4, TRF, speed, $15 fine.

Police cases included Thomas Murben, city, no license plates displayed, fined $15 with $7.50 suspended; and Neil Bugge, rt. 2, failure to yield the right-of-way, personal injury accident involved, fined $30.

In the only sheriff's department case, Roy Nordby of Grygla was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct. The court also disposed of two cases involving persons charged with being drunk.

Bank Debits Down Here in November

The volume of bank debits reported by a sample of Ninth District cities for November increased 7 per cent from November 1962, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. The cumulative total for the first eleven months of 1963 indicated a 9 per cent increase from the comparable 1962 period.

In Thief River Falls, the volume of bank debits for November was $9,279,000, a seven per cent reduction from last year. Bank debits totaled $94,20,000 for the first eleven months of 1963, a seven per cent increase from $88,274,000 reported in 1962.

Bank debits figures represent the dollar volume of checks drawn by depositors against their bank accounts. Most of these checks go in payment for goods, services and debts, and as such, may be considered an indicator of changes in general business volume.

Mercury Slumps to —28 Here Today

Has Hit Subzero Mark Each Day Since Wednesday

Mother Nature, after providing this area with above-normal temperatures during the fall months, evened things up during the past week by bringing a series of subzero mercury readings since last Wednesday, climaxed by a record low reading this morning of 28 below zero, according to the airport thermometer.

The mercury slumped to 23 below zero Sunday morning, and failed to rise above 9 below at any time during the day. Last week's high and low readings included Wednesday, 11 above and −11; Thursday, 12 above and −9; Friday, 13 above and −7; and Saturday, 9 above and −12.

A snowfall of two and one-half inches was recorded Thursday and 1.1 inches Friday.

In contrast to this morning's reading of 28 below, a year ago today the high reading was 40 above and the low 26.

Prowler Quint Edged by Crookston 66-65

Jack Behr's field goal, a one-handed toss from the lane with 1:29 to play, gave the Crookston Central Pirates a 66 to 65 lead over the Prowlers, and that proved to be the margin of victory as the Pirates edged the Prowlers in a thrilling basketball game played on the Crookston court Friday night.

The Prowlers will entertain the highly-rated Ada Vikings on the local court on Friday night, with tip-off time for the varsity game slated for 8:00 p. m.

In Friday night's game at Crookston it was the Pirates that held the lead throughout most of the contest. Crookston held a four-point lead, 15 to 11, at the end of the first period, and a 33 to 23 advantage at the intermission. Crookston's Dave Peterson was instrumental in boosting the Pirates to their ten-point lead in the second half, with the hot-shotting forward connecting for five field goals and two free throws.

The Prowlers outpointed the Pirates, 23 to 21, in the third period, paring the Crookston lead to eight points, 54 to 46, moving into the final eight minutes of play.

In this dramatic fourth period the Prowlers' Ken Larson opened the scoring with a field goal, and then, on a breakaway, drove in for another field goal. Bob Olson, on Bill Reitmeier's fourth personal, added a Prowler point; and when Dick Nelson, on a fine pass from Rick Jensen, scored on a layup shot, the Prowlers trailed by one point, 54 to 53, with six minutes to play.

Jack Behr marked up a pair of Crookston free throw points but Olson, from the lane, dropped in a Prowler field goal. Peterson, who tallied 34 points for the Pirates, scored on a layup shot, and seconds later, on Larson's fifth personal, added two free throw points, giving Crookston a 60 to 55 lead with 4:10 to play. Jensen and Olson scored Prowler field goals, and again the Prowlers trailed by only one point. Peterson scored from close in for the Pirates, but the Prowlers moved into the lead when Olson and Nelson scored field goals. Peterson, with 2:27 to play, scored his 33rd and 34th points on a field goal, hitting from the lane, and Crookston had a 64 to 63 lead. Mark Anderson rang up a Prowler field goal on a shot from the circle, and it was 65 to 64 with less than two minutes to play. Behr's field goal, into the west basket, gave the Pirates their one-point win.

Crookston's Dave Peterson easily won the game's scoring honors, with the agile forward racking up 13 field goals and eight free throws. The Prowlers had three players in double figures, with Bob Olson scoring 20 points, Ken Larson having 16 points, and Rick Jensen adding 10 points.

The Last Chance

Tonight, Monday, is the last chance for hockey fans in this area to see the United States Olympic hockey team in action. The Olympics will meet the North Dakota Sioux in what should be a fine game, on the ice sheet in the Winter Sports Building on the North Dakota campus.

The game has been designated as "Roseau night", and a large delegation of fans from that town will be in attendance. Don Ross, a former all-state tournament player with the Roseau Rams, and who has been an all-America choice while playing with the North Dakota Sioux, is a member of the Olympic team. Ross has a pair of former North Dakota stars as teammates on the Olympics in center Bill Reichart and goalie Tom Yurkovich.

Reichart, a native of Winnipeg and who played a lot of hockey up there and came to the attention of the North Dakota hockey enthusiasts by his spectacular play with the Crookston Pirates of the States-Dominion league, is the Olympic squad captain. Reichart has become an American citizen.

Adding interest to the game, and providing some "coals" to the rivalry, is the fact that several former University of Minnesota players are on the Olympic team. The former Gopher line of Dave Brooks, Gary Schmalzbauer, and Len Lilyholm has been spearheading the attack of the Olympic team in the exhibition series. Roger and Billy Christian, who will join the team for the Olympic games, are busy with construction work in Montana, but the two former Warroad Warriors and Laker players, are expected to team up with Reichart to form a veteran line.

Incidentally, that Jim Westby who is playing at defense for the Olympic team, is a brother of the Prowlers' assistant coach, Jerry Westby. Jim, too, is a former University of Minnesota player.

They are Careful

There has been, in some quarters, concern expressed about the weight reducing program of the state's high school wrestling coaches.

In the current issue of the "Prep Coach", Dareld Hirschey, head wrestling coach at Glenwood high school, comments on some of the charges that have been made. He states that "Under our present weight certification system, each boy must be examined by a doctor and certified in a specific weight class. This must also be approved by the boy's parents, and a certified report is sent to the State High School League. During the wrestling season the boy is not allowed to wrestle in a lower weight class than that established by this report. The purpose of this report is to prevent undue weight reduction which might jeopardize the health of the wrestler."

He adds, "We as coaches do not believe in excessive weight reduction for any wrestler. We do feel a certain amount of weight reduction is necessary for some boys, depending upon the physical condition of the boy when he reports for the wrestling season."

His article is interesting and informative, and he does emphasize that the wrestling coaches are well aware of the health of the boys under their control. I question one of his statements, though, and that is when he says that "wrestling requires a finer type of conditioning than any other high school sport." I don't quite understand what he means by a "finer type", but in the many years that I have followed high school sports I've come to the conclusion that a track athlete, who participates in the 440-yard run, or the 880-yard run, or the mile run, requires the highest degree of physical conditioning. But this is merely quibbling. All high school sports, if they are to be engaged in successfully, requires first-rate physical conditioning by the participant. And it's a fact, as coach Hirschey states, that the wrestling program does benefit the football and track squads.

And if you wish to see some topflight Region Eight wrestling, tonight, Monday, is the night when the Mahnomen Indians from District 30 will be here. The 'B' team matches are billed to start at 6:30 P. M.; with the varsity matches scheduled to begin at 7:30 P. M.

Prowler Hockey Opener

Coach George Schlieff's hockey Prowlers and assistant coach Jerry Westby's 'B' squad will open their season on Tuesday night at the Arena. The East Grand Forks A and B squads will meet the Prowlers, with the 'B' squad preliminary game being slated for 6:30 P. M. and the varsity game billed to face-off at 8:00 P. M.

The Prowlers had their first taste of competition on Saturday night when they met the senior hockey Thieves in an informal scrimmage on the Arena ice. Last Monday was the first time that the Prowlers were able to get on indoor ice, and they have been given strenuous drills this past week.

Judging by the boys that participated in the play against the Thieves, coach Schlieff will have co-captains Don Mathieu and Elroy Froiland and John Weigelt on one line, with Jimmy Anderson and John Hellquist on defense, and David Erickson in the nets. Buzz Olson, Paul Peterson, and Dennis Sullivan will skate as a unit, and John Olson will perhaps be up on that line, too. Pat Mint and Jerry Forsberg will skate a shift at the blue-line. Take in the game and look the squad over—and don't worry about the ice, it's hard enough!

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

State Sets Record in '63 Highway Projects

The Minnesota highway department has just finished its 1963 construction season with a record total of $141.7 million in roadwork underway. These figures do not include the cost of engineering or right of way, but do include many projects carried over from previous years.

The largest expenditure was in the Twin Cities metropolitan area, where $67.5 million was put into upgrading trunk highway routes and cutting new Interstate routes through the heavily populated area.

Interstate progress, at the end of the year, will show 116.3 miles under construction and 114 miles open to traffic.

During the 1963 construction season, work was underway on 45 miles of Interstate routes and 39 miles were open to traffic. Most recent stretch to open was TH 494 from County Highway 18 to TH 7, southwest of Minneapolis. The next segment will extend 5.5 miles northerly to TH 55, west of Minneapolis.

The northern perimeter route, TH 694, is now open from its junction with TH 35E north of St. Paul to the limits of New Brighton. A tie-in here with TH 10 was finished and opened this year. There are an additional 2.5 miles under construction from New Brighton to the west Ramsey county line.

No portions of TH 94 are yet open in the Twin Cities, although 11.4 miles are in use near Fergus Falls and another 4.2 miles near Moorhead. There are presently 3.4 miles under construction in St. Paul, the Dartmouth Ave. bridge over the Mississippi River, between Riverside Ave. and 27th Ave. S. E., and miscellaneous work in Minneapolis.

Interstate 35W is open from TH 13 to 62nd St., a 3-mile stretch from 62nd St. to 49th St. A longer piece is also being built near the junction of THs 36 and 280 to the junctions of THs 8 and 10 north of New Brighton.

In St. Paul, TH 35E is open from Maryland Ave. to junction with TH 694, and the Lexington Ave. bridge over the Mississippi river plus grading up to West Seventh St. is underway.

One of the major projects in point of dollars, but with the least to show, is the network of storm drain tunnels following the Twin Cities freeways. These large tunnels, gouged out of the earth 100 feet below the surface, take an average of two years to mine and cost millions of dollars. By the end of this year, there will have been almost $9 million in these contracts in the metropolitan area.

In the southeast corner of the state, there is more construction going on than anywhere except in the Twin Cities Metropolitan area. This past season saw a total of over $28 million underway in projects in the area headquartered in Rochester.

The Red River of the North was spanned by a new bridge this year when TH 307 was extended from East Grand Forks. In the same project, this route will be extended to a junction with TH 2, a distance of 4.5 miles. The balance of the project will be completed by next fall.

In the northern part of the state, Interstate 35 is under contract from TH 70, southerly of Pine City, to the piece which is now open at the south junction of TH 23. Scheduled for letting this month will be an additional 10.3-mile stretch from the north junction of TH 23 to Willow River.

In the Fergus Falls area, in addition to the 11.4 miles of Interstate 94 which is now open, construction is underway on 21.1 miles from the south junction of TH 52 to the junction of TH 79 near Evansville. This stretch should be completed by November, 1964.

Retirement Plan Bonds Available

Program Offered to Self-employed Persons

Self-employed persons were reminded today that U. S. Retirement Plan Bonds, offered under the Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962, must be purchased by December 31 to qualify their owners for 1963 tax deferral benefits.

The reminder came from Glen R. Johnson, state savings bond director, who suggested that eligible persons contact their banks for information about establishing retirement programs for themselves and their employees through a bond purchase plan. IRS Form 3673, which may be used to establish such a plan, is available at the district office of the Internal Revenue service.

Most banks can furnish application forms for use in purchasing Retirement Plan Bonds. However, the bonds are issued only by Federal Reserve Banks and the Treasurer of the United States.

A plan for the purchase of Retirement Plan Bonds is only one of several means open to the self-employed to qualify for benefits under the Act. To realize an income tax deduction during this calendar year, the retirement plans must be set up and contributions made on or before December 31. Self-employed persons are permitted to claim as a tax deduction a portion of such contributions made for their own benefit, as well as all of the funds contributed for their employees.

The Retirement Plan Bonds differ from Savings Bonds in that they may not be redeemed until the owner attains the age of 59½ years, except in the event of death or disability. Those persons over the age of 59½ years when they acquire their bonds may redeem them at any time.

Muzzy Cow Rates High on Testing In NW No. 1 DHIA

Produces 652 Pounds of Butterfat; Ranks Among Top 15 in Association

Augenguile Sovereign Noell, a five-year-old registered Holstein cow owned by James Muzzy of rural Thief River Falls, placed among the top 15 cows on production in the Northwest No. 1 Dairy Herd Improvement association during the past year. In 305 days the cow produced 14,800 pounds of milk with 4.4 test and 652 pounds of butterfat.

A total of 742 cows from 25 herds were on test in the association and had an average of 423 pounds of butterfat during the past year, according to Karl E. Nygard, DHIA supervisor. Herds included eight in West Polk county, seven in Norman, four in Marshall, one each in Red Lake, Mahnomen and Pennington.

Northwest School of Agriculture and experiment station topped the association for the second year in succession with average production of 502 pounds per cow. The school also had the highest producing animal, an eight-year-old Holstein which produced 800 pounds of butterfat, and the second high producer, a four-year-old with production of 795 pounds of fat. Both are on 305-day test.

Only 17 cows in the association produced 600 or more pounds of butterfat while 95 cows produced 500 pounds or more. Conrad Zak of Angus had the second ranking herd of Holsteins with average butterfat production of 496 pounds per cow.

Other owners of the top producing 15 cows, in addition to those mentioned previously, were Lloyd Kasprick, Angus; Paul Olson, East Grand Forks; Orrin C. Kruger and Sons, Warren; Karol Berglind, Ada; Conrad Zak, Angus; and Donald Ogaard, Ada.

Northwest No. 1 DHIA was the first association in the state of Minnesota to include the solid-not-fat test in its testing program. All herds in the association are on central processing of records resulting in more complete information for evaluations.

Karol Berglind of Ada was elected to serve on the board of directors for a three-year term to replace Dr. E. C. Frederick. Officers reelected include Conrad Zak, Angus, president; John Taus, Angus, vice president; and Donald Christensen, Twin Valley, secretary-treasurer. Harry Hess of Argyle is the fifth member of the board.

Editorials . . .

"Surely there is an excessive imbalance in a federal budget which allocates 62% of the taxpayers' money to defence and space, 6% to the agricultural economy, 6% to benefits for war veterans, and 10% to interest on a national debt consisting largely of the costs of old wars, leaving only 16% for everything else — for public welfare and for all the things that make America a better place in which to live, among which education is counted for an insignificant pittance. This allocation of priorities, in my opinion, is a recipe for disaster."

—Sen. J. William Fulbright

There Are Such Days

It seems that our President and the President of France are not in complete agreement. Maybe it isn't an important matter. Seemingly it has to do with such a minor matter as "who is going to visit whom?" According to the New York Times:

"Although he has been in the White House only a few days, Mr. Johnson already has had his first encounter—and his first misunderstanding—with General de Gaulle. His brief meeting with the French leader after the Kennedy funeral gave President Johnson the impression—which he then announced publicly to some 30 Governors—that the General had reconfirmed his agreement to visit the United States for further talks early next year. But, within 48 hours, de Gaulle let it be known officially that his commitment to visit the United States was to President Kennedy, not to his successor, and that President Johnson would have to come to Paris if he wanted a meeting."

We do not subscribe to the New York Times conclusion that this little misunderstanding must be settled by our agreement to continue to maintain a large American military force in Europe. But it might be well for President Johnson to drop in for a sociable visit with General de Gaulle when he is in his neighborhood next spring.

That $50 Billion Item

Our federal government spends in the neighborhood of one hundred billion dollars a year and about one-half of that total is spent for military purposes. That military machine of ours is costing us fifty billion dollars each year, and we are not at war. Our military manpower now numbers about 2,700,000 men, plus civilian employees.

A reduction of this enormous war machine to one-half its present size would enable our government to balance the budget, reduce taxes and start paying the national debt. Such a reduction probably should not be effected suddenly. But a ten per cent reduction each year for a period of five years would accomplish the good purpose.

We can see no justification for maintaining a fifty billion dollar war machine under present conditions. We have been told that we already have a surplus of nuclear missiles. We do need some armed forces for the brush fire type of wars that will continue to break out here and there. But for the all-out type of war that we have reason to fear, we already have the power to retaliate, and that retaliation would be mainly by machines and missiles.

A twenty-five billion dollar cut in wasteful spending at the national level might justify the generations that follow us to feel kindly toward us for reversing a dangerous trend. We are sure they will not be thankful for the package we now are preparing for them.

The Problems Have Changed

In his syndicated column Walter Lippmann points up the change that has gradually taken place in our country's relations with the nations of Europe and the problems with which President Johnson will be confronted in dealing with the European powers. He reminds us that following World War II there were only two world powers, and western Europe looked to us for assistance and leadership. That relationship no longer exists.

Lippmann does not blame General de Gaulle, or any other individual, for the deterioration of our relations. He states:

"De Gaulle is pointing out the decline of an American leadership which was temporarily necessary but inherently abnormal—abnormal in regard to the historic traditions of the Americans.

"President Johnson will do well to begin with a confident acceptance of an accomplished and unavoidable fact—that our position in relation to Europe is no longer that of guardian and tutor.

"The paramount theme of the 1940s was the necessity of American intervention to save European civilization from destruction. The paramount theme of the 1950s was to consolidate the western world against the onset of revolutionary communism.

"The paramount theme of this decade thus far is that we are emerging from a two-power world and entering one where there are many powers.

"It will be false to say that a recognition of the change in our relative position is a revival of isolationism. A reappraisal of our position involves no retreat from the task of maintaining the nuclear peace. It means no withdrawal and no desertion of our friends.

"But it does mean a change in our role in power politics, let us say, from wooer to wooed, from buyer to seller, from seeker to sought."

Appointing Judges

Following the death of Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone of the Western Wisconsin District, the Judiciary Committee of the Wisconsin Bar Association sent the names of three persons whom it considered eminently qualified to fill the vacancy, to Attorney General Kennedy. Soon after the Attorney General asked for, and received, four more names. None of the names was that of David Rabinovitz, a Sheboygan lawyer and a member of the Democratic National Committee. But it was Mr. Rabinovitz who was nominated for the position, subject to Senate approval. Then, according to the New York Times:

"After its usual thorough investigation, the American Bar Association reported to the Senate Judiciary Committee in October that the association's committee on the Federal Judiciary had reached the unanimous conclusion that Mr. Rabinovitz was not qualified to serve. Following its usual practice, the committee withheld the reasons for its decision. Later, however, at the Senate committee's request, it did give them—in a detailed document which has not yet been made public.

"The Rabinovitz appointment stirred such a fury of controversy throughout the state that the Wisconsin Bar Association took the unprecedented step of asking each one of its 5,000 members to record whether or not he considered Mr. Rabinovitz qualified to sit on the Federal bench. Out of the 3,350 who replied, 2,040 stated that he was not so qualified, while only 793 said that he was. The results of this poll were sent to Senator Eastland, chairman of the Senate committee, in whose hands the matter now rests.

"Such an overwhelmingly adverse opinion among Wisconsin lawyers, together with the findings of the nation's top bar association, could hardly be more conclusive evidence that Mr. Rabinovitz should not be made a Federal judge—partisan politics and personal friendships to the contrary notwithstanding."

It will be interesting to see what the final outcome will be.

Reapportionment

(Don Brown in Waseca Journal

The federal constitution recognizes the need for representation in its legislative bodies on two basis—population and area. Thus the United States has a Senate body, membership in which is determined by area. In this instance the areas vary in size giving two Senators from each state. In the House representation is determined wholly on the basis of population.

In practice this system has been found to be fair. There have been few if any complaints regarding it. In the light of those many years of experience it would seem that Minnesota might well study the federal system and pattern its representation after system and pattern its representation after that system.

At its recent annual meeting the Minnesota Farm Bureau dealt with the subject in one of its resolutions. In part this resolution said:

"While we recognize that the shifts in population to our larger cities brings a need for more representation in those areas, we feel those in less populated areas should also be considered. To clarify this situation once and for all and to assure all citizens of their rights to representation, we recommend that the legislature provide for a constitutional amendment which would base one house of the legislature on area and the other on population."

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor

KARL ROLVAAG

Ambassador Teodoro Moscoso's visit to Minneapolis last week reminds us of the importance of supporting the Alliance for Progress and its goals of a strong, healthy, democratic future for our Latin American neighbors.

Important Cause

Our late beloved President held this cause to be of critical importance. Our new President has emphatically endorsed its furtherance. Responsibe citizens all share this concern for extending economic assistance to our other American friends and helping improve social and economic conditions in the depressed areas of their countries.

Cuban Refugees

One way to show the world that we mean business is to help the resettlement of those persons who have had to flee Cuba to escape the tyranny of Castro. The rest of the Western Hemisphere is watching with keen interest as we of the United States face, for the first time, an influx of refugees from a country only a few miles from our coast.

Homes Needed

During the recent senate hearing in Minneapolis conducted by Senator Philip A. Hart of Michigan, the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Refugees and Escapees was told that nearly 170,000 refugees have registered at the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami. Approximately 67,000 have been resettled in more than 1200 communities, including several cities in Minnesota. But other wait eagerly to find new homes, new jobs, new self-sufficiency, new opportunity. At the Governor's conference last summer in Miami, Mrs. Rolvaag toured Cuban Refugee Center and saw the bewilderment, the sadness, the hope that exists there.

Minnesota Refugee

In Minnesota, through the outstanding work of various church groups, more than a hundred families have found new homes. In the testimony before the Senate subcommittee, it was stated again and again that newcomers have proved to be valuable, self-sustaining people, with a bare minimum of the social and economic problems and tensions which might attend the influx of new national group.

New Governor's Committee

On the basis of our experience up to this time, and recognizing the real human needs that exist, I have decided to establish a Governor's Committee on Refugee Resettlement to facilitate and coordinate further resettlement in Minnesota. Some of you may recall that under Governor Freeman's administration there was an active refugee restllement committee headed by Dr. Kenneth Bjork, professor of history at St. Olaf College, Northfield. The new committee will play a similar role. I will ask it to explore fully the possibilities of some of our smaller towns and cities as sponsors of a Cuban Refugee family. Most resettlement to date has been in the larger metropolitan areas. I will also urge it to look closely at what has been done in other states, like Indiana and Iowa, where Cuban immigrants are learning to work effectively as high school teachers of foreign languages.

Support Needed

In implementing the resettlement program we have a chance to show the world how democracy deals with human dislocation. Our homes and our hearts are big enough to meet the challenges. The newcomers can do much to enrich the lives of our communities. I urge Minnesotans to give their full support to the efforts of the resettlement committee.

Trailer Court Petition Is Accepted by Council

10-Minute Parking By Post Office Is Also Approved

Acceptance of a petition by Northwestern Trailer Court to be annexed to the city of Thief River Falls was made by the city council meeting in regular session Tuesday evening. The annexation is part of an agreement made by the council to also include a new trailer court at the west edge of the city.

Annexation of the trailer court property can be made by ordinance following 30-days written notice to the Pennington county board of commissioners and the board of North township. If there is no objection, the legal machinery for adopting an ordinance can be put in motion. If there is objection, hearings would be held.

The council also approved the removal of a no parking zone in front of the post office and installation of 10-minute parking in the three-stall area. A written request to the post office department asking provision for off-street, drive-in mail boxes with access from the driver's side in plans for the remodeling and extension was also approved.

Roy Arneson, negotiator for Local 664 of the municipal drivers and helpers union, appeared in behalf of the city's union employees. He re-stated requests from the employees for salary increases and more fringe benefits and asked that the union be advised of council decisions.

A motion was carried to make overtime payments only upon approval by council committees with payment to be made on a monthly basis. The finance committee was also asked to study provisions for placing surplus city funds on certificates of deposit for four per cent interest.

Resolutions were adopted authorizing payment of $21,943.68 for work performed by K. Russell Anderson, J. A. Shaw company and Stewart & Walker. Hearing on the assessment roll for several city projects recently completed was

Baudette Changes To Dial Phone Service Sunday

$300,000 Dial System Now Operating; Move Roseau, Warroad Office

Baudette telephone users are getting accustomed to a new system this week following the conversion to dial service early Sunday morning. The cut-over of the new $300,000 dial system was accomplished when no calls were in process on the old switchboard.

Under the new numbering arrangement, Baudette telephone numbers will consist of a 634 prefix plus four additional numerals. The new numbers are listed in a new directory which has been mailed to all customers.

The actual cut-over required only a few minutes. Thousands of little heat coils or fuses were pulled simultaneously from the manual equipment in the old switchboard. In the new building, another crew pulled out hundreds of wooden blocks (called skivvies) which kept the dial equipment from operating.

Key calls were made to police, fire, civil defense officials and others to be insure than service had been restored. Other exhaustive checks were made to make sure the complex apparatus was operating properly and every line was tested sometime during the night.

Changes were also made at Warroad and Roseau where general offices were moved to Thief River Falls. Billing and collection will be done from this city. Both Warroad and Roseau are on manual operation.

The directors of the association had decided before tallying the vote that they would take no side on the question, regardless of the outcome of the poll.

Assurance Given For Specialty Crop Acres

80 Farmers Hear Of 1964 Plans at Meeting Monday

Assurance that at least minimum acreage for the Farmers Grain and Milling company plant in Thief River Falls would be provided this year was given at a meeting of local farmers with the company president Monday evening. About 80 persons attended the meeting held in the courtroom of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

George Piitt, company president from Spring Valley, N. Y. expressed pleasure at the local efforts following the meeting Monday. He told growers that a drying plant for millet would be provided if it was needed next fall—one of the items considered of prime importance by farmers considering millet production.

In addition to sunflowers and millet for which the plant contracts annually, several grass seeds were given discussion at the meeting. The plant has a market for this grass seed and several farmers expressed an interest in finding out if it could be profitably grown locally.

Piitt told farmers at the meeting that the price for millet next would be $1.90 per 100 pounds but stated that a price on sunflowers has not yet been established. A meeting will be called when the price has been determined and a sign-up will be conducted at that time.

Poll Conducted

An informal poll of farmers present indicated interest in production of slightly over 2,000 acres of millet and more than 1,600 acres of sunflowers for the 1964 crop year. Piitt had asked for minimum acreage of 3,000 acres of millet and 1,500 acres of sunflowers and was assured that the additional millet acreage required to meet the minimum could be readily obtained.

In order to meet the minimum, the company president had proposed previously that farmers planting sunflowers would plant an equal acreage of millet. If the minimum acreage can be obtained without this restriction it will not be imposed, he said.

In order to assure local interest in the plant, it is also required that farmers signing contracts for production purchase at least one $25 share of stock in the company. Valley Feed and Supply company, parent company of the local plant, had a business volume of $1.9 million during the last fiscal year.

In discussing price with the growers, Piitt stated that his company pays a premium above the expected market price. This is possible due to the elimination of elevators or terminals which would normally take a profit on seed handled, he said, and is an incentive for farmers to continue support of the plant.

In New Directory

Phone Numbers To Be All Numerals

Thief River Falls telephone numbers will appear in an all-numerical form when the new directory is issued late this month, J. M. Wilson, Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager, said today.

The only change will be the translation of the two letters of the present prefix, "M" and "U" into their corresponding numerals on the dial, "6" and "8". In effect, the number will remain the same. The only change will be in the appearance.

Many telephone users here already are using the new numbers. The telephone company has been assigning seven-numeral numbers since mid-1961 to everyone who applied for new service or made a change in a directory listing. By changing the remaining two-letter, five-numeral numbers at this time, it will mean a uniform numbering system for Thief River Falls.

If the new numbers are the same as the old, why bother to change them? And, why is it necessary to adopt this new seven-numeral numbering system here and elsewhere throughout the nation in the first place?

"The new numbering system is part of an overall plan to give the nation's largest computer, the gigantic dial switching network of the Bell system which can select the one telephone number being called out of the 76,000,000 available, more elbow room to take care of present and future communications needs," Wilson said.

The compelling reason for adopting the new numbering plan is growth. Forty years ago, there were some 14 million phones in the nation; twenty years ago, 24 million; today, more than 76 million. National forecasts now place the number of phones at 160 million by 1975.

This tremendous growth spelled the end of the present two-letter, five-numeral numbering system which is limited to 540 number combinations in any one numbering area. The communications industry faced the fact that it was running out of telephone numbers, and would have to come up with a new numbering system if it was to meet the tremendous future growth requirements throughout the nation.

Other factors also entered into the decision as to what type of numbering system would do the job. For one thing, more and more customers are dialing many of their own long distance calls by Direct Distance Dialing and any new numbering system would have to take this into consideration. Looking further into the future, the day is coming when customers will be dialing many of their own long distance calls to overseas points, either by today's

Must Report Wage Paid Farm Employe

Farmers Are Reminded by Social Security Man

Farmers in this area were reports on the earnings of farm workers are due in the office of the district director of Internal Revenue by January 31, 1964.

Farm employers who fail to file a yearly report on the earnings of farm workers and to pay the social security taxes due are subject to penalties and interest charges on unpaid social security taxes.

J. B. Kistler, Grand Forks, social security district manager, and Mr. Sateren, district director of internal revenue at Grand Forks noted that the earnings of most, but not all, farm workers are covered under social security. A farm employee, to be covered, must be paid at least $150 in cash wages by his employer, or work for the employer on 20 or more days during the year for cash wages figured on a time basis (rather than on a piece-rate basis).

For 1963 the social security tax rate is 3 and five-eights per cent on each for employer and employee on cash wages up to $4800 in the year. The tax amount must be entered on Form 943 (Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees) together with the total amount of cash wages paid to each farm worker. The completed form must be filed with the district director of internal revenue at Grand Forks, on or before January 31, 1964.

One traffic accident was reported during the past several days by the Pennington county sheriff's department. The mishap occurred about 10:30 a. m. Monday at the intersection of SAR 3 and SAR 10 about 12 miles west of St. Hilaire.

A car driven by John Eastby, Gatzke, was traveling west on SAR 3 when it collided with a pickup truck driven south on SAR 10 by Harry W. Hutchinson, Red Lake Falls. The sheriff's office stated that Hutchinson had slowed his truck when approaching the intersection but failed to see the oncoming car before proceeding across the road.

Damage was estimated at approximately $150 to each vehicle. No injuries were sustained by either driver or Ole Hayden or Bertha Dahl, passengers in the Eastby car. Hutchinson was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

A Losing Year—

466 Pounds Lost By TOPS Dieteers

Dedicated for the past year to the task of losing extra pounds, members of the TOPS. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Dieteers held a year-end banquet Monday evening in the Rex Cafe. New officers for the coming year were announced at the session and a queen of the year was crowed.

Named as queen of the club was Mrs. Alan Tonder who lost 50½ pounds since she started with the group a year ago. During the year her dress size has changed from a 20½ to a size 15. As a result of her coronation, she will represent the local chapter at the state convention to be held in Minneapolis in February. Further information will be given in an interview story in Monday's edition of the Times.

New officers for the coming year will include Mrs. Milton Burstad, leader; Mrs. Thad Szymanski, Goodridge, vice president; Mrs. W. L. Leach, secretary; and Mrs. Myles Efteland, treasurer. They will head the club of 33 members who lost 466 pounds of weight the past year.

Retiring officers include Mrs. Victor Kvikstad, leader; Mrs. Randall Noper, vice president; Mrs. James Walker, secretary; Mrs. Morris Roadfeldt, treasurer; Mrs. Ruby Anderson and Mrs. L. E. Christianson, weight recorders.

Based on the group therapy tactics of other organizations, TOPS holds regular meetings and a queen of the month is recognized each month. Members exchange low-caloric recipes and hear speakers from the medical profession, cosmetology profession and others at their meetings.

Two members of the local club were sent to a convention in Minneapolis in September and two other members attended the convention and banquet at that time. "Each member of the club has reported better physical health as a result of weight loss," Mrs. Kvikstad said, "and their improved appearance is apparent. Women who have never been successful in losing weight before have now shed many pounds."

A group of teen agers has also been organized and a leader is being sought so that the number of the group may be enlarged.

How To Understand The Unconscious

The unconscious refers to those memories and feelings which are pushed so far from our awareness that we do not know that memories or feelings exist. If we do not know they exist, how can we know they are there? And if we cannot understand what we have hidden from ourselves, how is it possible for someone else to know?

These are no doubt some of the questions you have asked yourself. Yet, strange as it may seem, there are several methods by which someone else can study what is going on inside you, methods you might never have guessed.

One very good method is to notice the slips a person makes in his speech or writing. Let us say that Mr. Jones is in debt to Mr. Hiser. One fine day Mr. Hiser tells Mr. Jones that he wants his money. Mr. Jones has actually been slow in repaying Mr. Hiser and when he is asked to catch up on his payments, Jones has no objections. So far so good. But suppose the following day while both men were taking a walk they met on the street and greeted each other with:

"Hello, Mr. Jones."

"Hello, Mr. Miser."

What would you say about Jones then? Doesn't it appear reasonable that in one unguarded moment Jones's true feeling came out? Our conclusion from that slip of the tongue must be Hiser's pressure for the money was not felt justified and that Jones wonders why a fellow with all his money must make a fuss about asking him to catch up on a couple of payments.

The slip permitted us to look into the hidden feeling of which Jones himself was not aware. For as brief as it was, it was nevertheless a glimpse at the unconscious.

These unconscious slips happen in our actions as well as our speech and writing. Here is a young woman writing two letters, one to each of her two suitors. She is telling rich, middle-aged Mr. A. that she accepts his offer of marriage. In the second letter she is telling poor, handsome Mr. B. that she cannot marry him. Then she addresses two envelopes. However, she puts Mr. A's letter into Mr. B's envelope and Mr. B's letter into Mr. A's envelope.

Again we are suspicious about what she consciously tells us. The slip was too awkward. She thinks marriage to Mr. A. would be more secure, but apparently she really wants to marry Mr. B. The point to remember, and be aware of at all times in considering such instances, is the fact that the truth is often completely hidden from the people committing such slips. They may strongly deny what we feel is most true.

The young lady might still insist that she wants to marry Mr. A. Remember her preference for Mr. B. is unconscious and she therefore knows nothing about it. If it were made conscious, she might or might not change her mind. She might tell us then that she would like to marry poor, handsome Mr. B., but she wants security more than romance and will still marry rich Mr. A.

Bringing material out of the unconscious up to consciousness does not always make great changes. But at least, when the person understands fully all, or most of his feelings, he won't be deceiving himself. If our young lady had not the chance to realize how she truly felt, she might have gone ahead with her plans to marry Mr. A. and always felt an emptiness and longing for Mr. B. After she knows her real feelings, this is much less likely, because she then made her decision after knowing all her feelings.

Slips of the tongue, pen or actions are one means to see the unconscious. There are other and better ways, however. We shall be reading about them soon: hypnoses, dreams, psychological theory and free association.

Activities Help TB Patients Pass Time Year 'Round

Christmas Party Held Wednesday with Special Entertainment Provided

Crookston Jaycees recently donated a new cover for the pool table in the recreation room at Sunnyrest sanatorium in Crookston, according to Mrs. Mary Vattendahl, sanatorium field nurse. Occupational and recreational activities are an important feature of sanatorium patients' convalescent care, Mrs. Vattendahl said, and pool has been a favorite pastime for patients for many years.

Other activities include knitting and sewing, leather work, painting, reading and television. Special entertainment is provided throughout the year by groups and individuals in the way of musical programs, pictures and refreshments. Religious services are provided through arrangement with the Crookston ministerial association.

On Wednesday, the annual Christmas party was held in the reception room of the sanatorium. Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Manwiller of Crookston provided special entertainment and refreshments were served to staff members, patients and their friends following the program.

Sunnyest sanatorium serves a six-county area including Marshall Roseau, Red Lake, Pennington, Polk and Norman counties. Sanatorium commissioners from Pennington county are Merele A. Lindberg, Thief River Falls, who serves on the finance committee, and Herman A. Kjos, Thief River Falls. Dr. L. H. Flancher is superintendent and medical director.

Runestone Interest Is Shown Near Ulen

National and world experts indicate an interest in the possible Viking runestone at Ulen, located northwest of Detroit Lakes.

According to Ray Wilmore, vice president of Ulen Historical association, Viking authorities and archaeologists are now corresponding with the Ulen group.

The stone is located about 5¼ miles northwest of the village of Ulen on the Harry Hilde farm. Old-timers recall that back in 1912 strange markings were evident on a huge stone near the south branch of the Wild Rice river. The runes may be connected with the famed Kensington Runestone, written in 1362.

When farmers needed foundation rock for basements of farm buildings, this rock was dynamited and pieces used in building the house. It was believed, however, that the rock broke evenly and the markings may not have been damaged.

The Ulen association received permission this fall to excavate the house, as it is now vacant. Work is expected to get underway this spring as soon as weather permits.

One of these pieces of the rock was found. A faint marking can be detected engraved along the flat side.

A letter to Professor Stenberger of Upsala university of East Orange, New Jersey, was answered. "He is very interested in what we are doing," Wilmore stated, "and has intimated that he would very much like to come over and look around himself."

Wilmore also said, "I am in contact with the National Library of Norway and the director, Harald L. Tveteras, has sent a copy of my letter on to Dr. Helge Ingstad, the Norwegian who has made the recent Viking Newfoundland discoveries."

Another project of the Ulen group is a possible Viking ship, or hull, that was reported to have been seen by pioneers who first came to the Ulen area in the 1870's. This is located somewhere in the "flats," almost nine miles northwest of Ulen.

Evidence indicates that this prairie land could have been a large lake at one time not too long ago. Large areas have never been plowed and the association believes that the ship lies buried under sand.

Wilmore described the work done in this project: "I received a requested aerial photo from the ASC. It covers the Viking ship area we are interested in. This map shows the area very clearly and two possible ship outlines are in evidence."

Safety Council Urges Caution In Winter Driving

Slippery Streets, Poor Visibility Make for Many Driving Hazards

Attention of motorists to winter driving conditions was called by the Pennington County Safety council at the regular session held Monday evening in the Rex Cafe. Anthony Madunich, council president, presided at the meeting.

The council urged motorists to check their vehicle equipment including exhaust systems, defrosters and windshield wipers which are all contributing factors to safe winter driving.

Particular attention was called to the necessity for cleaning windshields and frosted side and rear windows to provide good visibility in cold weather. A few extra moments spent at this task can avoid loss of time, property damage or personal injury due to a traffic accident which could be avoided.

The council also asked all motorists to recognize the icy condition of city streets and to reduce their speeds accordingly. Special hazards exist in the periods just prior to and after school when children are enroute from their home to school and back again.

Children bundled up against the cold may not use the caution they should when crossing streets or walking along streets when sidewalks are snow-covered, the council warns. Clouds of exhaust from cars transporting children to and from school also create an additional hazard.

"We sincerely hope that drivers will be extra cautious and adjust their speed to winter conditions," Madunich said. "There is no substitute for alert, defensive driving when it comes to traffic safety."

underseas cables or by tomorrow's satellite communications system. Again, any new numbering plan would have to be compatible with overseas calling.

Before deciding on the seven-numeral numbering system, the Bell system studied and considered many alternatives for producing additional number combinations. Each plan had its advantages and drawbacks, but seven numeral system was found to be the one with the most advantages and fewest drawbacks.

The seven-numeral plan is the system of the future. It provides nearly 800 number combinations, an increase of 50 per cent over the two-letter, five-numeral plan, and this increase is expected to take care of future growth into the next century.

Today's two-letter, five-numeral numbers are going the way of old fashioned coffee grinders, running boards on automobiles, hand-set newspapers and non-magnetic bank checks. And for the same reason—progress.

Department Explains Rules on Ice Fishing

While most veteran ice fishermen are acquainted with the regulations, the conservation department today advised new winter fishing enthusiasts of some of the special rules governing this popular sport.

In addition to the regular fishing license needed for both summer and winter fishing, those using fish shacks or darkhouses must purchase an additional license. There is also a special license, costing one dollar, required by anyone wishing to spear.

Licenses for shelters and darkhouses now are either two dollars or three dollars, depending on whether the shack is for private use or for hire. The 1963 fishing synopsis says such licenses are only one dollar but the 1963 legislature raised the fees at the last session after the synopsis had already been printed.

The additional one or two dollars are collected by the license agent who then issues the license holder a stamp to affix to his 1963 license. Beginning January 1, the additional fee will be included in the cost of the 1964 license and no stamp will be necessary.

The shelter license must be fastened to the interior of the shack. The shelter license number and the name and address of the owner must be painted on the exterior of the house in letters at least three inches high.

The door of the shelter or darkhouse must be constructed so it can be opened from the outside at any time while it is in use.

Although the same shack may be used for both spearing and angling, it is unlawful to have a spear within a fish house or dark house while it is being used for angling purposes. This means the fisherman is going to have to decide whether he is going to angle or spear; he can't do both at the same time.

Another change from the regulations shown in the 1963 fishing synopsis affects the date when such shacks must be removed from the ice. Under provisions of a bill signed into law last February, ice fishermen may use their shelters after February 28, (the usual deadline for removing them from the ice providing they remove them by 7 p. m. each day and do not put them out until 7 a. m.

NEWFOLDEN SCHOOL YULE VACATION STARTS FRIDAY

Newfolden Community School will recess for Christmas vacation at 3:00 p. m., Friday, December 20, 1963. School will reconvene at the regular time on Monday, January 6.

APPEARING much bigger when hung up than when moving effortlessly through the brush, the four moose shown above dwarf Leo Pahlen, local hunter whose party of four filled out their licenses in Manitoba last week. Hunting with Pahlen were Tony Dorn and Stan Wilson of Thief River Falls and Howard Johnston of Red Lake Falls. The group hunted 24 miles west of The Pas, Manitoba, and bagged two bulls, a cow and calf in four days of hunting. The large cow moose taped 78 inches from top of rump to bottom of back hoof.

NICE CATCH in any man's stream were the two walleyes displayed by Morris Langer, 919 Knight av. N. Langer left his home about 3:30 p.m. Sunday and was back by 4:30 with two bullheads, three northerns (including a four pounder) and the above two walleyes weighing eight and 11 pounds. Langer caught the fish angling with live minnows from a darkhouse across from Squaw Point on the Thief river.

TRF Student to Get Degree at St. Cloud

Dennis Gram of Thief River Fall will receive a bachelor of arts degree at the close of the fall quarter Dec. 19 at St. Cloud State College. More than 80 students completed their four-year degree programs during the quarter, according to President George F. Budd. Commencement exercises will be conducted next June for all students who earn degrees during the 1963-64 academic year.

Former TRF Teacher Gets St. Cloud Post

Lew Johnson, a former elementary teacher in the Thief River Falls schools, has been appointed supervising principal of the Madison and Wilson elementary schools in St. Cloud, effective with the 1964-1965 school year. Johnson is married to the former Lila Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hanson of Thief River Falls.

set for February 4 at 7:30 p. m. in the council chambers. Mailed notices will be sent to property owners affected.

Approval was given to appointments made by Mayor Orin Green to the library board. Mrs. L. B. Hartz was reappointed for a three-year term and Mrs. C. M. Isaacson and Eric Hamershiy were appointed to succeed Elmer Andersen and Mrs. A. E. Jacobson. The council asked that a letter of appreciation be sent to the latter for their service to the library.

The council also budgeted $5,000 in the emergency fund to be used for library remodeling if this city is selected as multi-county library headquarters. It has been proposed that a pilot project be started here with available funds from previous multi-county library attempts.

It was also voted to pay the city attorney on a time basis for prosecution of statutory misdemeanors in municipal court.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Well—it is that time of year again! There is a gladness in the heart, a twinkling in the eye and "home" takes on new meaning. There are gifts to be given and gifts to be bought—and much ado about everything!

"Friends of the Library" decorating committee members took time out of their busy pre-holiday schedules and made children's section a thing of beauty to behold. There are Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus welcoming you and there is the Christmas tree to bring forth "Oh's" and "Ah's". Santa's helpers are all about and an angel smiles down at passers-by. There's Christmas in the air—and there's Christmas on the shelves—at your library.

Borrowers have been coming in for Christmas stories, poems, plays and decorating ideas. Some new books have arrived to add a new note to the season. The story is the oldest and best known of all, but each year some one tells it in a new fashion. This season one of the newest is "How Mrs. Santa Claus Saved Christmas", by Phyllis McGinley and illustrated by Kurt Werth. It is a charming little tale for the young readers, or for the so-called "young-in-heart" (and who isn't—this time of year?)

The display and decorating committee members did everything they could, certainly, to make that adage seem true, indeed, to users of the library. Mrs. D. H. Stewart, chairman of the group, was assisted by Mrs. M. R. Hankerson, Mrs. J. O. Disse, Mrs. William Holmes, Mrs. R. J. Dryden, Mrs. Fred Sorensen and Mrs. Milton Reierson.

And while Christmas makes the home hearth so dear to our hearts, did you ever stop to ask yourself "Just what do I know about my home state?" The best place to go, in order to learn more, after you've ansered yourself on THAT question—is your public library.

There are those who are interested in information about hunting, fishing, motoring, skating, about the rivers and the lakes and general geographic facts, figures, dates and data. There are those who are interested in her historic past and there are those interested only in her future. Whichever line of reasoning and thought you care to follow, your library is prepared to answer the need.

The shelves hold such volumes as "Where Goes the River" by Albert S. Tousley, "101 Best Stories of Minnesota" and "The Minnesota Community". There's "Red River Runs North" by Kelsey and "The Voyageur's Highway" by Nute. "The Minnesota—Forgotten River" is a new non-fiction by Evan Jones. There's "Charles E. Flandrau and "The Defense of New Ulm" by Fridley.

Fiction readers should remember to request Malm's "Every Third Thought" and Moberg's "Trilogy". There's also Prendergast's "Swift Arrow" and "Hearts Are in the Fields" by Turngren. There are books about Minnesota and there are books by Minnesotans, such as the late Martha Ostendso's "O River Remember" and "Wild Geese". Makes no difference whether you are seeking information, or entertainment, you will find it if you shop the shelves of your library.

An interesting display viewed by many library users is the woods collection owned by H. C. Sulurud of Fertile. He's been collecting wood, and hand-hewn wooden articles, for quite some time. He's a member of the International Wood Collectors society and is always anxious to talk to anyone sharing his interest. His display has created a great deal of interest—especially the Minnesota wood varieties.

So, Christmas is coming—such a nice time of year—when gifts are exchanged and peace abides everywhere.

And if you need a "stocking-stuffer" and you know some one who is unlucky enough not to own a library card, why not give them one for Christmas! Come in, we'll check and see whether they are registered patron or not! And, should you know someone who lives outside Pennington county, in one of the neighboring ones, why not buy them a membership (only $3.00 a year for a whole family.) No other gift gives more—entertainment, education, information, all available at your public library.

Local Wrestlers Win 3 Lose One Past Week

It was three wins and a loss for coach Al Shaff's Prowler wrestling squad this past week. In a match held at Greenbush on Wednesday evening, the Prowlers, by a 31 to 19 score, defeated the Tigers. On Saturday, participating in a tri-squad match at Ada, the Prowlers defeated the Ada Vikings 33 to 18. Following that win the Prowlers faced the Moorhead Spuds, and lost by a 27 to 18 decision. On Monday night, in a match held in the Lincoln high school gymnasium, the Prowlers defeated coach Kent Marsten's Mahnomen Indians, 33 to 11.

GRUNTS and groans were the result of exertive effort in this heavyweight match between the Lincoln high school Prowlers and Mahnomen Indians Monday evening. Ellsworth Senum of the Prowlers, weighing in at 255 pounds, is shown attempting to turn John Wolbeck, 266-pound sophomore of the Indians. Rated high in Region 8, Wolbeck pinned Senum in 43 seconds of the second period of the match, although the Prowlers won 33-11.

On Saturday, January 4, coach Shaff will take his varsity squad to Grand Rapids for an invitational match. The preliminary matches will begin at 12:30 p. m. and the finals will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Adding decision points to the Prowler total were Gary Nereson and Ron Shaff, while Les Nordhagen picked two points on a draw.

In Monday night's triumph over the Mahnomen Indians, Myles Olson, Steve Furuseth, and Gary Nereson scored five-point pins. And decisions were gained by Les Nordhagen, Ron Shaf, Luke Kaushagen, Tom Miller, Joe Taylor, and Terry Nelson.

In a preliminary match, coach Dale Folger's Prowler 'B' squad, by a 14 to 9 score, defeated the Mahnomen 'B' wrestlers.

Wool Incentive Payment Program Dates To Change

Wool producers should be aware the marketing year for the wool incentive payment program has now been changed to run from January to December 31. The current marketing year will cover only a nine-month period which began April 1 and ends December 31.

L. B. Schuster, Land O'Lakes creameries fieldman-buyer for Minnesota Wool Growers association, pointed out today that all wool marketed during this nine-month period will be included in the 1963 marketing year. Incentive payment applications for wool must be completed and filed at the county ASCS office no later than Jan. 31, 1964. All growers are urged to check and make certain their applications are filed.

The Moose Hang High

And this is a literal statement, too, for there are several hunters in this area who have just returned from moose-hunting expeditions into the "wilds" of northern Manitoba. And these hunters, for the most part, were successful in filling their moose limits.

Norman, Glen, and Gordon Olson, farmers living just west of town, came back with three fine bull moose. And this past weekend, Stan Wilson, Tony Dorn and Leo Pahlen, and Howie Johnston of Red Lake Falls, returned with a pair of bull moose, a cow, and a calf.

And Roseau's Dr. Bob Harris and Len Hedlund were in a group of seven Roseau area hunters, and they, too, returned with filled tags.

These parties all hunted in the The Pas, Manitoba, area, and had their headquarters at the "Pre-Cambrian" hotel in The Pas.

Stan, Tony, Leo, and Howie hunted the brush country about 25 miles northwest of The Pas, adjacent to lake Saskeram. The Olson brothers hunted the country south and east of The Pas.

But all these parties are agreed that much of the success of their hunting expeditions was due to the fact that they were equipped with "Arctic Cat" or "Sno-Traveller" snow sleds. And these units had to be in the extra-powerful category in order to penetrate the "bush" and get into the area where the moose were feeding.

In spite of the 32-below zero weather that prevailed, and which caused Tony's ham sandwiches to become board-hard, and his hard-boiled eggs to become like rocks, the boys are anxious to go up there again.

But first they will have to dress out and skin the moose they have on hand. And having had a look at some of these moose, hoisted up on machinery racks, it appears that the boys will have to build scaffolds in order to do an expert skinning job.

The Region's "Biggest" Team

The Ada Vikins cage squad that comes here on Friday night for a game against coach Jack Junker's Prowlers will, perhaps, be the most impressive squad, physically, to appear on the local court.

The Vikings have a forward line that will average at about six-feet four-inches, with center Dave Cirks providing most of this height. Cirks towers a bit more than six-feet six-inches, and he moves this height around in a capable manner.

In last season's game between the two teams, and which was played on the Ada court in mid-December, the Prowlers, with one of their "hottest" nights of field goal shooting, hitting at a pace that was better than fifty per cent, defeated the Vikings, 88 to 52. In that game, John Aune scored 24 points, Rick Jensen scored 18 points, Paul Klungness added 13 points, Tom Lindberg scored 13 points, and Bob Olson notched 11 points, getting five field goals in the fourth period. It was a remarkable exhibition of shooting.

Three of those marksmen, Aune, Klungness, and Lindberg, have been graduated, so the Vikings do not expect to run up against such an attack on Friday night.

Heartbreaker

And that was a heartbreaker that the Prowlers lost to the Crookston Pirates last Friday, 66 to 45, on the Crookston court, but that loss shouldn't prove detrimental to the locals' confidence. It was remarkable that the Prowlers could make that rally after trailing by a 14 points, 39 to 25, early in the third period.

It speaks well of the come-from-behind ability of coach Junker's squad. Of course, it is easier on the nerves of coaches, and the Prowler fans, too, if the locals gained an early lead and continue to increase that lead. Basketball is a game of quickly shifting trends, and a team can turn from a streak of "hot" shooting to a spell of "cold" play. It's when these "cold" spells become chronic that the coaches develop ulcers.

To point out the fact the "hot" shooting is a factor in basketball I'll cite the 34-point performance of Crookston's Dave Peterson. Prior to Friday night's game, the forward had been a doubtful quantity, and it was against the Prowlers that he was given a starting assignment. Dave is one of those unique athletes who is not very impressive during practice sessions, but who has the talent to play "starring" basketball during actual competition.

Friday night's game, which was important in District 31 conference play, was refereed by Andy Carey and Earl Gangeness. The officials, from Grand Forks, who were originally billed to call the game, were unable to reach Crookston because of the blizzard conditions that prevailed. Andy and Early were "drafted" to whistle the game, and the two called a really good game. Fact is, Andy Carey is one of the Region Eight's most capable football, basketball, and baseball officials. The chunky former Crookston Pirate all-round athlete merits consideration by the State High School league for state tournament play.

Defeat Badger 56 to 34 and Take Greenbush 74-70

The Newfolden Nordics, coached by Frank Koboutek, opened their 1963-64 cage season last week by scoring a pair of victories. In a game played at Badger, the Nordics, with Chuck Olson scoring 16 points and with Verne Hagnebeck adding 11, marked up a 56 to 34 win. On Saturday night, in a game played on the Greenbush court, the Nordics edged out the Tigers in a high-scoring game, winning by a 74 to 70 score.

In marking up their win over the Greenbush Tigers, the Nordics exhibited expert marksmanship from the free throw line, adding 22 points from the gift-shot line. The Tigers outscored the Nordics from the field getting 32 field goals to Newfolden's 26 two-pointers.

Jerry Strandquist paced the Nordics' with 24 points, having eight field goals and eight free throws. Greenbush's Ron Brazier, with 20 points, earned runner-up scoring honors.

The Newfolden squad will travel to Lake Bronson on Friday night for a game against Jerry Furuseth's defending District 32 champions. The Nordics will compete in a Holiday tournament at Strandquist in a first-round game, while Karlstad will face Lake Bronson in the other first-round tilt.

Prowler Sextet Trims EGF 4 to 2

Coach George Schlieff's hockey Prowlers opened their 1963-64 schedule on Tuesday evening by scoring a 4 to 2 win over coach Ed Thomlinson's East Grand Forks squad in a Region Eight conference game played on the Arena ice.

On Saturday, December 21, with the face-off slated for 2:00 p. m., the Prowlers will play coach Sergio Gambucci's Grand Forks Central Redskins in the Winter Sports Building on the North Dakota U campus. A preliminary game, between the Prowler B squad and the Redskins B squad will face-off at 1:00 p. m.

In Tuesday evening's schedule-opener here, the Prowlers showed improvement as the game progressed, and in the final period, although held to one goal, coach Schlieff's squad played crisp and effective hockey.

After a scoreless first period, during which the East Grand Forks team outgunned the Prowlers by having five shots on goal while the locals were testing Al LaFave but three times, the locals racked up three goals in the second period. Paul Peterson, on an assist from Dennis Sullivan, whipped a shot past LaFave and into the north net at the 1:10 mark.

Midway in the period, John Weigelt, with Don Mathieu setting up the play, scored to give the locals a 2 to 0 lead, hitting the cage at the 6:58 mark. Don Stauss, after intercepting a Prowler clearing pass, scored on a shot from off to the right of the south goal. Elroy Froiland, with two seconds of the period remaining, scored to give the Prowlers a 3 to 1 lead. Mathiew, who played a stellar game, skating well and setting up the plays in expert fashion, earned the assist on Froiland's tally.

Another defensive lapse in the third period accounted for East Grand Forks' 2nd goal, with Curt Monson scoring a shot that was partially screened at the 8:56 mark. Peterson, with his second scoring effort of the game, hit the north net at the 9:50 mark, to provide the Prowlers with some game "insurance."

In a preliminary game, the Prowler B squad, coached by Jerry Westby, defeated the East Grand Forks B squad, 4 to 2. Billy Dicken, the Prowlers burly defenseman, scored two of the Prowler tallies.

Farmers Invited to Join Feed Grain Plan

The 1964 feed grain program can furnish the answer to some farm operators' questions about what to do with their land next year, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

If the farm has a feed grain base, the farm operator will be eligible to participate in the 1964 feed grain program, thus earning diversion payments by keeping land out of unneeded feed grain production and shifting it to conservation uses.

"We're encouraging feed grain farmers to look into the advantages to be gained by taking part in the 1964 feed grain program," the chairman declared. There are definite advantages to farm owners and operators in putting crop acres into conserving uses under the feed grain program instead of turning out crop production which only results in building up extra supplies.

"We've made good progress in the past few years in trying to cut back production of the feed grains so that our stocks will be in better balance with demand, but we're not in the clear yet. That's why Congress authorized continuation of the feed grain diversion program for 1964 and 1965.

"While the signup will not be held until early next year, the main provisions of the 1964 program have already been announced. A farm operator can participate by diverting from 20 to 50 per cent of his farm's feed grain base, with higher rates of payment for diversion greater than the minimum. And of course eligibility for price support on corn, grain sorghum and barley depends on participation in the feed grain program."

Chairman Knutson suggests that farmers become fully familiar with advantages of the 1964 feed grain program before completing their crop plans for next year.

To Pay Dividend on GI Insurance Soon

First Check to Reach Veterans by January 2

In response to President Johnson's directive for the earliest possible payment of the $234-million GI insurance divident for 1964, the Veterans Administration today said the first checks would reach veterans by January 2.

In reporting this, John R. Parabout 225,000 World War 1 veterans Administration in Fargo, said payments to all of the 10,974 area veterans participating in the dividend would be completed in record time- by January 25.

Of the total distribution of $234-million,$15-million will go out to about 225,00 World War 1 veterans holding U.S. Government Life Insurance USGLI Policies.

The remaining $219 million will go to 4,500,00 World War 11 veterans who hold National Service Life Insurance NSLI Policies.

Korean conflict veterans hold non-participating policies that do not provide regular annual dividend payments.

The regular dividends are primarily a return to the policy-holders of part of their premium payments since the death rate among the GI policyholders continues to be lower than the rate upon which payments were established by law.

Mr. Parrish reminded policy holders that the preparing and mailing of dividend payments are automatic and require no correspondence from veterans or their families.

Icy Conditions Contribute To Traffic Mishaps

Police Urge Extreme Caution When Driving On Icy City Streets

Thief River Falls police have investigated several traffic accidents during the past week with icy conditions contributing to the mishaps. Police warn motorists to use extreme caution and reduced speeds when traveling on city streets which are very icy and to be especially alert for pedestrians during the Christmas shopping season.

Accidents reported last week include the following:

At 12:08 p. m. Wednesday a car driven by Gordon H. Anderson, city, was traveling west on First street and struck the left rear of a car driven east on First street by Fern Peters of Viking. About $40 damage was done to the Anderson car and $75 to the Peters car with the case under investigation.

At about 7 p. m. Thursday, a car driven east on Parkview by Morris Owen, city, was making a left turn on Horace avenue when struck on the left fender and door by a car driven by William Allison, city. Damage was estimated at $150 to the Owen car and $50 to the Allison vehicle with the case under investigation by the department.

About 11:45 a. m. Friday, a car driven east on Third street by Donald Scott, rt. 5, TRF, was unable to stop when approaching the Great Northern railroad crossing and broke the signal arm blocking the highway. About $100 damage was done to the car but no estimate of damage to the signal was made. The accident was reported and not investigated at the scene.

At 5 a. m. Sunday a car driven west on Fourth Street by Edwin Berggren, rt. 4, TRF, was struck on the right rear fender by a car driven south on Horace avenue by Robert Kezar, rt. 1, Newfolden. About $125 damage was done to the Berggren car and $50 to the Kezar car with the case under investigation.

At 10:30 a. m. Sunday, a car driven south on St. Paul avenue by David R. Gustafson, city, struck a car driven west on Nora street by Violet Jenkins, city. More than $50 damage was done to each car with the case under investigation by the police department.

December Deadly Month on Highway

52 Lives Lost in State in December Last Year

December is the month of the longest nights of the year and it is one of the most deadly for motorists, said Garnet E. Hall safety director of the Minnesota highway department, today. The dangers are also pointed up by the recent news that Minnesota's traffic fatalities have reached a new all-time high for the year.

"Shorter days and longer nights are menacing only to drivers who fail to adjust their driving speeds to allow for the extra hazards involved," Hall continued.

"December traffic accidents in the United States last year claimed 3,780 lives, or a daily average of 122, making the last month of 1962 the fourth worst month of the year, according to National Safety Council figures.

"In our own state last year, traffic accidents in December claimed 52 lives," Hall added. "I feel it is a moral responsibility for all drivers to make the effort to strive to prevent accidents. A good slogan for December is 'Drive by the Golden Rule—You ARE your brother's keeper.' "

Public Relations of Stephen Firm Accorded Praise

An excellent example of how forethought stood a contractor in good stead comes to hand—and not at his own instigation.

Roy Benson & Son, Inc., Stephen highway contractors, who had a construction project on TH 59, disturbed the movement of traffic through the village of Lake Bronson, near the northwest corner of the state.

Before the season started the company explained its operations in newspaper stories in the Lake Bronson Budget. They told what they expected to do in constructing the highway, how it would influence the life of the community and approximately when it would be completed.

At the conclusion of the construction season, the firm ran an advertisement in the Lake Bronson Budget thanking the public for its patience and cooperation and wishing the community continued growth.

The word got around. The citizens of that area were pleased to be treated in this considerate way. They told about their feelings to others. That is how the Minnesota highway department heard about it.

Conservation Is Promoted by ASCS

Farmers Are Eligible for Cost-sharing Grants

ACP is a practical program that actually gets conservation work done on privately owned farmland, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. He pointed out that each year — through the Agricultural Conservation Program—the Government shares with more than a million farmers and ranchers the cost of soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation practices on individual farms and ranches throughout the nation.

Recent estimates show that program practices were carried out in 1962 on 1.2 million farms of which about 200,000 were "new" participants on which no significant conservation measures had been carried out in several years.

In 1964, the chairman explained, special emphasis is again being given to practices with enduring benefits. Cost-share assistance is provided to farmers for carrying out such conservation practices as establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, or trees for soil protection, installing erosion-control structures, and practices for the conservation or more efficient use of water.

Practices of primary benefit to wildlife likewise are especially encouraged by the 1964 program. Both financial and technical assistance is available to farmers for developing or restoring shallow water areas for wildlife, for constructing ponds and dams for wildlife, and for establishing cover and food plots, and for other practices that will enhance wildlife.

Definite specifications, designed to meet technical standards and local needs, must be met in completing the practices if they are to qualify for ACP cost-share assistance, Mr. Dahl reminded farm operators. He urged farmers who are considering conservation projects for their farmland to check with the ASCS county office for information on the kinds and specifications of practices for which ACP cost-share assistance will be available for 1964.

Minneapolis Star Man gets AAA Honor

George L. Peterson Is Recipient of Award

An editorial writer for the Minneapolis Star who has fought for better highways and traffic safety measures for years with his typewriter, Friday was given the "Service to Motoring" award by the Minnesota State Automobile Association at its annual meeting in the Radisson Hotel.

George L. Peterson, an editorialist who has often championed the cause of the man-behind-the-wheel, accepted the award in a brief luncheon ceremony from Dr. William G. Sauer, Rochester, president of the statewide motoring organization.

"This award," Dr. Sauer said, "is our way of saying thanks to Mr. Peterson for all the things he has done and all the things he has said in the Minneapolis Star's editorial pages for the betterment of all motorists in this state."

The AAA official noted that Peterson "has been the editorial champion of the Minnesota trunk highway system and has fought consistently against diversion of highway dollars to non-highway purposes."

Editorials . . .

"Certainly, Gentlemen, it ought to be the happiness and glory of a representative to live in the strictest union, the closest correspondence, the most unreserved communication with his constituents. Their wishes ought to have great weight with him; their opinions high respect; their business unremitted attention. It is his duty to sacrifice his repose, his pleasure, his satisfactions, to theirs—and above all, ever, and in all cases, to prefer their interest to his own.

"But his unbiased opinion, his mature judgment, his enlightened concience, he ought not to sacrifice to you, to any man, or to any set of men living. These he does not derive from your pleasure—no, nor from the law and the constitution. They are a trust from Providence, for the abuse of which he is deeply answerable. Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays, instead of serving you, if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

—Edmund Burke

We Have Made Progress

Marion Anderson has announced that she is going to retire from the concert stage after a world tour that will start next year. The 61-year-old contralto, whose international recognition as a celebrity dates back to 1926, is a Negro.

In view of the fact that our sob-sister press, and too many of our politicians, have deplored our treatment of the Negroes, Miss Anderson will be very helpful in her world tour in establishing the fact that we have made encouraging progress over a period of a hundred years in actual recognition of racial equality.

We have a right to be proud of the progress that has been made, still recognizing the obvious fact that the problems of racial equality have been only partially solved. In this field progress will continue to be slow. The enactment of laws will not overcome prejudice. And there is racial prejudice.

We like Marion Anderson because she has proven that a racial difference is not an insurmountable handicap in our country. In athletics full recognition is given to the prowess of the Negro. We have made progress.

Then Comes January

Raymond Moley, in his Newsweek column, reminds us that after December comes January, and the beginning of another new year. And in that new year the country will have to make a very important political decision. There is a presidential election ahead of us that promises to be not only especially interesting but also especially important. As Moley states:

> "The issues to be decided in 1964 will have great impact upon the future of the nation. They will have to do with the relation of the Federal government to the states, the communities, and to individual Americans. These issues go to the very marrow of national policy."

It is his opinion that in the coming election the lines will be more sharply drawn on liberal and conservative basic differences. The dominant majority of the Democratic Party during the last quarter century has leaned to the liberal approach, while the Republican minority in Congress, up to three years ago, has "blurred this issue by compromise."

Moley points out that during the past three years the Republican minority in Congress has generally accepted the conservative position. President Johnson has indicated that he recognizes the fact that we have had too much of liberal government and that the time has come for some serious belt-tightening. We will know more about where he really stands on these matters after he makes his recommendations to Congress in January. Thinks Moley:

> "It is hardly conceivable that President Johnson can avoid the meeting of this issue in ideologies. For by virtue of his office he is the leader of his party and is bound by his past commitments. His strategy will differ in method but hardly in objectives.
> "But the precise strategy of his opposition must be subject to some reconsideration. That will await the President's pronouncements in January —in his messages, his budget, and approval of the various programs projected by Mr. Kennedy. When he asserts his party leadership at that time, the lines will be drawn and the national debate will begin. As President, Mr. Johnson will be respected. As party leader, he will be opposed. That is what our institutions demand."

President Johnson, presumably, will campaign as a fairly conservative Democrat, which he probably is. The left-wingers will support him in the election because they will have nowhere else to go, and he probably will be elected to succeed himself. The important thing is the fact that we seem to be getting a conservative party in the country again. We do not need two liberal parties.

Here in Minnesota the record of the Republican party, at the state level, has not been good. The only governor that the party has reason to be proud of in recent years was "Economy-Ted" Christianson, who did put the brakes on wasteful spending for several years.

The nation needs an Economy-Ted at the head of our government in Washington. President Johnson has an excellent opportunity to prove himself to be a really great leader. The next year, an unusually important campaign year, should be very interesting.

Let Congress Appoint

Some responsible people are concerned about who should be the president if President Lyndon Johnson should die. As we understand it, the next in line, if the vice-president should die, would be the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The people who are concerned are concerned mainly because the members of the House, whom we elected, did not recognize the importance of their decision when they decided who should be the Speaker. The worriers are concerned about the incompetence of the elderly fellow who might be our next president.

It is a problem that deserves serious consideration. One answer that appeals to us is to give to our representatives in Congrss, the members of both houses, acting as one body, the authority to select the leader who should become our President if a second vacancy should occur. Those who represent us, as individuals, may not be outstandingly bright, but in making a decision of this kind they probably are the best qualified group to make the proper selection.

In the Right Direction

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara is starting to talk good sense. He has confirmed the reports that operations at 33 military installations, here and abroad, will be reduced. And he states that more cut-backs are in the making and will be announced later. The economy actions will take place gradually. The immediate saving in terms of dollars, will not be great. Eventually the saving will be a little more than a hundred million dollars. That isn't much when we consider that our defense spending is costing us fifty billion dollars a year.

But it is an inch in the right direction, and that is the important thing. Half of our total expenditures at the national level, roughly fifty billion dollars, is spent for defense, and we are not at war. We are sure that total could be cut in half without jeopardizing our security. The cut-backs on a large scale probably should come gradually, but they should come.

While the economy declarations that have been made so far have not been impressive in terms of dollars, they at least serve as evidence that there is recognition of a need. It is significant in that it is a departure from the fuzzy thinking that we can spend ourselves rich. To that extent it is encouraging.

Well Managed

Walter Barnes, editor of the Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch, noted our comment about Northern Minnesota being treated very fairly by the state in the building of the trunk highway system. He stated that "over the years we have heard countless southern Minnesotans complain that the northern part of the state was getting more than its share of money for good roads."

Recognizing the fact that northern Minnesota probably has received more of the state's road building money, in proportion to what Northern Minnesota has contributed to the state funds, editor Barnes concludes that, "Regardless, we want northern Minnesota, as well as southern Minnesota, to have good roads."

Thank you Walter, for your favorable reaction to our problem. You are right in stating that we have received more in proportion to what we have contributed. But we believe, and we think you will agree, that building better roads in northern Minnesota has been in the best interests of the state as a whole. Being a close observer of the progress northern Minnesota has made over a period of nearly forty years, we are satisfied that northern Minnesota will turn out to be a good investment for the rest of the state.

In order to keep the problem in proper perspective, we might call attention to the fact that the expansion and improvement of our trunk highway system in the northern areas was not as rapid as in some other areas. That probably was fortunate for us and for the state.

As a state we moved into the trunk highway system gradually. The state of Iowa, on the other hand, adopting a state highway program at about the same time, borrowed, as we recall it, a hundred million dollars to pave a lot of narrow roads with many right-angle turns, that have had to be re-located in order to meet the needs of expanding traffic.

Looking back over the highway development in terms of decades, we are satisfied that in the forty years of its existance as a state highway department, the department has been well managed. There have been local needs and area needs that have justified special consideration, but, judging the operation as a whole, we are satisfied that it has been a good program.

University Regents Get Report on Future of Northwest School

A report released Saturday recommends converting the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston into a vocational and trades school.

The school's present high school program, "designed for rural living, no longer serves the breadth of purpose that it once did" and should be "phased out as soon as possible," said the report.

But, the 94-page document went on, the Northwest School's short-course and extension programs should be continued and expanded.

A fourth recommendation suggested that the agricultural experiment station at the school also should expand.

The study of the school and its relationship to 12 counties in northwestern Minnesota was made by the Bureau of Field Studies and Surveys of the University of Minnesota college of education.

It was submitted to the university board of Regents Saturday.

The regents, who control policies for the 58-year-old school, will discuss the report at their January meeting.

In support of its recommendations, the study noted that farm population has declined in northwestern Minnesota, and so has enrollment at the Northwest School.

The school consolidation movement has resulted in larger, better public high schools, many of which offer courses similar to those at the Northwest School.

"Little if any alteration of the existing facility" would be necessary for expanded short-course and experiment station programs, said the report.

Below-average college attendance by youths from the 12-county area indicates a need for two-year, college level instruction in the area, the study said.

And, it continued, besides the academic needs of area students, the rural-to-urban migration shows a need for retraining and vocational education.

The report listed several implications of the proposed conversion:

New buildings and repair of existing ones. "The venture would not be an inexpensive one."

Difficulty of administering the school during its organizational and operational phases.

Need for co-operation among the state's three agencies for higher education before embarking on any changes for the Crookston school.

Close co-ordination with the area vocational school at Thief River Falls, Minn.

Supporting the vocational and trades institute would be college-level courses, transferable to other institutions, said the study.

"This would result in an institution similar to the highly successful School of Science at Wahpeton, N. D.," it said.

State Legion to Help Blood Bank Donor Recruiting

State Commander Lohman of Moorhead Announces Plan to Seek Donors

The Minnesota American Legion has launched a statewide blood donor recruitment program, according to State Commander Howard E. Lohman, Moorhead. Purpose of the program is to help bolster depleting lists of known available donors so that rising demands for whole blood can be more readily met, Lohman said. He has named Charles Gavin of LaCrescent as state chairman of the program.

Lohman said that officials of established blood programs contacted the Legion and expressed concern about the fact that lists of names of known donors have seriously decreased in size since the emergencies of World War II and Korea have passed. Blood programs, however, are still an important part of the Legion's national security program, he emphasized.

Meanwhile Gavin announced that a volunteer pilot recruitment program was recently adopted by his post in LaCrescent, immediately prior to a regular call of a bloodmobile, and this resulted in an approximate fifty percent increase above previous amounts of blood taken in regular collections in that community.

Paul Basquin, administrator of the War Memorial Blood Bank in Minneapolis stated that his agency happily welcomes the Legion's organized efforts to help secure increased numbers of first-time donors.

Gavin stated that the program is aimed primarily to assist already established blood collection agencies in Minnesota, walking blood banks may be established.

4H Radio Speaking Contests Slated

22d Annual Event to Be Held January Thru March

The 2nd annual statewide 4-H radio speaking contest will be held between January and March, 1964, Mrs. Claudia Woker, assistant state 4-H club agent at the University of Minnesota, has announced.

Subject of this year's event is "What is my responsibility in bettering interracial and inter-religious understanding?"

To be eligible to enter local or county radio speaking contests, 4-H'ers must be over 14 years of age but not over 21 on January 1. Former state and reserve state champions are not eligible.

Local, county and district contests will be held. County contests must be held by Feb. 15, district contests between Feb. 15 and Mar. 7. State Finals are scheduled for March 23-24 on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul Campus.

The Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the Jewish Community Relations Council of Minnesota co-sponsor the event. Awards are given by the Jewish Council.

Last year more than 1,000 Minnesota 4-H'ers participated in local competitions arranged under the direction of 4-H club leaders and county extension agents.

A $1,543,168 contract for construction of a storm drain tunnel along the route of TH 35W in Minneapolis has been awarded to three St. Paul firms cooperating in a joint venture, the Minnesota Highway Department reports.

Langen Testifies at Beet Hearing

Asks Ag Department for Bigger Valley Acreage

Congressman Odin Langen Wednesday testified in behalf of the Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota at the U. S. Department of Agriculture sugar beet hearings. Langen asked for additional acreage for the Valley.

"The Red River Valley is a proven beet raising area," he said. "The proof is the actual production of sugar beets over the last thrifty years. But this has been on a limited basis compared to the full potential that is there. There is ample room for both expansion of existing facilities, as well as new factories and producers."

Congressman Langen had praise for the people and organizations in the Valley, who have worked through the years to further the sugar beet potential of the area. "These people have carried on with local initiative and funds for the purpose of directing attention to the great possibilities that this fertile valley holds for sugar-beet production. It is my hope that the Department of Agriculture will reward this initiative with a substantial increase in sugar-beet acreage in the immediate future."

Nurses Reminded Time Is Here to Renew Licenses

Minnesota registered nurses and licensed practical nurses who are currently renewed for 1963 and who intend to practice in Minnesota next year are reminded to renew their licenses prior to January 1, 1964 if they have not already done so.

The 1964 renewal fee of $2.00 and the renewal application are to be returned promptly to the Minnesota Board of Nursing, 530 Minnesota Building, St. Paul, 55101, so as to assure receipt of the 1964 renewal certificate by January 1.

Applications postmarked after December 31, 1963 must be accompanied by an additional dollar penalty fee.

Requests for placement in the nonpracticing status may be made instead of renewal request by those who do not intend to practice, in Minnesota for any time in 1964.

Most Drivers Win Praise for Their Good Performance

National Safety Chief Says Majority of Drivers Do a 'Magnificent Job'

"Considering the astronomical number of possible conflicts when 80 million vehicles are driven 800 billion miles per year by 95 million drivers, it must be apparent that the majority of drivers, most of the time, are doing a magnificent job of avoiding serious accidents."

This was said by James K. Williams, director of highway safety, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. It reflects a growing attitude, new to the efforts to obtain greater highway safety, which is more frequently heard of late.

Apparently the emotional, logical and "scare" appeals for safe driving have gone about as far as they can—with not too satisfactory results. The emphasis is shifting to what can be done in improving drivers, roads and vehicles. Action would replace words.

The performance of drivers, says Williams, "is all the more remarkable in view of the lack of uniformity in traffic laws and ordinances, the bewildering array of nonstandard signs, signals, and highway markings, and the built-in boobytraps remaining in much of the nation's road and street mileage."

Williams cites the fact that accident rates on completed section of the Interstate are from one-half to one-fifth that of the nation's system as a whole as evidence that it is economically feasible to achieve greatly reduced accident rates on conventional streets and highways through proven traffic engineering techniques.

Don't Let Mishaps Mar Yule Season

Highway Safety Chief Urges Driving Caution

A smashed auto, with occupants killed or hurt and holiday gifts strewn about the wreckage, is a sure way to ruin the Christmas season.

"Don't let it happen to you and your loved ones," motorists were warned today by Garnet E. Hall, safety director of the Minnesota highway department.

"Most accidents are avoidable," he cautioned. "Accidents are 'caused occurrences', and the causes usually can be traced to some act of carelessness on the part of driver or pedestrian."

The state safety authority said extra care is needed to meet the extraordinary hazards of holiday excitement, shopping rush and bad weather.

"Gay street and store decorations must not cause us to overlook the colors of traffic control lights," he warned.

"Either in a crowd of pedestrians or in crowded, slow-moving traffic lanes, we must be patient and law-respecting," he added.

"If streets and roads are slippery, avoid sudden moves whether walking or driving," Hall admonished.

Third Tax Study Hearing Slated in Bemidji Jan. 28th

Interim Commission of 1963-64 Invites Public to Present Their Views

State Senator Donald O Wright, chairman of the Interim Tax Study Commission of 1963-1964, today announced that the third public hearing on Minnesota tax resources, tax reform and economic growth will be held in the Elks lodge rooms in Bemidji, Tuesday, January 28, at 9:30 a. m.

Counties from which the commission will hear witnesses are Beltrami, Cass, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

All 14 of these counties have been designated by the federal government as areas of substantial or persistent unemployment and sub-standard personal incomes.

The extent to which these conditions are chargeable to the impact of present state and local taxes is of concern to the commission, which is charged also with considering the need for tax reforms that can induce economic growth and encourage the development of new payrolls and more jobs.

The commission hopes for a volume of suggestions, criticisms and ideas from wage and salary workers, businessmen, farmers, home owners and others at the Bemidji hearing.

"It would facilitate the conduct of the meeting," said chairman Wright, "if persons who wish to be heard would notify the Commission in advance, by writing to us at 204 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, but such notice is not a requirement.

LISTEN! the story of... Christmas

It's an old family custom. I hang up my stocking for Santa to fill. Then everyone has to be very quiet while Daddy reads the Christmas Story from our big family Bible . . . about the Shepherds . . . how they watched . . . and listened. That's why they know Jesus had come: because they listened!

Again today, Christmas brings good tidings . . . of peace on earth . . . good will toward men. Church bells ring . . . children sing carols . . . the Story of Bethlehem is told again.

It means Joy to the world: if we listen!

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Two soil conservation cooperators in northern Minnesota have taken steps to overcome wind erosion on their properties and it has produced good results especially on problem "blow" spots.

The two men, Clem Zabinski of Warren, and Leonard Hapka of Argyle, were troubled by wind erosion on light sandy soil and particularly in isolated trouble spots. Zabinski, who owns a 500 acre farm, found that his trouble centered on summer fallow while on Hapka's 320 acre property the trouble showed up on harvested potato land.

The solution they both came up with was to build a large ditch in the eroding fields. The ridge and the corresponding foot deep ditch gave them good results and halted the advancement of erosion to other fields. The single "blow" spots were also eliminated.

To get to the south 80 acres of his farm, Howard Anderson of Wilona County had to cross a deep ravine by going down a steep grade, cross a waterway, go up another steep grade, and open and close two gates, all on a badly washed road made especially worse after heavy rains. The head of this ravine and waterway was about 30 rods across the line fence in a neighbor's field. While contour strips were laid out on this field several years ago, SCS technician Alex Siebenaler jokingly remarked that these two farmers should trade some land and put the road on the edge of the contour strips. And they did this very thing. Now Anderson has solved a serious erosion problem. He has a good road that does not wash and has eliminated two gates.

After applying 78 acres of contour stripcropping, 2,400 feet of diversion terraces and two acres of grass waterways, Tom Sowada—Stearns County SWCD cooperator, finds that his fields are much easier to farm. Even better is the fact there are no gullies after heavy rains. "I will never go back to up and down hill farming," says Sowada. "It is too bad I didn't practice conservation farming twenty years ago. Then all my best topsoil wouldn't be at the bottom of my hills." Sowada was the winning conservation farmer in the Stearns SWCD for 1963.

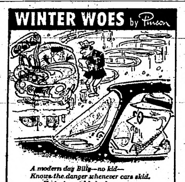
WINTER WOES by Pinson



A modern day Billy—no kid—
Knows the danger whenever cars skid.
He tests out his brakes
And makes no mistakes
Like spin-around, sad Katy did!

PREVENT THOSE WINTER DRIVING WOES

The Safe Winter Driving League presents this safety tip from the National Safety Council for driving on snow or ice: "Know the condition of the road surface. Get the 'feel' of the road by trying your brakes gently when away from other traffic. This tells you how slick the road surface is. Then adjust your speed and driving habits accordingly."

Goodridge School District Considers Expansion Plan

Elementary Addition and New Gym To Be Included in Plan

Construction of a six-room addition to the elementary school and a new gymnasium will likely go before voters in the Goodridge school district on February 13, according to Dr. David M. Brown, superintendent of schools. Cost of the building project is expected to require the issuing of $228,000 in bonds.

Recomendation that a proposal for the contraction be submitted to the voters of the district was made by the Goodridge citizens committee meeting with the board of education Tuesday evening. The proposal will come as a result of the consideration of several alternatives at previous meetings and meetings of representatives of the Goodridge school board with the state department of education, Supt. Brown said.

Additional classrooms are needed to eliminate the use of separate buildings for classrooms and the use of the school lunchroom as a study hall, the committee stated. Additional gymnasium facilities are needed to provide adequate space for physical education in both the elementary and secondary schools as well as a regulation basketball floor and seating space for spectators.

Supt. Brown Comments

"The building program to be considered is one that involves the minimum construction costs and leaves some things until a later date when the money is available," Supt. Brown added. "A basic building, sufficient to meet the needs of all the students in the Goodridge system in the forseeable future will be the result of this program if approved by the voters."

The bonding estimate of $228,000 was made by Myron Denbrook of the firm of Wells, Denbrook and Associates, architect for the school district. Charles B. Howard, school bond attorney from Minneapolis, has been engaged in handeling the legal problems involved in the board election.

Further details on the building and financial situation will be announced at a later date. Information meetings will be held and further details given to the public before an election is held.

Members of the citizens committee meeting with the board Tuesday evening were Bert Johnson, Orlan Hanson, Roy Anderson, Edward Stucy, Raymond Parnow, Mrs. Erling Lundeen, Chester Solberg, Clarence Peterson, Mrs. Harold Anderson and Clarence Peters.

Supt. Brown has stated he would welcome any comments on questions concerning the proposed building program.

Seed & Feed Show Date Set Feb. 7th

Friday, February 7, was set as the date for the Seed and Feed show sponsored annually by the Pennington County Crop Improvement association, according to Silas Hanson, president. The decision was made at a meeting held last week in Thief River Falls.

Included in the show will be four divisions. A crop division will include cleaned samples and bin-run samples of grain and samples of hay and silage. All farmers, 4-H club and FFA members are urged to prepare samples for the show now. New crops will also be exhibited. These include sunflowers, millet, mustard, pinto beans and others.

The association members encouraged expanded production of new crops to give farmers new sources of income. These crops include sunflower and millet for which there is a local market.

The women's division this year will include exhibits of any articles made of at least 50 per cent wool. Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent, and the county homecouncil are preparing classes for entries in this division.

The youth division is under the direction of Peter Probasco, vocational agriculture instructor at Lincoln high school. FFA and 4-H members will have classes on identifying weed plants, weed seeds, diseases, varieties of grain and grain grades. This will be followed by a contest. The three highest scoring individuals will be awarded medals.

The educational program this year will consist of a discussion centering around sheep and crops. Each year a different phase of livestock is emphasized with sheep given the attention this year. Speakers for the program will be announced as soon as confirmations are received.

Seed, feed, fertilizer and chemical firms as well as related agricultural industries will display their products in booths. Banks and loan agencies, county commissioners and the Chamber of Commerce also co-operate with the association in staging the show and program.

Crim wheat is available to area farmers from Otto Rupprecht, route 2; Silas Hanson, route 4; and Engelstad Bros., route 3. This new wheat variety is in short supply and farmers who want seed wheat are asked to contact the above three growers. The three growers are getting orders from outside this area but would prefer local farmers to buy this seed if local people are interested.

Wilson-Tunheim Vows Spoken Here Recently

Marriage vows spoken recently at Community Methodist church of this city united Diane R. Wilson of Thief River Falls and Norman C. Tunheim of Baudette. Miss Wilson is the daughter of the Irvin Wilsons and Mr. Tunheim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell Nelson of rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. Dean Headley and Rev. Robert Votava of Independence, Mo. prompted the vows in an altar setting of baskets of white glads and yellow mums, and floor baskets of white and yellow glads. About 250 guests were in attendance at the double-ring evening service. Mrs. Earl Nicholson of Yorba Linda, Calif., aunt of the bride, presided at the organ for traditional nuptial music and accompanied soloist Paulette Votava in her vocal offering of "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love Thee Truly".

Mr. Wilson gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a chapel-length gown of peau de soie with brocade-detailed skirt and neckline. A tall crown of pearls held the fingertip veil. Her bouquet was a crescent of yellow roses.

Mrs. Gene Gunstenson, Garden Grove, Calif., the bride's aunt, was matron of honor and the bride's sister, Miss Arlene Wilson, was junior bridesmaid. Mrs. Gunstenson wore a satin taffeta sheath dress with brief net overskirt and Miss Wilson's dress was of eggshell color taffeta with full skirt. Headpieces and shoes matched the color of the dresses. Bouquets were of yellow Fuji mums with green accents.

Bob Dahl of Minneapolis was best man. Neil Nelson, the groom's brother, was junior groomsman; ushers were Gerald Alstrup, Roger Wilson, and Rocky Wilson.

The bride's parents gave a reception for 250 guests in the church basement. Hostess was Mrs. Earl Nicholson. Mrs. Andrew Grendahl and Mrs. Robert Votava poured. Mrs Robert Dahl and Mrs. Alan Christenson cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. Cooley Nygaard and Ruth Anseth and Karen Aaseth opened the gifts. Miss Barbara Wilson and Linda Nelson registered the guests. Waitresses were Mrs. Gerald Alstrup and Kathy Hruby, and Mrs. Arlene Brandt and Mrs. Ralph Skay served punch. Guests attending from a distance were from Garden Grove and Yorba Linda, Calif., Independence, Mo.; Velva, Lankin, Devils Lake and Minot, N. D. and Detroit, Mich.

Miss Wilson is a 1962 graduate of Lincoln high school and her husband graduated from Warren high school in 1958. He is an electronics computer technician with the US Air Force at Baudette.

Eagles Auxiliary Holds Yule Party

Eagles Auxiliary staged its annual Christmas party and program in conjunction with the regular meeting held Monday night, December 16 at the club rooms. A 7 o'clock supper preceded the meeting, with all members present contributing an item of Christmas fare.

At the business session, presided over by president Tillie Carlson, numerous plans were made for Christmas giving in the Eagles' tradition. Baskets were planned for several needy families, and it was voted to buy hot lunches for several needy school children for the balance of the school year. Gladys Odegaard and Ella Larson will present to the retarded children, gifts bought with auxiliary funds. It was also decided to send Christmas gifts and clothing to the adopted boy at Home on the Range. "Thank you" letters were read for the Max Baer Heart Fund contributions last year, and for the sponsorship of the adopted boy.

A prize was won by Agnes Israelson. After several drawings, the attendance prize went to Inga Shetler. Members with December birthdays were serenaded with the birthday song.

A hilarious "spoof" on a fashion show was presented by some of the officers, Orpha Ryan, Til Carlson, Teen Berg, Loretta Helle, Edna Pederson, and Dorothy Poolman, with commentary by Dolly Davidson, in a lady-in-waiting costume. Other entertainment was in charge of Dolly Davidson and Teen Berg. Members also exchanged gifts, and a midnight lunch was served.

Hostesses for the January meeting are Teen Berg, Keks Lee, Ben Zachar, and Helen Dahl.

Karen Mortensen Bride of Kenneth A. Peterson

Karen Elizabeth Mortensen, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Mortensen of Saint Paul, formerly of Holt, and of the late Mr. Mortensen, became the bride of Kenneth A. Peterson, November 30. Mr. Peterson is the son of Mrs. Ida Peterson of this city.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt, with Rev. M. Wilson prompting the vows. Ferns and carnations provided altar decorations. There were 250 guests in the attendance. Doreen Moen of Newfolden sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dale Mortensen. Her attire was a full-length gown of white wedding satin with lace-accented square neckline and long fitted sleeves. The full skirt which swept into a chapel train, fell in three tiers edged with lace, and the full pleats centered with a rose and accented with sequins. The cascade bouquet which she carried was of 12 red roses accented with white carnations and greenery.

She was attended by Mrs. Ruben Benitt of Holt, as matron of honor, and Mrs. A. Waterworth of Newfolden and Judy Hagen. They wore short sleeved street-length dresses with waistline pleats and square, low-cut back necklines. Their long gloves and their shoes were red, and each carried three red roses. Flower girl Ann Mortenson of St. Paul was dressed as a miniature bride wearing a white satin street-length dress with silver brocade.

Walter Peterson of Grafton, North Dakota attended his brother as best man, Duane Peterson and Roger Skime both of Thief River Falls, were groomsmen, and Verry Mortensen of Delano, Minnesota, and Ruben Benitt of Holt were ushers.

Mrs. Mortenson chose a turquoise dress with black accessories for the wedding of her daughter, and Mrs. Peterson wore a navy blue dress, also with black accessories. Their corsages were red roses and white carnations.

The reception followed the ceremony and was held in the church parlors and given by the mother of the bride, with 250 guests in attendance, from Grafton, N. D.; St. Paul, Minneapolis, Roseau, Skime and Newfolden, Minnesota. Mrs. D. Peterson attended the guest book, and Mrs. L. Lubitz who baked and decorated the wedding cake also cut and served it. Mrs. W. Peterson was at the coffee service. Catering were the ladies of Circle 2 of the church. Waitresses were Misses LuAnn Lubitz, Judy Lee and Mary Ann Waterworth, Misses M. and V. Holmstrom were at the punch bowl and Miss D. Garthus displayed the gifts.

The newlyweds went to Winnipeg, for their wedding trip, the bride wearing a light blue wool dress. They are at home at 928 North Horace in this city.

Miss Mortenson, a 1963 graduate of Newfolden high school, is a nurses aid at Northwestern Hospital. The groom, who graduated from Roseau high school in 1962, is a student at the area vocational-technical school here.

Holiday Meditations - 1963

Youth is not a time of life; it's a state of mind. It's a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions, a predominance of courage over timidity, of appetite for adventure over life of ease.

Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin but never the soul, worry, doubt, fear and despair bow the head and turn the spirit into dust.

No matter what your age, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the amazement at the stars, the undaunted challenge of events and the unfailing appetite for the future, and the joy of the game of living.

You are as young as your faith, are as old as your doubts, as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear, as young as your hopes.

As long as your heart is young, so you will be. Live every day of your life as tho you expect to live forever.

With the coming of Christmas and the New Year, may we wish you, and yours the best of everything and realization of your fondest hopes.

One Who Tried It Says:

"TOPS Is Tops As Method For Orderly Weight Loss"

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

"You know you should lose some weight." "I know it." "Let's give it a try." "So we tried it—and it didn't work." This commentary from Mrs. Allan Tonder, queen of the local TOPS club for 1963, indicated her problem in trying to follow medical advice for weight reduction before joining the local weight reduction club.

The facts of this story are these: Ten months ago Mrs. Tonder weighed 195 pounds, felt uncomfortable when appearing in public and lacked the will power to adhere strictly to a rigid diet. Today she is within a couple pounds of her goal of 140 pounds, is thrilled to death with her loss of inches and finds it much easier to limit her intake of calories.

What magical ingredient is there in this recipe for success? Basically, it would have to be described as "challenge". As Mrs. Tonder says, "Meeting with a scale every Monday night makes you feel as though you don't dare to gain any weight, and proving to yourself that you can reduce if others can also helps a lot.

It was 10 months ago when Ann received a telephone call. Would you be interested in joining TOPS?" the voice in the receiver asked. TOPS is an abbreviation for a national organization designed to help "Take Off Pounds Sensibly." Mrs. Tonder's answer was an enthusiastic "certainly!"

Moment of Decision

The call may have hit at just the right moment. When Mrs. Tonder observed her birthday anniversary in January, her young daughter Nancy gave her a present. It was a framed paper plaque which stated, 'DIETING is the penalty for exceeding the FEED limit". That was the time I decided I really had to do something about my weight," Mrs. Tonder said.

Eight years ago Mrs. Tonder weighed 135 pounds, and she believes two main things contributed to her gaining 60 pounds during those eight years. "I loved to eat," said Mrs. Tonder, who lives with her husband the their five children on a farm just south of Thief River Falls. "I also think that when the children get older and can do things for themselves and for you, a housewife does not use up the energy she does when children are small."

When Ann joined the TOPS organization last February, she went on a diet of 900 calories per day. On the weekly weigh-in, which is a religiously-followed procedure at all meetings, she showed a gain only four or five times during the past 10 months. "But I never showed a gain two weeks in a row," she proudly claims. "If I showed a gain one week, I concentrated that much harder on reducing the next week."

Manner of Method

Mrs. Tonder said her method of reduction is not necessarily the best for all people. Under the plan she follows, she skips breakfast, has two boiled eggs and one piece of toast for dinner, and steak, lots of cooked or raw vegetables and one slice of toast for supper. "We went out for Thanksgiving dinner, but I no longer have the capacity to eat much," she said.

"I couldn't have done it without the help of my husband and the children," Mrs. Tonder explains of her weight loss. "I would fix supper for the children but I would never eat with them. The temptation to eat potatoes and other foods would be too great. After Al got home from work he would fix my steak. And while the children would like to share their treats with me, they would always say, 'I'd like to give you some, Mom, but remember, you're on a diet'."

Al has been employed by Wilson Bros. in Thief River Falls for 19 years and is an avid sportsman. The children include Kenneth 17, Gregory 16, Bruce 15, Jerry 12, and Nancy 11.

Now nearing her goal of 140 pounds, Mrs. Tonder may try to get back to her 1954 weight of 135 pounds. She will then enter the KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly) program of the local TOPS group and increase her calorie intake to the point where she no longer continues to lose weight.

QUEEN of the local TOPS club for 1963 is Mrs. Allan Tonder who lost 50½ pounds during the 10 months the club has been in operation. Mrs. Tonder, who is 5' 5" tall, weighed in at 195 pounds in February and had reduced to 144½ when she was selected as queen. Her dress size changed from 20½ to size 15 and she accomplished the weight loss in spite of being unable to exercise due to a slipped disc in her back. The top picture was taken when she joined the TOPS club.

Added Difficulty

Making the achievement of losing nearly 55 pounds in 10 months even more noteworthy is the fact that a slipped disc in her back has kept Mrs. Tonder alost physically inactive. She spent 27 days in the hospital and two more months in bed at home, having no opportunity for exercise. The slipped disc happened shortly after she joined the TOPS club.

"I believe exercise is important in weight reduction," she comments. "While it is helpful in taking off pounds, it is probably more important in toning the muscles and reducing inches. One of the best compliments a dieter can receive is to have someone tell her that she looks skinny. I know I'm not skinny, but I am thrilled to death when someone says to." In the past year her dress size has changed from 20½ to 15.

As queen of the local TOPS club, Ann will represent the chapter in competition for queen at the state convention in Minneapolis in February. The queen is selected for total weight loss during the past year.

In addition to her family, Mrs. Tonder thanks Mrs. Victor Kvikstad for her work in the weight reduction program. Mrs. Kvikstad was instrumental in forming the club and served as its first president. Women who may be interested in joining the group are invited to stop at the city auditorium basement meeting room any Monday at about 7:30 p. m.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. PAT CASEY

A choice tidbit offering by way of a Christmas greeting to all readers and fans of Kitchen Karnival, this recipe for a minted walnut confection was supplied us by Mrs. Pat Casey of this city. The Casey's are really partial to this delicacy, our homemaker says.

It is our sincere hope that this, and the other menu-planning ideas featured during the year have aided our housewives by giving fresh, new interest to the family's meals.

May God's blessings be yours during this holy season and throughout the coming year, is our wish. And our sentiment is one of gratitude for your support and cooperation, without which this column could not function. Our best—to the best homemakers in the world!

MINTED WALNUTS

1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
one-third cup water
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
6 regular-sized marshmallows
¾ teaspoon mint extract (peppermint may be substituted)
2½ cups walnut halves

Combine sugar, water, salt, and corn syrup in a saucepan. Cook over moderate heat until it reaches 236 degrees on a candy thermometer or until it forms a soft ball when dropped in very cold water.

Remove from heat. Add marshmallows and flavoring and stir until marshmallows are melted. Add the walnut halves and stir gently until all are evenly coated. Pour into a cooky sheet and separate the walnuts with a fork while still hot. When cooled, store in a covered container. Yield, about four cups.

Cooking is the favorite hobby of today's homemaker. She loves a good game of cards as well, listing penochle as her current favorite, that game having supplanted bridge in the top spot. The family all share a love of fishing; the children were initiated into the sport at an early age. A camping trailer provides shelter when needed, and a base of operations for these fishing trips.

Mrs. Casey is active in St. Bernard's guild and of a church circle and parish study group, and is also a member of the American Legion auxiliary.

Their son Danny (Pat) is in the Navy. His wife and small son (also Danny Pat) will be with him for the holidays. After the first of the year, he will be based in Florida.

Daughter Diane, in civil service in Washington, D. C. will thrill the family by being able to spend Christmas at home. Donna, the youngest of the Caseys, is a freshman at Lincoln high school here, after having attended St. Bernard's school for eight years. . .This is essentially a column for women, but we can't forget to at least mention the breadwinner. He is a bartender at the liquor store.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

A fine line separates a great many things—and librarians are confronted with that imaginary boundary more often than most people would even venture to guess! Libraries are information centers and your library is, of course, no exception. You'll find a little bit about everything and a lot about some things in every such organized community endeavor.

There are many forces which actively govern the choices a librarian must make when it comes to choosing the informative volumes it is her responsibility to select.

One of the forces is, of course, economic; another is space, another is borrowers and yet another, is ethics. The first force speaks for itself; so does the second, in the case of your library particularly, and if you were engaged in serving books to the public, you would understand the it comes to the act of purchasing for their use. The last, and one of the strongest forces, is ethics—in all professions it is an important item.

A librarian who must spend her book-budget wisely might want to fill the shelves with volumes touching on the subject, or subjects, of great interest to her. A wise librarian knows all her borrowers are not interested in exactly the same things she is interested in—but being a wise librarian she is interested in all the subjects the borrowers are interested in—from apples to zebras.

However, being wise, she also knows the limitations of her library and, generally speaking, her borrowers. For example, someone might inquire about a book dealing with medicine or law. It is quite possible the borrowers will be disheartened at the apparent lack of material covering these two subjects. What the borrower does not realize is that "ethics" govern the librarian's choice of material.

A wise librarian is well aware of the fact that she cannot compete with a medical or law library—she cannot compete economically, not when you consider the amount set aside and earmarked "book budget". She cannot compete with these two specialized fields when you consider space, either, if you will realize the amount of room necessary to house the enormous number of volumes available, which pertain to these two subjects.

Your own librarian in particular is aware of both these two—she is also aware that the majority of her borrowers is not interested to any great extent in either of the two fields and she would be acting most unwisely to fill her shelves with bound volumes that would possibly be used only for dust gathering.

Let us suppose that neither money nor space were problems let us suppose a librarian had much of both. Suppose, too, that many of her registered users were interested, for one reason or another, in medicine or law, as laymen and not as professionals. Unless one is schooled in either field, the terminology, the vocabulary and the subject matter are not comprehensible to the average readers. Therefore, misconception of ideas and inability to read and digest the information would be two evils which might lead to disaster. Some people might read the books and try to diagnose their own illness or try to win their own lawsuit either act might provoke a catastrophe.

So a wise librarian, and an ethical one, fills the shelves reserved for law and medical volumes, with books that are slanted toward the layman and dealing with generalities, or slanted at the layman and dealing with a specific subject.

These thoughts, then, are to explain to you, the borrowers, why it is that your library is not a medical or legal library—it is a public library, built and maintained for all the people to use and enjoy. Your head librarian, Miss Frances Shanahan, has the interests of all of you in mind when she purchases books for your use educational, inspirational or entertainment they are for all to enjoy.

Game Wardens Nab 913 in Nov. for Breaking Law

State game wardens made a total of 913 arrests in the month of November, the Minnesota conservation department reported today.

Big game violations resulted in 144 arrests and included 29 arrests for "shining" and 31 for taking deer out of season.

Transporting loaded firearms in a motor vehicle or boat accounted for 305 arrests while transportation of uncased firearms in vehicle or boat accounted for another 233.

Also included in the near-record total for the month were 58 arrests for small game violations, 55 for violation of migratory waterfowl regulations and 14 arrests for illegal trapping.

Red Lake Moose Count under Way

Superior Forest Area Is Also Being Checked

The conservation department announced today that the annual winter aerial moose census is now underway in the Red Lake area and the Superior National Forest.

The U. S. Forest Service, in cooperation with the conservation department, began their moose census in the Superior National Forest area on December 17th.

On the first four 15 square mile plots flown this year, a total of 105 moose were observed. Of this total, 24 were bulls, 47 were cows, 32 calves and 2 classed "unknown". A Department game official said the results indicate that reproduction was very good during the past year in the area censused.

The results of additional aerial surveys planned this winter for the Red Lake and Superior National Forest will show whether this high reproductive rate is representative of Minnesota's moose herd throughout the main range.

Donald Ledin, pilot for the section of game airplane, reported that in addition to sighting 105 moose, 319 deer were also observed on the same four plots.

Roger Lehmann, area game manager from Bemidji, Herman Anderson and Everett Clem, game managers at the Red Lake Wildlife Management Area, were the observers on the Red Lake moose flights.

SPEARING success has also been noted by a number of area fishermen on the rivers in Thief River Falls this winter. Leslie Nelson of rural Thief River Falls is one of the regulars at this sport and connected with this eight-plus pound northern last week. Locating his darkhouse just west of the "Horseshoe" this year, he reports having success every day. The water is clouded but permits enough visibility to make spearing possible.

Newfolden Trims Warroad 66 to 26

Hagenbeck, Strandquist Top Scorers for Nordics

Utilizing a fast-break offense very effectively, and blanketing the Warroad players with a man-to-man defense, coach Frank Kohoutek's Newfolden Nordics rolled over the Warroad Warriors by a 66 to 26 score in a basketball game played on the Newfolden court on Tuesday evening.

The Nordics have a record of three wins and no losses in conference play. Newfolden will participate in the Soo Line Holiday Tournament to be played at Strandquist on January 3 and 4.

In Tuesday night's game against Warroad, the Nordics held an 8 point lead, 14 to 6, at the end of the first period. But in the second period, with their fast break offense functioning smoothly, Newfolden racked up 24 points, with Jerry Strandquist and Verne Hagenbeck pacing the scoring. The Nordics held a commanding 38 to 13 lead at the intermission.

Hagenbeck led the Nordics' scoring with 13 points, with Jerry Strandquist notching 12 points, and Leon Elseth adding 10 points. Dick Temple, scoring all of his points in the second half, scored 10 points to lead the Warroad scoring.

Ice Fishermen Warned Against Leaving Litter

The Minnesota conservation department has issued a warning against littering to ice fishermen and others using the state's frozen lakes this winter.

Specifically, the law forbids depositing trash, garbage, rubbish or other litter in any lake, stream, river or any body of public water, or on the ice thereof, or on adjacent lands.

Anyone violating the provisions of this law is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The Department's warning pointed out that in addition to being a violation of the law and calling for a fine, littering also causes ill feeling between fishermen and lakeshore property owners.

The problem has been especially severe in the Twin Cities metropolitan area during recent years.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS, BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINN.

December 3, 1963

Pursuant to adjournment the County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' room in the Court House at 10:00 A. M., December 3, 1963.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Almquist, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

The minutes of the meeting of November 5th were read and approved as read.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Almquist that the Auditor be authorized to transfer Ditch Maintenance Funds to the Road & Bridge Fund to reimburse the Highway Department for services and materials expended in the year 1963, the details of which appear on page 168 of the Auditor's Journal. Motion carried.

Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED: That the sum of $9,765.00 be set apart from the General Revenue Fund and appropriated subject to the order of the Dean of the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota for the support of County Extension work in agriculture and home economics in Pennington County, for the year beginning January 1, 1964, in accordance with Chapter 203, Laws 1953 and acts supplementary thereto.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Lindberg and declared carried.

A letter expressing appreciation for the support of the organization was read from Secretary Jon Metusalem of the Pennington County Fair Association.

Commissioner Almquist introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The 1963 Legislature has recognized the need for expanded facilities for higher education by the establishment of a Junior College System throughout the State of Minnesota, and

WHEREAS, Statistics indicate that this rural area of the State has fallen behind the rest of the State in the educational level because of the lack of facilities for higher education, and

WHEREAS, The advantages of and support for better facilities for higher education in the Thief River Falls area have been proven by the success of the Area Vocational-Technical School in the increased enrollment and success of students placed in industry, and

WHEREAS, The apparent central location of the City of Thief River Falls with well developed service facilities available in this rural area presents an ideal location outside the zone of influence of any presently existing school of higher learning, and

WHEREAS, The Pennington County Board, as a tax levying unit is concerned about the ever mounting tax bills and feel that the Junior College trend can justify education costs, both to the parent and to the taxpayer, and give more people access to a better facility for education,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County respectfully urge the Junior College Board of the State of Minnesota to establish a State operated Junior College in Thief River Falls at the earliest practicable time.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Lindberg and unanimously carried.

Application for abatement and reduction of valuation of Real Estate was approved for the Northern Woodwork after application had been tabled and referred to the Department of Taxation for consideration. Subject to final approval of Commissioner of Taxation.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Merry Christmas everyone! I hope this holiday season finds you in fine spirits. Have a happy and blessed holiday season.

Having candles at Christmas time, you may have had accidents with candle wax. To remove candle wax from washable fabrics, scrape off the excess wax. Place the stained portion on a blotter and press with a hot iron. Sponge the spot with carbon tetrachloride.

Perhaps as a homemaker you sometimes get discouraged when you compare your role with friends who are earning attractive salaries. A homemaker's pay comes in estimating how much it would cost to hire help for the tasks she performs so skillfully and well. But her rewards come in other ways, too. They come in the satisfaction of maintaining a pleasant home for her family, and in the contribution she herself makes to the family's growth and development.

You might be interested in noting that the word "cooky" comes from the Dutch word "koekje", meaning little cake. That's just what the first cookies were — small portions of cake batter used to test oven heat before the cake itself went in for baking.

When doing your Chrismas baking, you may be using pre-sifted flour. When using this pre-sifted flour, spoon it directly from its container to a dry measuring cup. Level it off; than remove two level tablespoons. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, this method of measuring yields a weight of flour nearly equal to that of sifted flour. You may find it desirable to sift the flour when other dry ingredients are called for to assure uniform blending.

Ada Defeats Prowler Quint Friday 70 to 61

Coach Dennis Anderson's Ada Vikings continued their early-season unbeaten streak by scoring a convincing 70 to 61 win over the Prowler cagers in an inter-district basketball game played here Friday night.

Coach Jack Junker's Prowlers, with a two wins and two losses record, will take a two-game trip to the Twin Cities area next week. On Friday, Dec. 27, the Prowlers will play Stillwater at Stillwater; and on Saturday, Dec. 28, the locals will move over to North St. Paul for a game. Both games are slated to start at 7:30 p. m.

In Friday night's game here, the Ada Vikings, showing strong rebounding and with center Dave Cirks exhibiting a fine touch around the basket, romped away to a 21 to 9 first period lead, and a 42 to 21 advantage at the intermission.

Ada, shooting for the east basket, took a 9 to 0 lead in the first four minutes of the game, with Cirks scoring a pair of field goals, and Jay McNamar and Randy Granberg each scoring a field goal, and Greg Parsons notching a free throw. Mark Steen's free throw, with 3:46 to play, was the first Prowler point tallied on the score-board.

Cirks, who finished the first period of play with five field goals, continued his adept shooting in the second period, adding five more field goals as the Vikings took a commanding 42 to 21 lead.

The Prowlers played the Vikings on near-even terms in the third period, being outpointed by a 20 to 17 margin. And in the fourth period, with numerous Ada reserves in the game, the Prowlers, with Rich Nelson and Tommy Cummings providing the scoring spark, outscored the Vikings, 23 to 8, to narrow the game-winning margin to nine points, 70 to 61.

Cirks, who did see action in the fourth period, gained the game's high point honors, tossing in thirteen field goals for 26 points.

For the Prowlers, center Bob Olson, with 18 points, guard Mark Steen, who played a strong game for the locals, with 17 points, and Nelson, who tallied nine points in the fourth period for a 16-point effort, proved the top scorers for coach Junker's squad.

Oscar's Best Team

Oscar Almquist, who is starting his 29th year as a state high school hockey coach, has an interesting article in the December issue of the "Prep Coach". Oscar, one of a number of star goalies produced by Eveleth, and in his college days an All-American goalie at St. Mary's college, comments on the number of top-flight teams that he has coached and developed.

Says Oscar "In my 28 years of coaching I have had the honor and the privilege to associate with many fine boys and many teams, but if I had to point to one team in particular it would have to be Roseau's 1959 state championship hockey team. This team was comprised of boys of the highest caliber, not only as hockey players but also in the classroom and among their classmates. They were very active in community and church affairs."

And the Roseau Rams team that Oscar lauds so highly merits this praise. This was the team that had Jim Stordahl at center, Don Ross and Larry Stordahl at the wings, Keith Brandt and Dale Olson on defense, and Dick Roth as goalie. Coach Almquist's second line that season had Doug Vacura at center with Earl Johnson and Vern Olson at the wings. The second line defense was manned by Ken Rygh and Eroll Johnson. During most of the season the Rams utilized three forward lines, and the Roseau third line had John Wahlberg at center and Darryl Heller and Duane Espe at the wings.

And indication of the strength of this Roseau club can be judged by the fact that five of the players—goalie Dick Roth, forwards Jim and Larry Stordahl and Don Ross, and defenseman Dale Olson, gained all-state tournament honors. And it was an injustice when Keith Brandt was not named, as this boy had gained all-state tournament honors the previous season.

Oscar's proud that the 1959 team provided a number of college players. Jim and Larry Stordahl played with the Minnesota Gopher; Don Ross, now a member of the United States Olympic team, is at North Dakota; and Dale Olson is on the North Dakota U freshman squad.

Plenty of Senior Basketball

Plans are being completed, or have been completed, for the formation of couple of senior basketball leagues in this area. One league, with teams from Viking, Newfolden, Greenbush, Middle River, Roseau, Warroad, and Karlstad, is already in action.

Another league, with teams from Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, and a couple other teams, is being formed.

I hope that these senior basketball loops are successful, for they would provide plenty of exercise and entertainment for the many, many fomer high school basketball players that are in the area. But the one problem that required solution, and upon which much of the success of the senior basketball will depend, is the securing of capable officials. This is a must. I have watched a number of attempts at forming a successful senior basketball, and one of the chief reasons why these attempts have failed is due to the lack of qualified officials. Senior basketball has a tendency to become a "contact" sport, and strict calling is needed to keep the boys "in bounds".

The Prowlers' Best?

While Oscar Almquist rates his 1959 Roseau hockey club as his best, there are some interesting arguments about the "best" hockey team that the Prowlers have produced.

It is pretty much agreed that the strongest squads to represent the blue-and-gold on ice were the state championsof 1954 and 1956, and the state tournament runners-up of 1945. There are many that contend, and I'm one, that the 1954 team, coached by Dennis Rolle, was the finest all-round and well-balanced squad that the Prowler hockey has produced.

The 1954 team, in winning the state title by defeating the Eveleth Golden Bears in the tournament finals, 4 to 1, posted a season's record of twenty wins and no losses. The state championship team of 1956 could not boast an undefeated record as this team, in a game against the St. Paul Johnson team, which was played on the Arena rink, dropped a 3 to 1 decision to coach Rube Gustafson's Governors. That was the lone loss on the record and the team, coached by Rolle, went on to mark up a 19 wins and one loss mark.

The 1954 Squad

But to return to that 1954 squad. This club had a pair of forward lines of about equal scoring potential. One line had Marv Jorde at center with Lyle Guttu and Sid Vraa at the wings. The other line was centered by Joey Poole, and had Bob Helgeland and Darryl Durgin at the wings. At the blue line were such boys as Mike McMahon, Les Sabo, and Jim Zavoral. And in the nets was Jack Hoppe, an all-state tournament selection. Jorde, Poole, and McMahon also gained all-state honors that season.

Perhaps the most colorful team to wear Prowler hockey togs was the 1945 club. This team, which dropped a 4 to 3 decision to Eveleth in the first state high school tournament, had such players as Bob Baker, Jim Doyle, Wes Hovie, Les Vigness, Bud Brossolt, Swede Lund, Don Hage, Sonny Johnson, Jim Welch, Al Thompson, and Ralph Engelstad on the roster. And of this group, big Bob Baker, with his stick-handling wizardry, and strong skating, was the standout performer. I know that Bob gave the fans in attendance at that Eveleth vs. Prowlers finals game, many thrilling moments as he made his rushes down the ice.

Ada 'B' Quintet Tips Locals 68-39

Tom Cummings Scores 18 Points for Prowler 'B's

Coach Wallace Pearson's Ada 'B' squad cagers, with forward Dough Hanson accounting for 22 points, scored a 68 to 39 win over the Prowler 'B' squad in a preliminary game played here Friday night.

Except for Tommy Cummings, who scored seven field goals and four free throws for an 18-point effort, and Carl Poppenhagen, who scored 10 points, the Ada 'B' squad held the locals in check. And it was a 25-point third-period splurge that moved the Ada B's away from coach Bob Gaarder's squad, with Ada gaining a 50 to 29 lead at the end of the third period.

Municipalities Face Legal Immunity Loss

Minnesota's municipalities will find themselves in a new possibly uncomfortable legal situation after January 1, according to an associated press story.

On that date cities and villages loose the immunity from certain kinds of damage suits which they have long enjoyed.

Orville C. Peterson, executive secretary of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, said today the effect of the change is difficult to assess at this time.

"There is some fear that elimination of immunity may generate a great number of damage suits and cause a sharp rise in liability insurance rates," he said, "but we won't know without some experience."

Peterson believes a substantial number of cities now carry insurance to protect themselves against damage suits.

The new situation grows out of a supreme Court decision about a year ago in which the court said there was no sound basis for municipal immunity, which arose from the ancient doctrine — "The king can do no wrong."

The court indicated it expected the legislature to deal with the problem and the 1963 session enacted laws to soften the blow of the loss of immunity.

The new law limits the recovery in a claim against a city for death by wrongful act to $25,000 and set a limit of $50,000 on the recovery in a suit for damages for injuries arising out of the negligence of a city or its employes. The maximum recovery in such a suit, where a number of persons is involved, is $300,000.

The law also requires a notice of such a damage suit within 30 days after the occurrence on which it is based and authorized municipalities to buy liability insurance.

Counties also lose their traditional immunity on January 1, but school districts, under the terms of the 1963 law, will continue to enjoy immunity until 1968.

Recognizing that the 1963 enactment may not have solved all problems, the legislature set up an interim committee to study the matter and make recommendations to the 1965 legislature.

Municipalities have in the past been liable for damages caused by defects in streets and negligence in maintenance of streets. They also have been with their proprietary functions such as operation of water and light plants and municipal liquor stores.

Liability now will be extended to injuries arising out of police and fire functions and operation of parks, golf courses and other recreational facilities. Peterson said the recreational area was one which might be expected to produce a considerable number of damage suits.

PEACE ON THE EARTH?

By Flora Allison

What startling contradictions the Christmas season brings:
Snow and trees and tinsel, and other wordly things. . .
Gifts and feasts and frolic . . everything the best. . .
(And memories of the Heavenly Infant with no place to rest!)

Laughter, friends, and family around the festive boards
(And the crushing pangs of hunger that stalk the homeless hordes!)

Carols sung in rich-robed splendor, 'mid flickering candle-light. . .
(And refugees' lone sighing in the cold and bitter night!)
"Peace" the message of the hour. . while hate spreads far and wide,
With bitterness so rampant, and prejudice, and pride.

Yet, for just one hallowed hour, let strife be muted
And His peace filter through the storm again
That, through discordant din the angels' message
Might reach within, and touch the hearts of men!

'Syrian Yankee' to Lecture Here

Salom Rizk to Speak at High School January 10

Salom Rizk, "The Syrian Yankee" will be in Thief River Falls Friday, Jan. 10, at 2:00 o'clock to present his famous lecture, "America is More Than a Country." Rizk is the author of the book, "The Syrian Yankee," and a veteran of many years of lectures for Americans of all ages. He will speak in the Lincoln school auditorium to senior high school students.

The speaker was an American citizen from his birth, but he learned the wonder of his citizenship as an orphan outside the school at Ain Arab, a tiny Syrian village. His parents had come to America and then his mother had returned to Syria for a visit. Rizk was born there, but his mother died. Then the First World War stranded him with his grandmother in the hills of Syria.

The experiences Rizk had getting to his homeland, America, and becoming a full fledged citizen were the subject for his book.

Rizk's appearance here is one of the lectures in an extensive Upper Midwest tour arranged for him this season by the University of Minnesota Program Service.

Any disabled person who is not eligible to receive this equipment from an existing state or federal program may receive equipment from the society.

Requests for additional information about the loan equipment program can be made directly to the Minnesota Society for Crippled children and adults, Inc. 2004 Lyndale Avenue South, Minneapolis 5, Minnesota.

Inevitable Process?

Reports indicate that so-called Socialists, who actually are indistinguishable from Communists, are making headway in Italy and France. Both countries are confronted with "austerity programs" as a necessary curb on inflation. The "leftists" there, as in our country, are opposed to commonsense measures required to maintain economic stability. Not all of them, but many of the leftists both here and there, are hopeful that we will have an economic collapse that will enable them to seize control of the government and establish a Communist dictatorship.

In our country too many units of our government, at all levels, have had poor management over a period of years. This has been true for our federal government and all the way down through our states to the various local units. There are some notable exceptions but they are in the minority. The federal government, over a period of many years, has encouraged the profligate approach, which has burdened us with a huge national debt and a dollar of greatly decreased value.

The downward slide has been popular because it has been pleasant. In the management of our own affairs, most of us recognize the folly of going into debt in order that we may enjoy the pleasures of life. We know, many of us from personal experience, that going into debt for things that we cannot afford, leads inevitably to periods of sacrifice and, perhaps hardship.

Nationally that inevitable period of hardship is ahead of us. We will pay for our folly, and in the paying, most of those who suffer will pay, not because of their folly, but because of ours.

And getting back to the start of this particular discussion, the danger period we should be worried about is the depression that inevitably is there on the other side of the peak. And the higher we build the peak the more difficult will be the depression and the readjustment back to good management, which will require an unpeasant period of austerity.

That will be the time when the leftists will strike, not by bombs or bullets, but by ballots. Because of the apathy of the people who now should be concerned, another noble experiment in democracy will have failed and the survivers will proceed, as survivors have proceeded through many periods of history, from slavery to freedom and back to slavery again.

Two Crimes

The nation is gradually recovering the emotional stability which wavered dangerously and understandably following the Dallas tragedy. Now that we can start reviewing the facts calmly, there are some things that probably deserve public consideration.

The city of Dallas, we are sure, is a good city, and its citizens are good Americans. It is unfortunate therefore that The Voice Of America, the radio program that speaks for us officially in some areas of the world, told its listeners that Dallas is "the center of the extreme right wing." This report, presumably speaking officially for our government, implied that the murder of President Kennedy was in fact a carefully planned conspiracy of right-wing reactionaries. The manner in which this news was handled by a federal agency brought the following angry criticism from the New York Times, a liberal newspaper of good reputation:

> "Hence, there is no merit in the implication of some of the orators that Mr. Kennedy's murder should be related to the area where it occurred because of the intensity there of the controversy over his policies.
> "This implication especially lacks merit by reason of the only facts known about the only suspect, Oswald. He was a Marxist; at least a sympathizer with the religion of communism; he emigrated to and married in the Soviet Union; and was trying to return.
> "This is certainly not the dossier of the 'right-wing extremist,' a stigmatic label of Dallas which some members of the administration are too prone to affix.
> "That inclination was revealed by the Voice of America Broadcast at 1:59 p. m. last Friday of the ghastly tragedy in the city. 'Dallas,' the VOA explained to the world, 'is the center of the extreme right wing.'
> "This gratuitous, and as it proved, false suggestion that such was the affiliation of the assassin was deleted from the broadcast at 2:10 p. m. but it was grist to Moscow's mill which has been grinding it ever since."

The value of the Voice Of America as a propaganda agency of our government has never impressed us favorably. We have listened to its broadcasts at the receiving end and noted the reaction of the people it was supposed to influence. It probably would be, in the best interests of international understanding, if its service were permanently discontinued.

The Dallas tragedy, resulting in three deaths, was not good for us in our international relations. It did not build up respect for our government at the local levels.

But in contrast to this admitted error, let's give the Federal Bureau of Investigation a pat on the back for the job it did in solving a kidnapping crime that attracted international interest. The good work of this agency in handling this crime helped a little, we are sure, in restoring the confidence of our neighbors in our ability to manage our own affairs.

A Nation of Weaklings?

The New York Times says the administration is "talking a better game on agriculture than it is pursuing." It refers to a letter written by the President, and read by Senator Hubert Humphrey at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in which President Johnson suggested:

> "The Government's farm programs should place more reliance on the "pricing mechanism of the free market," which would lessen the need both for controls over production and for artificial pricing through expensive subsidies. Mr. Humphrey himself recommended the formation of a "blue ribbon, bipartisan committee," composed of economists, agronomists, bankers and other experts, to examine the problems confronting farmers and come up with feasible plans designed to meet the President's objectives.
> "Despite this promise of a fresh and constructive approach on agricultural policy, the Administration is already reverting to the discredited practice of increasing its support program. It has given its backing to a new cotton bill that calls for a new subsidy to add to the ones already provided to growers and exporters. Furthermore, it is urging the passage of a new wheat bill that would provide high price supports to farmers without any real assurance of a cutback in production."

Our problem crops are mainly those that are subsidized and there is justification for a suspicion that they are problem crops because of the federal farm program. The record in cotton is scandalous, and the government's wheat program encouraged the growing of wheat in areas of the country that never did grow wheat.

Most of the products of our farms are marketed without the benefit of federal price supports. Natural price fluctuations encourage or discourage production without an army of inspectors measuring acreage throughout the nation.

Maybe it would be a good idea to turn the problems of agriculture back to the farmers and their farmer-controlled organizations. In several segments of agriculture the producers have done an excellent job in production and marketing control through their own efforts.

We are satisfied that our national economy would be much healthier if all government subsidies would be gradually eliminated, and American industry and labor, along with agriculture, would be forced to solve their own problems in their efforts to survive. We are becoming a nation of weaklings.

Inside The Jobless Figures

(Red Wing Republican Eagle)

Unemployment can reflect the desire to work but inability to find a job. It can also reflect the ability to work but lack of great desire for a job.

Present employment surveys by the Department of Labor don't show the difference.

The average unemployment rate is 4.8 per cent. (Actual rate. Seasonal rate is 5.6 per cent.) That is for all jobless. Teenaged boys have a 13.1 per cent rate; teenaged girls 12.7 per cent. Married women have a 6.4 per cent rate. Single men over 20 have an 8.8 per cent rate.

It is possible that some teen-agers, though seeking work, show no great desire for it because they are living at home with their parents. It is possible that some married women are very choosy about the type of work they will accept so long as their husbands are supporting them.

These surmises are suggested by the fact that among the group clearly with the greatest incentive to work, married men not separated from their wives, the unemployment rate is 2.3 per cent, less than half the average.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"Our motives in doing good are seldom as pure as we imagine them to be. Love of power is insidious and is often the source of the pleasure we derive from doing what we believe to be good to others."

—Bertrand Russell

Examples we see daily enable the pessimist to ask if the chasm between animal and man is as deep as we thought. The answer is we are still at the dawn of human evolution.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR CHILDREN. How many times have we heard this statement made at this time of year? As far as that goes, how many of us have said the same thing ourselves? In actuality, much of the holiday festivity centers around the children in our homes.

Christmas certainly is for children. It is a time for them to learn the story of the coming of Christ. It is a time for them to learn the joy of giving. It is a time for them to learn that Christmas is deeper than the wrapping on gifts, brighter than tinsel and warmer than the hearth.

Christmas certainly is for children. We become more aware every day that we work, and plan, and hope and pray for the lives and future of our children. We enjoy watching them at Christmas time as they enter into the pre-Christmas preparations, as they anxiously await Christmas eve and Christmas morning and as they prepare for and participate in school and church programs.

Christmas certainly is for children—but not only for children. Familiar words of the Christmas story told in the Bible repeat, "Unto YOU a Child is born; unto YOU a Son is given. . ." Had God intended that His Son was to be born for children only, His angels certainly would not have included all of mankind in their glorious proclamation.

With this in mind let us make this Christmas season more than just another holiday. Let us remember the reason for Christmas and take time to observe the coming of Christ. May your Christmas be blessed and filled with the spirit of the season.

"Stretch" draped his six-foot, eight-inch frame over a chair in the coach's office and drew a card from his pocket, placing it on the coach's desk. 'Gee, coach, what am I gonna do?", he asked. With furrowed brow the coach studied the report card. "Well, it says you got a D and three F's," he said. "Looks to me, Stretch, like you've been putting in too much time on one subject."

"Thank you, sir," the long-winded speaker said, "for staying to listen to me when everyone else walked out." "Don't thank me," the other replied, "I'm the next speaker."

SPECIAL NOTE TO HUSBANDS: The only time the little woman likes to be taken lightly is when she steps on the bathroom scale.

Consider these words of a noted orator: "Politicians have strained their ingenuity to discover new sources of public revenue. They have doubled the indirect taxes, such as customs due on imports and exports. They have continued the extraordinary taxes of wartime, and peacetime. They broadened perilously the field of the income tax as well as the property tax.

"One of the wisest says, 'When I was a boy, wealth was regarded as secure and admirable—but now a man has to defend himself against being rich as if it were the worst of crimes.'

"Athletics have become professionalized. Young citizens who once thronged the playgrounds and the gymnasiums now exert themselves vicariously by witnessing professional exhibitions.

"Philosophy has struggled to find in civic loyalty or in a national ethic some substitute for the divine commandments and the surveillance of God."

There is much modern truth in these statements made in Athens, Greece, in 363 B. C. by Socrates.

On the holy night, the Christ child was born to an unknown carpenter and his wife in Bethlehem.

No palace physician attended the Prince of Peace — perhaps a mid-wife or a serving maid.

No fine linens were prepared for the mother; no crib for the Babe — just the straw and the manger were theirs.

No royal salute was fired to announce His arrival — only the braying of the animals in their stalls was heard.

Never was royalty greeted with less pomp and circumstance.

Why? Because man could not raise himself to God!

So God sent His Son to light up our hearts and minds with His Divine Presence.

His living Spirit brightened the most ordinary and commonplace tasks of the day.

If He could so hallow that stable, can He not hallow our homes, our places of work, the whole of our lives?

Of course! Consider again and again the miracle of His birth. Be in church on Christmas to welcome anew the Christ child in your heart.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

"There is something in the very season of the year that gives a charm to the festivity of Christmas. At other times we derive a great deal of our pleasure from the mere beauties of nature. Our feelings sally forth and dissipate themselves over the sunny landscape, and we live abroad and everywhere.

But in the depth of winter, when nature is despoiled of every charm and wrapped in her shroud of sheeted snow, we turn for our gratifications to moral sources. The dreariness and desolation of our landscape, the short gloomy days and darksome nights, while they circumscribe our wandering, shut in our feeling also from rambling abroad, and make us more keenly disposed for the pleasures of the social circle.

"Our thoughts are more concentrated, our friendly sympathies more aroused. We feel more sensibly the charm of each other's society, and are brought more closely together by dependence on each other for enjoyment. Heart calleth unto heart, and we draw our pleasures from the deep wells of living kindness which lie in the quiet recesses of our bosom and which, when resorted to, furnish forth the pure element of felicity.

"It is indeed the season of regenerated feeling for kindling not merely the fire of hospitality in the hall, but the genial flame of charity in the heart. The scene of early love agains rises green to the memory beyond the sterile waste of years, and the idea of home, fraught with the fragrance of home-dwelling joys, reanimates the spirit—as the Arabaian breeze will sometimes waft the freshness of distant field to the weary pilgrim of the desert.

CLEAN-OUT work on the Mud river east of Agassiz National Wildlife refuge was completed on December 21, according to Herb Dill, refuge manager. The dragline doing the cleaning is shown in the above photo. More than seven miles of the old channel was cleaned with the project financed by Accelerated Public Works funds in cooperation with the Minnesota department of conservation. The channel will improve the water supply to the refuge and will also greatly improve water management in that general area, Dill stated.

Propose Change In Flax Varieties

A new race of flax rust discovered in Canada in 1962 and in North Dakota in 1963 had led to a change in flax varietal recommendations by the university of Minnesota Agricultural experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension service.

The new recommendation is that Arny, Marine, Marine 62, Cree and other varieties susceptible to race 300 of flax rust not be planted in 1964. Those which are recommended include Windowm, B5128, Bolley and Redwood—all resistant to the new race, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

Arny and Marine 62 together have accounted for half or more of the state's flax crop in the last two years.

While race 300 has not been seen in Minnesota, University agronomists and plant pathologists strongly recommend against growing any susceptible variety in 1964. The result might be serious economic losses and breeding of new races which could attack varieties resistant to race 300 itself.

Resistance of a crop to a rust diseases depends upon the genetic makeup of the variety. In flax varieties grown in Minnesota in recent years, two genes have provided resistance to rust. Plant breeders refer to them as the "L" gene and the "N" gene.

The "L" gene has been an excellent source of flax rust immunity for over 50 years, but it provides no defense whatsoever against the new race 300 of flax rust. Varieties dependent upon the "L" gene for immunity include Arny, Marine 62, Marine, Raja, Sheyenne and Cree. None of these is safe to plant any more.

In the varieties Windom, B5128, Bolley and Redwod, immunity to rust is controlled by the "N" gene. These varieties are still immune to race 300, have other good performance factors and are therefore the ones to plant.

Losing Arny as a recommended variety also means, unfortunately, losing the best source of resistance to pasmo disease. Plant pathologists and breeders working with flax say rust is potentially much more serious than pasmo.

The plant breeders and plant pathologists give the following three main reasons for planting only rust immune varieties.

1. Raising susceptible varieties would aid the build-up and spread of race 300, which can cause serious economic losses.

2. A large population of rust, which might occur with susceptible varieties, would increase the chance for rust hyrbridization and mutation. The results could be new races which would attack presently immune varieties. Unlike cereal rust, flax does not require an alternate host for overwintering and completion of the sexual stages of th life cycle.

3. If any races of flax rust did develop, they could be expecially serious, since immune varieties now available all carry the same "N" gene for immunity. If a new race were to develop which the "N" gene wouldn't stop, there would be no source of immunity in varieties adapted to this state.

FFA Foundation to Meet Friday

The tenth annual meeting of the donors to the Minnesota Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc., will be held Friday afternoon, December 27, at the St. Paul campus student center. Directors will be named and officers will be elected. One-hundred and sixty-eight donors contributed to the Foundation during its tenth year of operation.

Activities financed by the Foundation include regional farm proficiency awards, recognizing FFA boys excelling in parliamentary procedure, public speaking, safety, cow clipping, farm improvement projects, farm management, dairy enterprises, soil and water management. The Minnesota FFA Foundation was established in December, 1953, to provide business, industrial, civic, farm and service organizations and individuals in Minnesota with an opportunity to cooperate in furthering the programs of Future Farmers of America and vocational agriculture in public secondary schools.

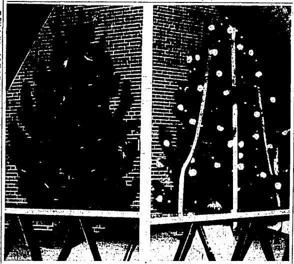
Babson Forecast Sees 1964 As A Good Year



SYMBOLIC Christmas trees, much the same as original church trees used in France between 1250 and 1300, were erected this year at St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. At left is the "Tree of Death"—decorated with 33 apples representing the length of time Jesus lived on earth and wound with a red ribbon with a red covering at the base. At right is the "Tree of Life"—decorated in white and symbolic of the Biblical promise," . . . though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow." Included in the decorations are 33 white lights, three white satin streamers, 33 pink roses and a five-pointed white star. "All of our present Christmas trees have evolved (or degenerated) from the simple decorations described above," stated Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor of the congregation. "The apples and roses have become balls and bells; multi-colored lights have replaced the white lights; and icicles and tinsel ropes have replaced the red and white streamers."

Following is the copyrighted business and financial forecast for 1964 prepared by Roger W. Babson, famed economist and head of the Publishers Financial Bureau of Babson Park, Mass.

I am still emotionally upset as I make this forecast after the brutal assassination of President Kennedy. I, however, will try to submerge my emotions and base this forecast of 1964 on the facts as I interpret them.

1. Our New President. I state emphatically that President Johnson may accomplish far more constructively before November 1964 than our late President would have been able to do. President Johnson understands better how to handle Congress, and has the confidence of businessmen. Therefore, I am reassured as to the first ten months of 1964.

2. Election in November. At the Republican Convention in the summer of 1964, there will be a conflict between Goldwater and Rockefeller, and perhaps others. For this reason, Mr. Nixon may slip in and get the Republican nomination. Certainly President Johnson will secure the nomination of the Democratic Party; he is a farsighted man, and knows politics. Therefore, with the Republicans nominating any one of the three leading names mentioned above, I now forecast that President Johnson will be elected President of the United Sates in November 1964. All of this gives me more assurance that 1964 should be a good year.

3. Tax Cut. A tax cut will be enacted sometime during the coming session of Congress; and it will surely be made retroactive to January 1, 1964. The tax cut should help consumer buying; it may even increase general business.

4. Civil Rights. Some sort of a civil-rights bill will be passed by Congress during 1964. The Administration wants to please the South and hold its Democratic votes there, but the civil-rights bill now before Congress is not satisfactory to the white people of the North. Therefore, I forecast that whatever civil-rights bill is passed before the election of 1964 will be considerably watered down.

5. Negro People. The Negroes will continue to make progress and get more, but I predict that the gains will have to come largely through changing attitudes of the people. Otherwise, the situation will be much like the prohibition problem which the good people of the nation thought could be solved by legislation. Such reforms take place only as the minds and hearts of the people are changed for the better.

6. Government Spending. Of course, in the long run, the survival of a nation should depend upon its spending less than it takes in. Nowadays, however, it is unfashionable—for consumers or government—to have balanced budgets. Therefore, I predict that 1964 will see a bigger deficit than this year's.

7. Depression. Whether for better or for worse, the voters have been taught to believe they can and should get something for nothing, and only a severe depression could ultimately change this belief. I, however, look for no depression in 1964.

8. Agricultural Outlook. Although crops, prices, and farm income may be basically dependent on the weather, much of the world is short of food. Russia's and China's heavy purchases of grains will do more to bolster U. S. farm in-

Five from County To Attend Leader Institute in Jan.

Session at NW School Aimed at Improving 4-H Leaders in Local Clubs

Five adult leaders from Pennington county 4-H clubs will attend the 4-H leader's institute to be held Wednesday, January 8, at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. They will accompany Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent.

Attending the institute will be Donovan Bruggeman, Harland Knutson, Mrs. Silas Hanson, Mrs. Bert Kron and Mrs. Leonard Mellin. The role of project and junior leaders and of the county extension agents in working with leaders will be the principal topics for discussion.

The Crookston session is one of 10 such sessions being held in Minnesota. Claudia Woker and Marion Larson, assistant state 4-H club leaders at the University of Minnesota will conduct the Crookston Institute.

Leaders attending the meeting will present material obtained to the adult and junior leaders in Pennington county at the leaders council meeting on January 14.

"Purpose of the institute is to improve the performance of leaders in the local 4-H club, thus increasing the effectiveness of the local club program," Miss Offerdahl said. "Approximately 11,000 adults in Minnesota volunteer their services to local clubs, giving in time alone what amounts to a total of 16 or more days a year to club activities."

Without $1 Penalty

License Deadline To Be January 10

Only 13 shopping days remain for motorists to purchase their 1964 motor vehicle license tabs and plates without penalty, according to Mrs. Marjorie Hanson, deputy registrar of mtor vehicles in Thief River Falls. A penalty of $1 will be added to the license fee on January 11.

On January 21 the penalty increases to $2 and on February 1 reaches a maximum of $2.50. Located at 101 E. Second st., the motor vehicle office is open at usual hours Monday through Friday and will remain open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday. This is being done to enable the motoring public otherwise engaged during the week to obtain their tabs.

Mrs. Hanson commented on the expected last-minute rush to obtain tabs and plates. About 4,000 of the expected 8,500 re-registrations for 1964 have been made, leaving about half of the total to be processed in the next 13 days. The license sale opened November 15. New plates are being issued for all trucks and trailers this year.

Truck owners, who for specific reasons require a change of class of registration, are reminded that they must present a weight ticket showing the unloaded weight of the vehicle plus the 1962 license plates with 1963 tabs that have been attached to the vehicle.

An example of this would be a farmer, being eligible for a "T" plate, who may have purchased a commerical licensed "Y" truck, or an opposite situation where a commercial user would not be eligible for a farm "T" plate.

Truck owners desiring to select a gross weight different from the previous year will use about the same procedure as last year, but in some cases a weight ticket of the unloaded vehicle will not be necessary. It is advised that the truck owner present his registration cards and cab cards in addition to the IBM application cards.

Mobile home owners are reminded that a penalty of eight per cent of the personal property tax on the trailer will go into effect on January 11.

Co. Engineers Urged to Upgrade Highways

Minnesota Highway Commissioner James C. Marshall urges Minnesota's county highway engineers to build the best roads possible with existing funds, even if it means improving fewer miles of county highways.

Speaking at the 19th annual county highway engineer's institute held Dec. 9-12 at the University of Minnesota Center for Continuation Study, Marshall urged the counties to build fewer roads of a 5 or 6-ton axle load capacity and more of the 7 and 9-ton roads.

In early 1962, the Minnesota highway department embarked on a construction program aimed at upgrading state roads in order to eliminate, in the forseeable future, the necessity of applying springtime axle load restrictions on thousands of miles of trunk highways to a 9-ton capacity whenever possible or at least to a 7-ton. In the case of upgrading routes to 7-ton, the construction would also prepare the route for future upgrading to 9-ton capacity with the construction of an additional surfacing course at a minimum cost.

In his talk, Marshall cited the good work the counties have done and are doing to improve the county state aid highway system. He also said he would like to see a closer relationship between the county highway engineers and the department's district engineers regarding construction programs, and assured the county engineers that the district engineers will strive to broaden the relationship.

One of the reasons Minnesota county highway engineers are doing a good job, said Marshall, is partly due to the requirement in this state that all county highway engineers be registered engineers. Because of the high caliber of county engineers in Minnesota, this state is the envy of many other states that do not have this requirement, and whose county road systems suffer as a result, he said.

Institute for 4-H Leaders January 8

One of 10 Area Sessions Slated at N.W. School

Ten area institutes to train 4-H leaders will be held throughout Minnesota during January, Wayne Bath, associate state 4-H Club leader at the University of Minnesota, has announced.

The institutes, to be attended by four adult leaders and an extension agent from each county, include one to be held at Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston, Wednesday, January 8.

Purpose of the training sessions is to improve the performance of leaders in the local 4-H club, thus increasing the effectiveness of the local club program, according to Bath. Approximately 11,000 adults in Minnesota now volunteer their services to local 4-H clubs, giving in time alone what amounts to a total of 16 or more days a year to club activities.

The role of project and junior leaders and of county extension agents in working with leaders will be the topics for discussion at the session. Directing workshop sessions will be members of the State 4-H staff.

Leaders attending the institutes will be presented the material to 4-H leaders from each club in their own counties.

Babson Foresees Good Year in 1964

come than will government-supported prices in 1964.

9. Dow-Jones Industrials. I forecast that the stock market as measured by the Dow-Jones Average will make a new high in 1964, but may sell lower after the elections. However, readers must remember that the Dow-Jones Industrial list, which everyone seems to think represents the market, may be very deceptive.

10. Speculative Stocks. Of the approximately 1510 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, a majority have been going down while the Dow-Jones list of 30 which everyone watches have been going up. This is due to the purchase of Dow-Jones issues today largely by trustees, pension funds, mutual companies, and others that prefer fairly conservative and dividend-paying companies. I forecast that stocks not in the Dow-Jones list will do better proportionately in 1964 than they did this year.

11. Switching. Based on my above forecast, and having learned that only buying can send stocks up, I predict that 1964 may prove to be a good year to switch from some of the overcrowded Dow-Jones stocks into other issues that are now overlooked.

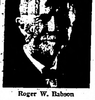
Government Bonds. The only government bonds that interest me are the long-term ones which may now be purchased at a discount to use in payment at par for death taxes. I forecast that more government bonds will be issued during 1964 and that their prices may gradually sag as money becomes tighter.

13. Corporation Bonds. Those buying corporate bonds should either stick to issues of under five years' maturity or keep their money in the savings bank. I predict that long-term corporation bonds will drop in price in 1964 as interest rates rise.

14. Tax-exempt Bonds. Likewise, I predict that long-term tax-exempt bonds will decline next year. They are even more overpriced than corporation bonds, because of heavy bank buying during the past two years. I do not look for this to be repeated in 1964. Therefore, I would certainly confine buying of tax-exempts to short maturities; and I would avoid revenue bonds.

15. Interest Rates. I forecast that interest rates will continue at least as high as today, and will possibly rise through 1964 in order to keep gold here in this country and uphold the value of the dollar.

16. Devaluation of Gold. I forecast that there will be no devaluation of gold during 1964. I am personally acquainted with conditions in Africa, and will say that those who wish to speculate in gold mines should consider American-South African Investment Co. Ltd. Readers should remember, however, that gold-mining stocks will go down as well as up, in accordance with many different conditions.



Roger W. Babson

17. Profits. I forecast that corporate profits will continue to rise in 1964, though possibly at a somewhat slower pace than recently.

18. Copper Prices. Commodity prices are dependent on two factors: Demand and supply. Take copper: I believe demand will continue to increase during the electrical era we are now in. And, since my visit to Africa, I feel the supply of copper is almost unlimited. Hence I forecast little change in price on balance in 1964.

19. Other Basic Raw Materials. With some few exceptions, the above applies generally to many of the basic raw materials, including iron and steel, and especially aluminum. The present firming in quotations will not carry much further and could be subject to setbacks later in the year.

20. Sugar. Sugar prices, however, will hold in a generally high range all through 1964.

21. Building — Suburbia. I forecast that new building will continue around present levels through 1964, with additional growth in "suburbia". This applies to single homes and to apartment houses, which could easily be overbuilt as the hotels and motels have been.

22. Public Construction. Otherwise, strength in building will occur mainly in the public sector—especially roadbuilding.

23. Real Estate. I predict that farms on the "right side" of cities will constantly increase in value during 1964. I say "right side" because every city seems to have some one best direction in which to grow. This usually is toward the higher land and often to the west; but this is something subdivision developers must watch very closely.

24. Rural Areas. As I have said before, the way to buy real estate profitably is to drive out the main road away from the city in which you live, on the "right" side. Every few miles, stop and inquire the price of land; so long as it is quoted by the foot, get back in your car and drive until it is quoted by the acre. Everything else being equal, I forecast that the purchase of this land in 1964 will show you a profit over the long term.

25. Florida Property. There is still a lot of land in Florida, and there are many retired people who are hoping to move there. I forecast that your best Florida buy in 1964 will be waterfront property. God made only so much waterfront land; but there is an enormous amount of interior land which for many years will be good only for pasturage. Do not buy land—anywhere—unless you see it; don't depend on blueprints, catalogs, and super sales organizations.

26. Florida Home. I believe a small home in a small Florida city, and ownership of the vacant lot on each side thereof, will prove a safe and attractive investment in 1964 for anyone who has a check coming in regularly from the North.

27. Advertising. While TV advertising will continue strong for patent medicines and some other products, I forecast that honest newspaper advetising will hold its own. Newspaper ads can be cut out and kept for reference, which is impossible with radio or TV ads.

28. Newspapers. I forecast that competing newspapers will continue to consolidate; and there may possibly be a return to the days when newspapers represented the opinions of some one man" with courage, influence, and personality rather than the decisions of a "cold" board of directors. Note that this is something television is already trying to develop in its news reports, and newspapers must match it.

29. Strikes. I believe that 1964 will be free from large strikes. The "big show", of course, will be the negotiations between the auto workers and manufacturers. However, I predict that both sides will arrive at a peaceful settlement before the deadline.

30. Wages. While labor will not get all the pay increases it wants in 1964, it will get the equivalent in "fringe benefits".

31. Employment. I forecast employment will rise furthur in 1964, due to a prosperous economy with new and expanding operations. Unemployment will rise, too, because of the influx of young job seekers and displacement of unskilled workers by automation.

32. Work Week. There will be continuing agitation to cut the 40-hour week in 1964 to a 35-hour week with the same pay. I forecast this will not be accomplished. There may be a compromise to 37½ hours, though this will depend largely upon President Johnson.

33. Foreign Trade. Rising automation in the U. S. in 1964 will enable us to compete more effectively with lower per-man hour labor costs in Europe. Labor costs in Italy are already rising, and inflation is threatening Europe—particularly Italy and France.

34. Inflation. Like the rest of the world, we will be tempted to resort more and more to inflation; but I forecast this will not be a vital factor in 1964.

35. Living Costs. There will be continued upward pressure on living costs during 1964, even though the Administration may soft-pedal any abnormal rise in the Labor Department's index to prove that costs are being held down.

36. Retail Sales. I forecast that 1964 will show an increase in retail sales and in installment purchases.

37. Recreational Equipment. I forecast that the great increase in leisure time and the consistent gains in personal income will give manufacturers of recreational equipment a prosperous year in 1964.

38. Synthetic Clothing. I forecast that this new industry will develop notably in the United States during 1964, particularly as regards specialty work clothes.

40. Auto Parking. The auto companies are devoting much study to the parking problem. I forecast real progress toward mechanical parking in 1964.

41. Seat Belts. I predict that insurance companies will put added pressure during 1964 on all state governments to enact legislation requiring "roll-up" seat belts on all cars.

42. New Inventions. I forecast that rapid strides will be made in 1964 in the direction of transferring mass through matter.

43. Electronic production. I forecast a great increase in electronic manufacturing in 1964—with emphasis on adaptation of space efforts to military applications.

44. Air Conditioning. I predict radical changes in air conditioning in 1964 via the reduction, and later elimination, of moving parts in the heat-withdrawal machinery.

45. Electric Heating. I forecast experiments in electric heating in 1964 whereby radio waves will heat only the individuals in the room, but not the air.

46. Oceanography. I forecast great developments in 1964 in mineral recovery, food supplements, new chemical derivatives, etc., obtained through oceanographic research.

47. Cuba. People in Florida have no reason to worry about their nearness to Cuba in 1964. Russia will undoubtedly keep a controlling finger on Cuba until she decides to withdraw in a swap of some kind with the U. S. in connection with Berlin, or West Germany.

48. War. There will be no World War in 1964, and even the "cold war" pressures should gradually soften and prove less costly. I, however, am watching carefully how President Johnson and Premier Khrushchev get on together.

49. Russia. I predict that the Russian government will vastly increase the manufacture of electrical appliances, and will have a 100 per cent owned installment company which it will operate without competition. When I was in Russia it was evident from my talk with the young people that they would have to be given more of the advantages enjoyed by the free nations.

50. In this connection I shoud say that, like the U. S., Russia is very rich in natural resources—and in research. This latter is especially important these days. I was much impressed, during my visit, with the Russian educational system which is developing a very able generation of young people. I forecast, however, that Mr. Khrushchev's real problem will be how long he will be able to hold these young people in line!

JUNIOR FIRE MARSHAL
ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

AWARDED flags for their schools as a result of participation in the Junior Fire Marshal program were principals Sister Hyacinthe and Miss Olga Bloomsness of St. Bernard's parochial school and Knox elementary school. Making the presentation was Robert Flynn, manager of the Union State Bank insurance agency. Sponsored by a national fire insurance group, the fire marshal program met with extremely high success in Thief River Falls. St. Bernard's reported 100 per cent return of home inspection sheets signed by parents while Knox school had almost 99 per cent returned. In all Thief River Falls schools the total return did not fall below 97 per cent. Children returning the inspection sheets received fire marshal helmets. Christmas safety folders were also sent home with the children prior to the holidays.

Backus Couple Hurt in Mishap At Highlanding

Recovering in Northwestern hospital from injuries received Christmas Day are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kruckow of Backus. The couple received injuries when their car struck the Highlanding bridge about 6 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the Pennington county sherrif's department, the Kruckow car was traveling north on SAR 24 when it hit the bridge railing. Mrs. Kruckow received fractured ribs and a fracture of the right wrist while her husband sustained scalp lacerations. Their daughter Loretta was treated and released from the hospital.

About $600 damage was done to the car with the accident under investigation by the sherrif's department.

Soils vary in their capacity to produce because of differences in plant nutrient content, acidity, available moisture, organic matter content and tilth, say Ohio State University agronomists.

AT THE CHURCHES

Community Methodist
A. Dean Headley, Pastor

"The Gospel on the Campus" will be the worship theme for this "student recognition" Sunday, at both services, 9:30 and 11 a. m. There will be no Sunday school. Youth are urged to attend worship services. Higher education is the church's greatest concern and investment at the present time. Financial support is given to over 300 universities, colleges, junior colleges, and Wesley Foundations throughout the country. Students from some of these will assist the pastor with the worship and sermon period this special day in the life and work of the church. Let us give the youth and their vocation as "students" our hearty support. On what better theme could we close the year 1963?

There will be no Confirmation or choir rehearsals this week. The next class will be Sat., Jan. 11, at 9:30 a. m.

The Annual School of Missions will start Sunday, Jan. 5, at 4:30 and close at 7 p. m. These classes will again include the entire family with the study on Southern Asia this year. Classes for all ages have been arranged—let each family plan to save the four Sunday afternoons in January. This season Epiphany, is given as the time to consider the mission of the church. We have received the Christ Child—now let us "Go Out" with him in his work.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Hi!

Happy New Year. I hope the year 1964 is a good one for you!

Here is a New Year's suggestion for you. I ran across this item, "The Value of a Smile", and I thought I would pass it on to you.

It costs nothing, but gives much;
It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give;
It takes but a moment, yet the memory of it sometimes lasts forever;
None of us is so rich or mighty that he can get along without it, and none is so poor but that he can be made rich by it.
A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business and is the countersign of friendship.
It brings rest to the weary; cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad and it is nature's best antidote for trouble.
Yet, it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away.
Some people are too tired to give a smile. Give one of yours, as none needs a smile so much as he who has no more to give.

Are you planning on entering the radio speaking contest in February 1? The topic is, "What Is My Responsibility in Bettering Inter-Racial and Inter-Religious Understanding?'

We Americans live in a dynamic and rapidly changing society and world. Our society and the world society is composed of many religious and racial groups, and each one of these groups in some small or large way is different from the others. At the same time each religious and racial group, and the individuals in it, have great similarities and much in common.

Do we know what these differences and similarities are and do we understand them?

Another question we need to ask ourselves is—why is it important to improve our understanding of religious and racial groups? To get at the answer we need to look at the speed with which the world and our way of living is changing and the rapid means of transportation and communication available to us. Probably more important, we need to have a greater understanding of how interdependent the whole world is today and what it will be tomorrow. We must examine the value system of our democratic society in relation to racial and religious groups, and see if this is consistent with our individual values or the values of our communities.

Therefore, take a look around you at your community, at our nation and at the world. Do you find that ideas about other racial and religious groups are based on inaccurate and misleading information? Are these stereotypes about racial and religious groups harmful, and if they are harmful—who suffers? Also, learn about prejudices, how they develop and how they can breed harmful thoughts, words and actions.

Finally, look at your own responsibility in bettering inter-racial and inter-religious understanding. What should you learn and how can you translate your new knowledge into responsible action?

You are dealing with a broad topic and one which you can approach from many different directions. Your sources of information are many. They include libraries, current magazines, newspapers, and public affairs programs on TV and radio. Above all, look at yourself, your family and the people you know. What are your feelings, experiences and observations on the topic?

All members of 4-H clubs in Minnesota may take part in community and county public speaking contests. Winners of county contests must be 14 years of age but not more than 21 years of age on January 1, 1964. The Pennington county contest is on Saturday, February 1.

All speeches should be original and 5 to 7 minutes in length. For help in preparing your talk, use communications bulletin No. 13, "Organizing Your Speech". For help in delivering your talk refer to information service series No. 11, "4-H'ers On the Air." You need not memorize your talk.

For the county contest you will need four copies. If the copies are typewritten, please double space.

Good luck 4-H'ers and see you on Saturday, February 1!

Thieves Sextet Tips G. Forks 8-4

The senior hockey Thieves opened their 1963-64 Northwest Hockey league schedule by scoring an 8 to 4 win over coach Cliff Purpur's Grand Forks Warriors in a game played at Grand Forks on Saturday night.

The Thieves will engage the Crookston Pirates in a game on the Arena rink Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Saturday night's game, which was played in the Winter Sports Building on the UND campus, did not get under way until 9:30 P. M. A preliminary game, between the St. James high school team and the Devils Lake high school team, was forced into an overtime period, with the result that the Northwest league contest was delayed.

Dale Wennberg, scoring four goals during the game and getting three of these counters in the third period, sparked the Thieves to the win over the Warriors. The Thieves had only eleven players suited up for the game, and one of these, defenseman Dick Johnson, saw only limited service. Johnson suffered a gash under the jaw in the first period, necessitating seven stitches, and, after sitting out the second period he returned to action in the third period only to receive a cut over his left eye that required five stitches.

Cal Offerdahl, making his first appearance in the nets for the Thieves in a number of years, played a strong game as goalie, having 29 stops. The Warriors' Terry Greenwood also "enjoyed" a busy night, having 35 stops.

Research Group Makes Report on 1963 Legislature

Changes In Tax Laws Are Cited by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association

State lawmakers last week received a 52-page statistical review of what they did in the 1963 legislative session. The latest research bulletin of the Minnesota Taxpayers association entitled "Financial and Administrative Review — 1963 Minnesota State Legislature" was prepared by the association's research division.

The legislative review is published biennially and widely accepted as basic reference material on state financial and administrative affairs. It is sent to public libraries state officials, newspapers and approximately 3,000 members of the taxpayers group.

"Analysis of the 1963 legislative enactments revealed that in respect to taxes, the legislature established a number of new highs," Harold T. Miller, research director of the associated, said.

State spending was increased to an all-time high level

Cigarette tax rate boosted from 7 cents to 8 cents per pack.

Gasoline tax rate raised from 5 cents t o6 cents per gallon.

New 10 cent-per-pound tax on colored oleomargarine enacted.

Provision made for 1504 new state jobs.

More income tax revenue diverted from primary and secondary school use than ever before.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Olson Die in Car-truck Crash

A vacationing Crookston couple on their way south to spend the winter, were killed Wednesday in a head-on collision between their car and a dump truck near Carrizozo, N. M., says the Crookston Times.

Victims of the fatal mishap are Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Olson of Crookston, who left Monday for Tucson, Ariz., where they planned to spend the winter.

Injured and hospitalized with head injuries in the truck driver, Arthuro Osorio, 25, of El Paso, Texas. The investigating policeman Frank Knoblock said the empty dump truck was traveling on the wrong side of the road.

Residents of the Crookston area for many years, Mr. and Mrs. Olson lived at 712½ Sampson St. here. They had also lived at Warren and Fisher. Mr. Olson recently retired as salesman for Mason Chevrolet Co. He was born at Fisher on June 13, 1901.

Grand Forks Defeats Prowler Sextet 1 to 0

The Grand Forks Central Redskins, on a third period goal by Pete Ryan, defeated coach George Schlieff's Prowlers 1 to 0 in a high school hockey game played at Grand Forks on Saturday afternoon.

The Prowlers will compete in the invitational tournament being played at Roseau on Friday and Saturday. On Friday evening, December 27, with the face-off scheduled for 7:30 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the Alexander Ramsey team of St. Paul in a 9:00 p.m. game. On Saturday night, with the face-off again slated for 7:30 p.m., the Prowlers will face the Alexander Ramsey squad, while at 9:00 p.m., the Eveleth squad will play the Roseau Rams.

In Saturday afternoon's nip-and-tuck tilt at Grand Forks, and which was played on the ice sheet in the Winter Sports Building on the UND campus, the game was in a scoreless knot until late in the final period. At the 8:10 mark of the period, Ryan, from in close, banged a rebound into the east goal to provide coach Sergio Bambucci's squad with their victory goal. Jeff Docken, after getting a centering-out pass from Ken Hankerson, who had gained posession of the puck behind the Prowler net, whipped a shot at the goal which was stopped by goalie Dave Erickson. Ryan was in position to slam in the rebound.

Following the Holiday tournament at Roseau, the Prowlers will resume Region Eight conference play by meeting the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston on Monday, December 30. The 'B' squad game, between the Prowlers and Pirates, is billed for 6:30 p.m.; with varsity game scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

He Was a Good One

It was a shock to his many friends in Region Eight athletic circles to hear of the sudden death, on Sunday, of Earl Hoffman. Earl, who was only 53 years old, died in a hospital in Grand Forks a short while after being admitted to the hospital. Funeral services were held in Grand Forks on Tuesday.

Hoffman, who was a native of Grand Forks and attended the University of North Dakota where, in the 1930's, he was a center on the football squad, was very well known here. For many years he was an official of high school and college athletic games, and it was as a referee that he became known here. In the 1940's and 1950's, Hoffman was on the whistle for many, many Prowler football and basketball games.

And Earl was a top-flight official. He had a pleasing personality, and he had the happy knack of maintaining control of the game and the players without resorting to a threatening and belligerent attitude. Earl had not been active as an official in recent years so the Prowlers of the past couple of seasons were not acquainted with his ability as a referee. But there are many former Prowlers, and fans, too, who will remember Earl as a welcome sight on a basketball court or a football field.

Cannonball Deliveries

After watching the men's bowling leagues in action for a couple of months, and noting the deliveries of the local keglers I would like to place in nomination the following as the city's cannonball delivery team: Mel Scholin of the T & S Implement; Jim Muzzy and Helmer Skomedal of the Daleford Farms; Jack Hoppe of the Hartz Wholesale; and Orv Gillespie of the Thief River Creamery and KTRF.

Carl Onwwa, the genial proprietor of the Family Bowl lanes, winces whenever he sees Mel, Jim, Helmer, Jack or Orv send a thundering delivery down the alleys. Fact is, Carl has been trying to change the delivery of a couple of these bowlers, and he has given quite a bit of attention to Mel Scholin. Mel bowls with Carl on the Thief River Realty squad, and he, Carl, has been trying to get Mel to develop a four-step delivery and throw a hook ball. But not Mel, he just rears back and fires—and gets a good average, too.

It Requires a Program

For many years the hockey program at Roseau has been recognized as a model of efficiency, and so it is as it continues to develop young players who move up into high school hockey with the Roseau Rams.

And now the Warroad Warriors are beginning to benefit from the PeeWee program that is in operation up there. Says Cal Marvin: "Dick Roberts is holding PeeWee practice each day and over 40 boys have answered the call to date. The local school would have to look long and far to find a buy of Dick's ability to do the job. Every member of this year's high school team has come up through the kid hockey program. And occasionally a few are good enough to make the big jump from PeeWee to varsity hockey. A year ago, Gordy Huerd; and this year we have George Ganyo and Van Holmgren. It may not be the best minor farm system, but it's the best we have ever had—and it's non-salaried all the way."

Incidentally, Cal states that Roger and Bill Christian will be leaving Warroad on Sunday and will join up with the United States Olympic team and play with the squad against the Czechs' Olympic team in Chicago on Dec. 30.

Plan Relocation Work on T.H. 59 at Detroit Lakes

Right of way agents of the Minnesota highway department in January will start interviewing property owners along the routes of three proposed highway relocation or construction projects in Becker and Otter Tail counties, it was announced in the central offices of the department in St. Paul.

One of the projects in Becker & Ottertail counties on which right-of-way agents will start interviewing is the proposed improvement of TH 59, 3.5 miles north of the south Becker county line to the north junction of TH 34 (Dunvilla) a distance of 11.6 miles.

The work calls for grading and bituminous base, mostly regrading of the old location of the highway but some in new locations. Approximately 30 parcels of property will be affected. The project is scheduled for letting during the second quarter of calendar year 1966.

388 Deer Tagged By 1,443 Hunters At Agassiz Refuge

Hunter Success Drops To 27 Per Cent; Warm Weather Hurts Hunting

A total of approximately 1,443 deer hunters tagged 388 deer on the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge during the recent nine day season, according to Herb Dill, refuge manager. This includes the adjoining state-owned Elm Lake and Eckvoll game management areas, he added.

Last year, during a five-day season, approximately 949 hunters tagged 332 deer in the same areas. The average yearly harvest of deer at the refuge, based on records for 14 years of hunting, is 330.

Dill explained that the number and identity of hunters is learned from a tally of automobile license plates. Aerial surveys are used to determine the total number of cars.

About 70 per cent of the deer hunters at the refuge originated from the Marshall-Pennington-Polk area, he said. While the total number of deer harvested was somewhat above the yearly average, only 27 per cent of the hunters were successful. Extremely dry, warm weather handicapped the hunters.

Old-timers Trim Thieves Six 9-8

An entertaining exhibition hockey game was played in the Arena rink on Christmas night, and the Old Timers, for the first time since the series was started six or seven years ago, were successful in deffating the Thieves. The line of Joey Poole at center, Marv Jorde at right wing, and Swede Lund at left wing, and accounting for seven goals, defeated the Thieves, 9 to 8. Mike Jajostek and Jerry Jorgenson were the other scorers for the Old Timers squad.

The Old Timers bounced away to a 6 to 1 lead in the first period, with Jorde being credited with a "hat trick" on his three-goal effort. Jorgenson, Lund, and Jajostek also hit the meshes in the south goal in the opening period. Larry Poole, with a goal at the 14:51 mark, tallied the Thieves' line score.

The Thieves notched four goals in the second period while holding the Old Timers to single goal, that by Lund, and pared the lead to 7 to 5.

The Old Timers added a pair of goals in the third period to gain a 9 to 5 lead with less than ten minutes of the game to play. But the Thieves uncorked a scoring flurry, sending three quick goals past goalie Jack Hoppe, and trailed by one goal, 9 to 8, with six minutes to play. The Old Timers held off the surging Thieves in the final minutes to gain a well-earned win.

The Thieves will play the Crookston Pirates here on Sunday afternoon in a Northwest hockey league encounter, with the face-off scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

2,000 Mallards Are Banded at Agassiz Refuge This Fall

A total of approximately 2,000 mallards were banded at the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge this fall, according to Herb Dill, refuge manager. Other species of ducks banded were wood ducks, blue-winged teal and pintails.

Band returns are usually made by hunters. The information from these returns is the basis for most of the hunting regulations.

Dill added that the most interesting band return, as a result of the work this fall, was from a blue winged teal. This teal was banded at the refuge on September 19, 1963. It was recovered near Concepcion Del Oro, Mexico, on September 29, 1963. This is distance of approximately 2,000 miles which the duck covered in a little over 10 days.

Nonfarm Jobholders Rise above '62 Total

Minnesota's nonfarm employment dropped almost 13,000 in November, but the total number at work in the state last month was still over 17,000 higher than in November 1962, according to Frank T. Starkey, Commissioner of Employment Security.

The decline in employment from 1,027,500 in October to 1,014,600 in November was considered a rather normal seasonal drop for the time of year, he said, and was due mainly to the first significant curtailment of outdoor activity.

Manufacturing employment declined by 3,600 jobs between October and November, with the level in durable-good producing firms decreasing by 800 and nondurables by 2,800. Half of the loss in durable goods ocurred in the stone, clay, and glass industry, which includes employment in ready-mix concrete firms, Starkey said. These firms are, of course, affected by the seasonal drop in construction activity. Of the total employment loss of 2,800 jobs in nondurables, 2,400 were in the canning and sugar refining industry. This job decline is strictly seasonal in nature, and it continues the decline that began in October. Most of the decrease was in canning firms as the vegetable pack neared completion.

Nonmanufacturing employment declined by 9,700 jobs between October and November, with all industries except government showing employment decreases. The largest decline was in construction (6,500), and this is very close to the ten year average (1953-62) decline of 6,700 jobs between October and November.

Employment in mining and quarrying dropped by 800 jobs from October to November, with 500 being lost in mining. This drop of 500 in mining employment was substantially less than the ten year average decrease of 1,200 jobs between October and November. However, it must be remembered that mining employment is at its lowest level since 1941; so any fluctuations in employment can be expected to be less than usual, according to Starkey.

The largest single-industry employment gain between November 1962 and last month was in retail trade, which increased 4,500.

Government, the only major group that showed an employment gain from October to November, increased by 1,600. Employment in State and Local educational institutions increased seasonally by 1,800 during the month while employment in other governmental functions decreased by 200. Employment in education also increased by 1,700 from a year ago, reflecting gradually rising school and college enrollments generally.

Starkey reported that production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $106.02 per week in November by receiving an average of $2.59 per hour for 40.9 hours of work. The corresponding figures for October were $105.35, $2.58, and 40.8 and those for last November were $104.24, $2.56, and 40.7.

Unemployment in Minnesota increased from 44,300 in October to 57,300 in November, an increase of 13,000 but 1,500 lower than last November. The November unemployment rate was 4.0 per cent, up 3.0 per cent in October, but down from the 4.2 per cent rate of last November, he said.

November was the third month this year that showed a somewhat better unemployment picture than the corresponding month of 1962. When December data is available, it will be easier to determine if the November data was due only to the mild weather or if it indicates a possible change in the cyclical pattern.

Says Fund Slash Will Hurt Mental Health Program

State Association Says Governor's 5 Pct. Cut Will Handicap Program

Inquiries coming in to the Minnesota Association for Mental Health office indicate a widespread concern that Gov. Karl Rolvaag's 5 per cent cutback order will substantially handicap the state program for the mentally ill, a letter this week to the Governor from Judge Donald S. Burris, Association President, said.

Judge Burris' letter questioned whether it is true economy to lower the standards of prevention and care in mental illness. "To lower the existing standards now would cost the state many millions of dollars in the decade ahead," the letter said.

"If the proposed cut in the annual budget of state mental hospitals and the state mental health program must actually go into effect then we urge that the manner in which the cut is effected within the Division of Medical Services of the Minnesota Department of Public Welfare which operates our state mental hospitals be determined by that Division and certainly not by officials from other departments," Judge Burris' letter said.

"As you know," the letter said, "real progress has been made in recent years in Minnesota in the field of mental health but the fact remains that our state still has a long way to go. This is particularly true in the area of the number of personnel required adequately to staff our state mental institutions.

"The 1963 Legislature apparently provided for no personnel increase over the previous biennium in one hospital; a decrease in another and only very minimal increases ranging from one person to a maximum of 18 in the other five hospitals."

MINNESOTA'S BLESSINGS of abundant food were brought to mind and recognized this year at the annual state Christmas tree lighting ceremony on the Capitol lawn, Dec. 9. Gov. Karl Rolvaag is shown receiving a cup of dairy egg nog from the dairy industry's Princess Kay of the Milky Way before the tree-lighting ceremony in which both participated. The marketing services division of the state department of agriculture arranged with various Minnesota agricultural commodity groups this year to bring gifts of various products to the governor's reception room to be placed under a tree there and later distributed to charity and welfare institutions. Included were wild rice, butter, honey, grass seed, charcoal, mushrooms, turkey, cheese, eggs, potatoes, meats, maple syrup, beet sugar, pickles, dairy sour cream, apples and egg nog.

State Payrolls at Five Billion Mark

Employers in Minnesota's nonfarm industries will have paid out over five billion dollars in wages and salaries in 1963, according to a preliminary estimate released this week by the state department of employment security.

Commissioner Frank T. Starkey revealed that the total of state payrolls for 1963 is expected to reach $5,003,684,000 or 200 million dollars (4.3%) above the 1962 total. He added that each year since 1947 has seen an increase in Minnesota payrolls over the previous year, and that the current total is over two-and-a-half times as large as the $1,834,100 paid in wages and salaries to Minnesota's nonfarm workers in 1947.

Mining and quarrying was the only industry to show a lower total payroll in 1963 than in 1962, Starkey reported. The decrease of 6.8 percent was due to the continuing downtrend in mining employment in Minnesota. It declined from a monthly average of 14,500 workers in 1962 to an estimated 13,300 in 1963, a decrease of 8.3 percent. The largest payroll increase, 8.0 percent, occurred in the construction industry. Part of the gain was due to a 4.3 percent employment increase; other reasons include wage increases, more highway construction, and a longer working season due to the warm fall weather.

Persons employed in Minnesota's nonfarm wage and salary jobs earned an average of slightly over $5000 each during 1963. This was a 2.7 percent increase from 1962. Every industry showed a percentage increase in average annual earnings during 1963; these increases ranged from a low of 1.6 percent in mining and quarrying to a high of 4.1 percent in public utilities and communications, said Mr. Starkey.

Statistics on total annual payrolls for specific major industrial groups, average annual earnings per worker, and the percent of change from 1962 to 1963, may be obtained on request from the Department of Employment Security, 369 Cedar St., St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Eggen House at Keliher Damaged By Fire Monday

Causing an estimated $5,000 in damage, a fire destroyed two rooms at the Leonard Eggen home at Kelliher last Monday. Eggen is a cousin of Mrs. Clarence Jorgndal of Thief River Falls and has other relatives in this area.

The fire was discovered shortly ater 8 p. m. by Mrs. Eggen and her son Chris and daughter Nancy. Twelve-year-old Nancy called her father at his hardware store and the Kelliher fire department.

Believed caused by an electric heater used to thaw water pipes, the fire destroyed the laundry and utility room and kitchen which had just been remodeled. Paint stored on shelves in the utility room added intensity to the fire.

Removal of wax from the inner ear should be done only by a physician.

Uniform Road Signs Are Required in 1966

The county highway departments, as well as the Minnesota highway department, have three construction seasons in which to comply with the newest uniform sign standards for the nation, according to requirements by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

In the interests of greater ease of travel and highway safety, all aid roads in the nation must by 1966 conform to a manual developed by the American Association of State Highway Officials (AASHO) a year ago.

J. E. P. Darrell, traffic engineer for the Minnesota highway department, brought this message to the state's county engineers at their annual institute held recently at the Center for Continuation Study, University of Minnesota.

The department has from the start been careful to follow uniform sign standards, but it will still cost the department about $1 million to meet the new standards by the end of 1966, according to Darrell.

A road sign inventory taken on state highways a year ago showed that about 70,000 signs will have to be changed either in color, size, shape or legend by 1966. Most of these, 52,000, are smaller than the new standard signs and will have to be replaced.

The inventory showed that 54.5 per cent of urban signs on state highways are adequate, and about 58 per cent of rural signs meet uniform standards.

Darrell told the county engineers that there is one exception to the requirement to comply with uniform sign standards. If a sign meets the standards in all respects except size, and if it meets sign standards in existence just prior to the new manual, it need not be changed until it wears out.

The average life of a highway sign if about five years. Consequently, within seven years at most, county highway signs should be the same as those on state highways, and signs on both state and county highways will be the same as those in other states.

By law, every jurisdiction, including the townships, must comply with the state manual on signs and markers, which in turn must conform as closely as possible with the manual adopted by AASHO. A new state manual on sign standards is due out soon.

Fire at McIntosh Destroys Garage On Main Street

Flames from the second major fire in four days at McIntosh destroyed a large garage and implement firm on Friday. Destroyed was a one-story frame structure with 100 feet of frontage on Main street and owned by William Henney and Don Simonson.

Several days prior to the garage blaze, flames destroyed the village hall. Lost in the village hall fire were all civic offices, liquor store and the fire department. The fire truck, which had been moved to the garage for storage, was moved just in time to prevent its being lost in the second blaze.

The village hall had been the largest building in the community with the garage the second largest. A grain elevator, previously the largest structure in the village, burned in November of 1962.

Ending The Cold War

In a speech to a United Nations assembly President Lyndon Johnson stressed the need for putting an end to the cold war, pointing out that the approach would have to be a gradual one. No one would take issue with him on the desirability of such a program. It was with that thought in mind that the nations of the world banded together in a United Nations organization. We had high hopes then that we were moving into an era of international understanding and peace.

Maybe there is some justification for hope that the United Nations will still serve a good purpose. Representatives from practically all of the nations of the world, representative of all the races, do get together and talk things over. That in itself must be recognized as a step in the right direction.

Unfortunately in too many instances the representatives who meet together are representatives of governments and not of people. The interests of governments and the interests of those who are governed are not always the same. And too often they are diametrically opposed.

In its present form, organized as it is, the United Nations is not likely to be an effective organization for any real accomplishment. As an international organization it has notable shortcomings. The natural conflicts of interest between the "have' and the "have-not' countries are not going to adjust harmoniously in a hurry. A hundred years from now great leaders will still be pleading for an end of the cold war. But the idea should have support.

Foreign Aid

By the time this gets into print the foreign aid question probably will have been disposed of and the final answer probably will not be satisfactory to anyone. Some no doubt will be sure the appropriation is inadequate and others will be equally sure it is too large and ridiculously wasteful.

Leader of those who favor economy is Congressman Otto Passman of Louisiana, and of course, a Democrat. He is chairman of the appropriations sub-committee through which this bill must clear. According to Richard Wilson, chief of the Minneapolis Tribune's Washington Bureau, Passman has headed the subcommittee that has handled foreign aid for nine years and in each session he has fought hard to reduce administration recommendations. According to Wilson:

> "It is usually said that Passman is trying to superimpose his judgment on that of four presidents of the United States and any number of other outstanding personalities. This devastating remark is supposed to crush Passman and hold him up to public scorn as the wrecker of the foreign aid program.
> "The truth seems to be, however, that Passman knows more about the foreign aid program than any president has had an opportunity to know for the simple reason that he has studied it longer and in more detail.
> "It is only a slight exaggeration to say that officials of the foreign aid program would much prefer it if neither Congress nor the public knew much about its activities, except the puff-stories on its great achievements which are not inconsiderable.
> "The official attitude about foreign aid is that it is an instrument of foreign policy used by the president under his constitutional authority to direct this policy. What flows from that conception is that Congress should not, indeed cannot, under the constitution, interfere.
> "This is an impractical concept, which Passman annually demonstrates to be faulty. However, much of what is done under the foreign aid program is hidden from the public. There was a time when it was a secret how the money was divided up between various countries. Even now the secrecy label is so widely used that "it looks like a ticker tape parade when you see us lifting 'secret and classified stuff in the hearings.'
> "Every now and then a little something leaks out, like Lebanese bulls with nine stalls apiece or extra wives for Kenyan government officials, or air-conditioned Cadillacs for Middle East potentates. A suffering public has become more or less conditioned to this kind of thing and would not abandon foreign aid for this alone. Nor is it likely that the public as a whole would end all foreign aid, however much annoyed it may become over waste and incomprehensible spending abroad.
> "But it is clear that a majority in Congress believes that the country wants to go slower on foreign aid, be more selective, be more certain that definite policy aims are being pursued toward a useful conclusion.
> "Last year the White house, the State Department and the Defense Department all said our foreign policy was being wrecked by a billion dollar cut. Yet these agencies finished the fiscal year with a total of $741 millions of unobligated funds on their hands."

Right or Wrong?

Following the assassination of President Kennedy there was some question as to why the Federal Bureau of Investigation did not move in and take charge of the situation. The answer was that there was no violation of federal law and that the assassin would be tried under state law. It was a state problem.

Now there is some criticism becasue the FBI moved in in strength to apprehend the kidnappers of Frank Sinatra, Jr., and in doing so they apparently offended local lawmen and also some citizens of Los Angeles. The National Observer expressed some concern, stating:

> "FBI agents in large numbers arrived in Los Angeles, where the ransom took place, and searched houses, questioned citizens, and blocked off streets without so much as notifying local police authorities. Surely this is disorderly civil procedure. It goes against long-standing, and highly important, traditions that justice is best left to the local authorities, who are the closest to the people."

All of which raises some interesting questions as to a conflict of authority at the federal and local levels. The Observer admits that:

> "The swift capture of the kidnapping suspects is laudable. But the pursuit should have been made with due regard for orderly processes of justice."

There is some justification for concern about a centralization of police authority at the national level. Let's cool off and think the thing through at a later date.

Recognizing China

According to a Reuters dispatch from Paris, President Charles de Gaulle has listed France's recognition of Communist China as one of his diplomatic objectives for the coming year. Such an announcement should occasion no surprise. He has indicated such an intent officially before, with the assurance that his government would not act "immediately." Now, presumably, we can expect the action at any time.

A few weeks ago de Gaulle told U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen that recognition of a thing as big in the world as China is "in the nature of things." That, definitely, is the realistic point of view. Our position, our refusal to recognize Communist China is unrealistic.

For years we refused to recognize Communist Russia, but looking back over the developments since we did recognize Russia, we think that most Americans will agree that our relations with that nation have improved, and are improving. We visit the Russians and the Russians visit us. A few of the barriers to better understanding have been removed, and the hope for an enduring peace must be based on better understanding. We do not strengthen the forces of peace by encouraging hatred based on misunderstanding.

Our good friends the British and the Canadians recognize Communist China as a nation of people that actually does exist, and they trade with them. The British Crown Colony of Hong Kong is one of the world's greatest trans-shipment ports and the British have been getting along well with their Chinese neighbors in that area for many years.

The British and the French have had more experience in dealing with the people of Asia and Africa than we have and they learned the hard way many of the things that we have not yet learned. Britain and France had confidence in our nation under the leadership of President Eisenhower because they had confidence in him personally. In recent years our international status has deteriorated a great deal and former friends have been giving us the cold shoulder. To some extent, unfortunately, we have deserved it.

The billions of dollars we have tossed round so recklessly throughout the world haven't made friends for us. President Lyndon Johnson may give better direction to the spending of whatever additional billions Congress makes available for such purposes. He knows more about government than any President we have had in recent years. But there is a limit to what dollars buy.

We would have more confidence in our future if our government gave more recognition to the importance of a sound program of international relations. Our failure to recognize Communist China is not adding to our prestige in Europe and is helping to maintain confusion and revolution throughout Asia.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—Can a peace time veteran obtain treatment in a Veterans Administration outpatient clinic or by a private doctor and have the VA pay for it?

A—Outpatient treatment or treatment by an approved private physician as well as certain medicines are given without charge ONLY to veterans (either peace time or war time service) with a disability incurred or aggravated in service.

Q—Is it true that there will be a reunion of ninety-four World War II airmen who escaped from France in 1944 in "Operation Bonaparte"?

A—Yes. Three of the Evadees who live in Buffalo, New York, are arranging a reunion of the veterans who participated in Operation Bonaparte. It is scheduled for May of 1964, 20 years after the escape. For details write Ralph K. Patton, 327 Mt. Vernon Road, Buffalo, New York.

Q—I started school September 16 under War Orphans Assistance Act. I understand I would receive $110 a month while attending school. My first check received on October 20th was for $55. Why didn't I receive $110?

A—VA pays for period of enrollment, and considers 30 days a month. You attended 15 days during September, the month the check covered, so you were entitled to one-half of $110. Your last month of training will be figured on the same basis, following completion of monthly certification of attendance signed by you and the school.
